Document Is Returned to Washington to Await Action by Congress.

LENIENCY IS EXPLAINED

Wilson Signed Pledge to Belgium When She Threatened to Quit Peace Conference.

FRENCH FIND MORAL FACTOR

Recall That Wilson Agreed Germany Should Pay for All War Damage in France.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 20 (AP).—President Coolidge tonight approved the Belgian debt settlement.

The agreement, rushed from Washington to Swampscott in a special mail pouch, was brought from the Summer White House to Northampton in a White House automobile by E. C. Geisser, personal stenographer of the President.

Mr. Geisser was here when the President arrived from Plymouth, Vt., for an overnight stay.

The President's signature to the agreement leaves the next step, so far as the American Government is concerned, up to Congress, which, under the provisions of the act creating the Debt Funding Commission, must ratify all settlements.

Immediately after the President had signed the agreement Mr. Geisser left for Swampscott so as to have the document placed in the mail pouch, which was to go forward to Washington tonight from Swampscott.

French Debt a Distinct Problem.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—When France moves to arrange a settlement of her debts to this country her claims will be considered as a question distinct from any agreement made with other nations. Precedents will not govern the situation nor will France be permitted to point to other settlements as examples which should be followed. In other words, France will stand single and alone in the eyes of the World War Foreign Debt Commission, and the sole question on which the funding will be consummated will be the French capacity to pay.

As a basic policy the commission has decided that each nation must make its claims only on its own merits and not use persuasive arguments that because another country received preferential treatment this rule should be followed. Special favors will be granted to no nation unless that nation is able to demonstrate its right to such indulgences.

The rule laid down paves the way to meet French arguments that because Belgium was kindly treated—and there is no concealment whatever that she was—France can demand comparable terms. Even should some nation prove she could lay claim to a moral obligation, something like that incurred by Woodrow Wilson, the commission would consider this claim as a new issue.

But, it was said at the Treasury today, France is not in the same position as was Belgium, for no promises were made to her that German reparations would be accepted in lieu of her prearmistice debt. The same thing, it was said, applies to Italy.

Since the settlement of the Belgian debt terms, great interest has been created in just what the promise of Woodrow Wilson amounted to regarding the acceptance of reparations to aid Belgium in discharging the obligations held against her.

Wilson Commitment in Writing.

This Wilson agreement, which was signed also by Mr. Lloyd George and Georges Clemenceau, was embodied in a letter to Paul Hymans, the Belgian Foreign Minister, under date of June 16, 1919, and stated that the United States, France and Great Britain would be willing to accept German bonds turned over to the Reparation Commission.

Mr. Wilson sent this letter to the Senate and House of Representatives Feb. 22, 1921, covering it with a recommendation that it be concurred in. But as by that date President Harding was nearly ready to take office and the League of Nations had been badly battered in the Senate, the transmission of the document amounted to little more than a turning over of the policy toward foreign debts to the new Administration. Nothing was done about the matter.

The letter sent by Mr. Wilson to Congress reads:

> To the Senate and House of Representatives:
>
> I herewith call your attention to an agreement with Belgium made by the British and French Premiers and myself, which is embodied in the following letter:
>
> "June 16, 1919.
>
> "M. Hymans,
> "Ministre des Affaires Etrangères,
> "Hotel Lotti, Paris.
>
> "Sir: The reparation clauses of the draft Treaty of Peace of Peace with Germany obligate Germany to make reimbursement of all sums which Belgium has borrowed from the allied and associated Governments up to Nov. 11, 1918, on account of the violation by Germany of the Treaty of 1839. As evidence of such an obligation Ger-

Savings of Berlin Waiters Set Pace for All Classes

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Co. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Waiters in the cafés and hotels show the biggest increase in savings deposits of any class of laborers in Berlin, according to the latest statistics from savings banks.

Lawyers, doctors and dentists also show greater prosperity in the last three months, but their savings per capita are lower than those of waiters.

The total deposits in Berlin savings banks amount to 80,000,000 marks and are showing a steady increase despite the alleged adverse economic conditions indicated by the decreased accounts of skilled and unskilled laborers.

Civil Service employes, who last year were credited with 25 per cent. of the entire savings deposits, have now dropped to 15 per cent.

SAYS HUMAN BRAIN EMITS RADIO WAVES

AND CODED LIKE WIRELESS

Long Series of Tests Was Made With Hypnotized Subjects in Insulated Metal Chamber.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—That the human brain is capable of the emission of radiographic waves, which, harnessed and reduced to a code, will create a method of communication between distant minds as perfect as that developed by wireless telegraphy, is the conclusion reached by Ferdinando Cazzamali, an Italian scientist, who is Professor of Neurology and Psychiatry at the University of Milan.

His theory, resulting from his investigation of the so-called radiographic waves of the brain, is significant in that it purports to reveal a scientific basis for the whole phenomenon of telepathy.

Professor Cazzamali's conclusions will be published in the forthcoming number of the Revue Metaphysique. Advance pages of his report, made public today, have aroused the world of French science to an intense pitch of interest. His investigation covers a period sufficiently long to convince the scientists that his conclusions cannot be dismissed as superficial or based on purely accidental evidence.

Ever since 1912 science has been endeavoring to prove that the human body, under certain conditions, is able to emit the radiations on which the whole theory of telepathy has been based without concrete proof. Given these radiations, the next step was to prove that a system of communication similar to that of wireless telegraphy could be developed between cerebral organisms situated at distant points.

Sounds Like Radio Signals.

Professor Cazzamali asserts that he has discovered radiographic waves of the brain through experimenting with subjects in a hypnotic state. He had built an insulated metallic chamber where the subject could remain several hours without any sense of fatigue. This chamber was so constructed as to render possible absolute electromagnetic isolation. He then erected four sets of receivers such as are used in wireless telegraphy.

As subjects he employed victims of nervous maladies whose mental faculties were easily excitable, neurasthenics, epileptics and especially an Italian clairvoyant, Mlle. Maggi. Locked up in the metallic chamber, the subject was put in a hypnotic state, with the face turned toward the wireless receiver.

Then followed a stimulation of the mental faculties of the subject, the experimenter listening to the reactions through a wireless headpiece attached to his ears. Professor Cazzamali declares that he heard through the headpiece sound waves similar to radiotelegraphic transmission sounds which seased immediately upon the awakening of the subject from the hypnotic state and recommenced each time that the subject was put to sleep again.

When the hallucinations of the subject became more intense, the experimenter, through the receiver, could hear whistling sounds and soft modulations like those produced across the muted strings of a violin or cello, these modulations also ceasing as soon as the subject, either spontaneously or through the will of the experimenter, returned to the normal state. The cerebral radio sounds

BISHOP KIDNAPPED BY CHINESE BANDITS; 5 WOMEN ALSO TAKEN

The Rev. H. W. K. Mowll of Toronto, His Wife and 6 Others Are Captured in Szechwan.

HINT OF CANTON BLOCKADE

OUR ATTITUDE CONSIDERED

America Would Not Oppose Operation to Keep Ports Open, London Paper Thinks.

LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP).—Eight British missionaries, including five women, were kidnapped on Aug. 6 by Chinese bandits, report cable dispatches received tonight by the Church Missionary Society from Munyang, Province of Szechwan, China.

Among those in the hands of the bandits are Bishop H. W. K. Mowll, formerly Dean of Wycliffe College, Toronto, and his wife.

All members of the party were reported to be safe and being well treated by the outlaws.

Mowll's Plight Excites Toronto.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 20.—Excitement has been caused in church circles here by dispatches reporting the capture by Chinese bandits of Bishop H. W. K. Mowll. Friends of the Bishop say that he was on a holiday in the hills where the bandits flourish.

Of English birth and education, Bishop Mowll first was associated with Wycliffe College in 1913, when he became a tutor. He was later appointed a professor and from 1919 to 1922 served as Dean. In 1922 he was named by the Archbishop of Canterbury as assistant Bishop for West China.

Dr. Howard's Captors Surrounded.

PEKING, Aug. 20 (AP).—Dr. Harvey J. Howard, the American who was captured some time ago by bandits in Manchuria at the same time that they killed Morgan Palmer of New York State, has been located in a bandit camp about forty miles from Fuchow-Hsien.

A Chinese prisoner released by the bandits recognized a photograph shown him as that of Howard. He said that Howard was being treated well pending payment of the ransom demanded by the bandits.

Troops are reported to have surrounded the district, making the escape of the bandits impossible, but owing to the desire to avoid placing Dr. Howard in jeopardy through an attack, they are being held back and negotiations for the release are proceeding.

British Aroused Over Hongkong.

By T. R. YBARRA.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Coincident with the sudden return of Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain to London to tackle the Chinese situation a report arose tonight that the "Red" Government of Canton has as its real object nothing less than the wiping of Hongkong, Britain's great Oriental emporium, off the commercial map.

This is the true meaning of the boycott rules issued by the Canton authorities against British shipping, according to a report current here.

It is pointed out that the new regulations issued by Canton forbid the transporting of goods from Canton to Hongkong, and as the bulk of the Hongkong interior, trade comes from there, the effect on British business firms is already serious.

Moreover, the Canton Government insists upon the right of searching foreign ships, which is a breach of international law, it is held here. It also forbids the export of food and raw material, which the British call a violation of existing treaties.

Great Britain is the country most affected by these acts of the Canton Government, but other powers, especially Japan, are also involved.

Vice Admiral Sinclair, commanding the British China naval station, has arrived at Canton on the flagship Petersfield to protect British and other foreign interests. It is understood, however, that he has not received direct instructions so far from his Government on how to act in the emergency which has arisen.

Naval Action With Japan Discussed.

Great Britain and Japan have considered here the likely development of the Canton situation. There is accordingly a good deal of speculation in diplo-

John McCormack Buys a Home in Ireland, Where He Will Retire When He Reaches 50

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—John McCormack, the Irish tenor, has bought a beautiful home in Ireland, to which he will retire in about nine years—when he is 50.

"I shall retire at 50, and from now on shall come to London each year to sing in Albert Hall," he said. "However, I emphatically refuse to broadcast. I tried it once in New York and disliked it thoroughly."

The new home is in picturesque Curragh of Kildare.

Many years ago Mr. McCormack bought a lucky black boy figure at the sale of the late Sir John Murray Scott. He gave it to an old London friend who runs a well-known restaurant in Soho, London's French quarter, and now intends to claim the figure for his Irish home.

Mr. and Mrs. McCormack and two children, Cyril and Gwendoline, are occupying the Essex home of Lord D'Abernon, the British Ambassador to Berlin.

"Everybody is happy in Ireland," said McCormack with a half-serious smile and added: "Except those out of office, Ireland is all right and safer than England."

Eating Sprayed Fruit Kills One And Makes 2,000 Ill in Jersey

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—Over two thousand cases of "devil's grippe," as a new malady which has struck this section has been designated, have been reported by physicians in this part of the State within the last three weeks. Most of the cases are in Camden County.

Dr. A. S. McCallum of Barrington said he had treated 500 victims and Dr. Russell S. Magee of Audubon said he had treated 200. The complaint is laid to eating unwashed fruit which has been sprayed to combat the Japanese beetle.

Marian Lyons, 5 years old, of Audubon, who ate peaches which had been so sprayed, died on Tuesday night, and Earl Marshall, 11, of Mapleshade, is seriously ill in the West Jersey Hospital, Camden, after eating sprayed grapes.

MARVELS IN TOMB OF MAYA MONARCH

Tulane Explorers Found Figures of King and High Priests on Walls.

MYSTERY CITY DISCOVERED

Temples Found Where Priestly Astronomers of Ancient Race Made Their Observations.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20.—Further details were revealed today of the discoveries made by Frans Blom and Oliver La Farge of the first Tulane Middle American expedition, who reported on their return here last night the results of six months' exploration of Maya ruins in Guatemala and Mexico.

The explorers added today to their first account of their discoveries, which included the ruins of three huge centres of Maya culture. Many hieroglyph monuments, proof that the Maya domain extended further westward toward the Pacific than had been supposed; examples of beautiful pottery and examples of astounding engineering feats, a description of the burial place of "King X," the unidentified monarch whose tomb and bones they unearthed at Comalcalco, surrounded by stucco relief portraits of a beauty unparalleled among previous finds.

Dr. William Gates, director of the Tulane Department of Middle American Research, met the explorers at Villa Hermosa and the party proceeded to Comalcalco. They were the first archaeologists to visit the ruins since Charney, a French writer, who gave a fantastic description of it back in the '80s and termed the ruins "as big as those at Palenque."

The Tomb of "King X."

The Tulane men soon satisfied themselves that Charney's report was greatly exaggerated and that he had seen little save a few mounds with temples on them, overlooking entirely the most important feature of the ancient city. Mr. Blom discovered a remarkable plaza formation, similar to the one he discovered at Uaxactum a year ago. This was the first real astronomical observatory of the old Mayas to be unearthed.

Here the mounds and pyramids had been constructed in such a relative position to one another that the priests could ascend the main mound and, sighting over three mounds in the foreground, make scientific astronomical calculations. It was from such points that they determined when eclipses of the sun and moon were due to appear, knowledge which enabled them to exercise power over the Indians, who feared the terrifying occurrences. The Comalcalco observatory, however, is not so well arranged as that of Uaxactum.

The tomb of "King X" was found in the main mound. It consisted of a small room, nine feet long and seven feet wide. The explorers entered by the roof, which had caved in. Four square pillars were still standing upright on the floor. These, Mr. Blom believes, must have supported a small wooden table on which the body of the King, clothed in his finest ceremonial garments, lay. A number of human bones littered the floor about the pillars. More than 300 perforated sea shells, punctured at the ends with painstaking care as if to form a necklace, were scattered among the bones.

The most important discovery in the tomb, however, rested on the north, south and east walls. Large blocks of hieroglyphs were inscribed on each and each bore perfect portraits of three men molded in stucco relief. On the east wall the figures were slightly better executed than on the others. Evidently the figure in the centre was that of the dead King and the others those of the highest of the high priests. The sun, entering from the open wall on the west, cast its dull glow on the face of the ruler's portrait late in the afternoon. It was at this hour, undoubtedly, that the burial ceremony took place. The Maya rulers had their tombs prepared many years in advance of their deaths.

The faces of the figures and their headdresses had been carefully molded. The state of preservation was almost perfect.

"I am convinced," said Mr. Blom, "that here we have found nine stucco portraits so far unparalleled in Maya research. They are without a doubt the most beautiful examples of Maya portrait art ever found."

The Tulane explorers attempted to guard the tomb until the local and Fed-

J. A. FOSTER SLATED TO HEAD DRY FORCES IN NEW YORK AREA

MERRICK TO GO TO BUFFALO

NEW CHIEF CALLED FIGHTER

Veteran of Internal Revenue Bureau Has Name for Hard-Fisted Enforcement.

Full charge of the task of drying up the New York area has been delegated to John A. Foster, Divisional Prohibition Director for Philadelphia, according to reports current here and in Washington yesterday. Direct confirmation of the slating of Foster for the New York post in the reorganized prohibition enforcement agencies was not obtainable. But one man in direct touch with the authorities at Washington said he had every reason to believe Foster was the man.

According to the report the designation of Director Foster was determined upon at the conference of dry officers held in Washington on Wednesday at the order of Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement.

R. Q. Merrick, who for two years has directed the work for this territory, is to be transferred to Buffalo, it was said. In his new post Mr. Merrick will have full sway over the fight against rum running over the Canadian border. He will direct an intensive patrol from Buffalo along the border to Rouse's Point and will cooperate with the Coast Guard in the rum war on the lakes.

Expected to Take Charge Sept. 1.

The reports dealing with the contemplated change in the dry régime for this district placed the time of Foster's assumption of control as Sept. 1. Whether there will be wholesale shifting of field agents in this territory could not be learned last night.

The statement that Foster would exchange Philadelphia for New York in the prohibition work was put up to General Andrews in Washington yesterday. He declined to confirm the report. It was learned, however, that he had completed his slate for the reorganization of the divisional prohibition chiefs and would submit it today for approval. In connection with General Andrews's unwillingness to discuss the Foster change specifically, it was pointed out that it had been his intention to announce the changes en bloc.

As far back as mid-July Foster was reported as destined to shift his activities to this city. He is a veteran of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and is known for his stern and thorough methods. It was then said that if Foster moved over to New York his post at Philadelphia would be filled by William G. Murdock, now State Prohibition Director for Pennsylvania. Mr. Murdock, it was said, would hold a post in the reorganized service similar to the post which Foster is said to be slated for here.

Mr. Foster has investigated liquor conditions in Massachusetts and in Ohio and it was his work which Washington officials said led to the breaking up of liquor rings in both States. He was sent into Philadelphia when the Federal officials decided on a vigorous campaign to end the illicit distribution of industrial alcohol. Foster is a Bostonian by birth.

When he took charge of the Philadelphia staff of agents he began a housecleaning the first week in his new job. As the first fruits of his reorganization eight prohibition agents were dropped by Commissioner David H. Blair of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. There were nine agents whom Foster decided must go. He asked for their resignations and all refused. While his message to the Commissioner was on the way, one of the agents changed his mind and resigned. At that time Director Foster said that he planned to investigate the activities of every agent in his jurisdiction. No further resignations of members of his staff were demanded.

Captain Carmine Takes Charge.

M'COOEY WARNS TIGER NOT TO CROSS BRIDGE; WALKER IN HOME DISTRICT RALLY BACKS '5-CENT FARE WITH A SEAT, NOT A STRAP'

WOULD KEEP TAMMANY OUT

MAYOR ARRAIGNS HIS FOES

Begins an Active Fight Against His Enemies in His Own Borough.

SEES TAMMANY DICTATORS

Says Traction Interests Back Organization—Blames Opponents for Transit Delay.

The old-time slogan of the Brooklyn Democracy, "The Tiger Must Not Cross the Bridge," was revived yesterday by John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, in a speech introducing Mayor Hylan at a meeting of the Kings County Democratic Executive Committee at its headquarters, 4 Court Square.

Lamenting the death of Charles F. Murphy, which he declared had deprived Tammany of its greatest leader, Mayor Hylan attacked George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany, and Sheriff Edward J. Flynn, Democratic leader of the Bronx, as tools of Wall Street and the traction interests, and charged that the movement to defeat him was started because the city, in the event of his reelection, would have its own municipally operated subway system. The Mayor also asked if, in the event of his defeat, the city was to be opened to vice and gambling and if revenue was again to flow from these sources.

The meeting of the committee was closed and Mr. McCooey's remarks were made public afterward as he recalled them, while Mayor Hylan's speech to the committee members was made public in its entirety.

The meeting of the committee was said to mark the beginning of an aggressive campaign for the Mayor in his own borough. The Mayor's friends, it was said, had been somewhat disturbed by the reports of the inroads being made there by Senator Walker and the rest of the city ticket. Mr. McCooey, however, seemed to feel that the organization was entirely loyal to the Mayor, and devoted much of his energy to urging the district leaders to get out a large vote for the Mayor.

Recalls McCarren Fight.

In his talk introducing the Mayor, Mr. McCooey recalled the warfare of twenty-one years ago between Tammany and the late Senator Patrick H. McCarren, then the Brooklyn Democratic leader, and said that a "somewhat similar" situation existed now, in view of the fact that Tammany and its allied Bronx organization were opposing Mayor Hylan, and the Democratic organizations of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond were supporting him.

In telling of this after the meeting, Mr. McCooey reminded newspaper reporters of the slogan of that time, which had existed even earlier, when Hugh McLaughlin was the Brooklyn Democratic leader. It also was said that Mr. McCooey had a "compact" with Mr. Murphy, under which agreement Tammany was not to interfere in purely Brooklyn political affairs, but Mr. McCooey had no such continuing agreement with Judge Olvany.

Mr. McCooey urged the leaders of the Brooklyn Democratic organization to work hard for the Mayor, and expressed confidence that they would carry Brooklyn for him by a large majority.

The revival of the old "bridge" slogan was interpreted differently by members of the committee. One cynical veteran's comment was that when Senator McCarren was leader the Brooklyn Bridge was the only ready method of access to Brooklyn from Manhattan, while now there were a number of subway tunnels. He added that, from what he had heard of the Walker organization in Brooklyn, Tammany must be

Broker's Wife Ends Life at Long Beach Home; Says in Note She Is Sorry to Cause Trouble

LONG BEACH, L. I., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Carlie Aline Sibley Didrichsen of 25 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, wife of Ferdinand Van Zandt Didrichsen, a stock broker of 15 Broad Street, committed suicide today by taking veronal tablets in her Summer apartment at 335 East Boardwalk. A quarrel with her husband was said to have been the cause.

She was found in her bedroom in the rear of the apartment by her husband and John Thompson, the superintendent of the apartment house, and had been dead for several hours. By her side were two empty bottles labeled "veronal" and a third from which all but six tablets had been removed.

She left two notes, one to her husband, which read: "Dear boy. Sorry to cause you trouble, good-bye." The other, addressed to the superintendent, read: "Sorry to cause you all this inconvenience. I appreciate all you have done. Cordially yours——."

The local police said that Mr. Didrichsen had informed them that he and his wife had a disagreement last night and that he left to spend the night in New York lest his presence aggravate the quarrel. He went to business in the morning and when he called the apartment here on the telephone and received no answer feared trouble and came down to investigate.

He knocked on the door of the apartment but there was no answer. He found the superintendent and the two tried to force the door, for Mr. Didrichsen had left his key in New York. When this effort failed they climbed a fire escape in the rear and through a window that opened on the bedroom.

Mr. Didrichsen jumped into the room first and discovered the body of his wife. He was badly stricken over the event, and when the City Physician and the police arrived, was unable to talk to them for nearly an hour. The City Physician, Dr. George Reiss, pronounced the death a suicide.

The couple had no children. In the Social Register Mr. Didrichsen is recorded as a veteran of the World War. Mrs. Didrichsen was 34 years old.

Walker Denies He Opposes The Rockaway Boardwalk

Senator James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for Mayor, denied yesterday in a letter to Frank X. Sullivan, his Queens campaign manager, reports that, if elected, he would hold up the construction of the proposed Rockaway Boardwalk.

"Of course you know that rumors to the effect that I am opposed to the Boardwalk at the Rockaways are nothing but political propaganda of my opponents and that there is not a scintilla of truth in these reports," Senator Walker wrote. "I think that this is a great improvement to the Rockaways and that it is of vast importance to all the people of our city."

LYONS REACHES CITY; ASSAILS WATERMAN

Says All the Republicans Want of Rival Are His Fountain Pen and Check Book.

TELLS OF HIS URGE TO RUN

Two Hundred Supporters Cheer Candidate at Station, Then Hold Informal Parade.

Met by about two hundred enthusiastic friends and a seven-piece brass band at the Pennsylvania Station on his return from a hurried trip to Florida last night, former Secretary of State John J. Lyons, candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor, characterized Frank D. Waterman, designee of the organization leaders, as a "knockdown" candidate, put up only to be defeated, and related how he had felt the call to run himself to give the Republicans of the city an opportunity to avoid betrayal and defeat.

The welcome home of Mr. Lyons was somewhat marred by his missing connection at Washington and arriving at a quarter past 7 in the evening instead of at half-past 2 in the afternoon, the time at which he had originally been expected.

Mr. Lyons was met at the train by John C. Lewis, his campaign manager; Arthur B. Murtha, Frederick E. Goldsmith and other friends as the band upstairs struck up "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

First Parade of the Campaign.

Mr. Lyons smiled and shook hands with his friends and was conducted to a waiting automobile and driven to the Hotel McAlpin. It was the first parade of the campaign, preceding that for Senator Walker, Tammany candidate, by half an hour.

There were seven or eight automobiles in the Lyons procession, a policeman in a department Ford and the band leading the way. Nearly a hundred of his adherents followed Mr. Lyons into the McAlpin, where his headquarters will be opened today, and attended an informal reception in the Blue Room.

"My friends," said Mr. Lyons, "I am certainly gratified by this reception. I assure you that it was unexpected, and even when informed of it by a member of the committee at Manhattan Transfer, I did not realize that there would be such a gathering of my friends and such enthusiasm shown.

"Last Friday, just as I was ready to start on a combined business and vacation trip to Florida, I was sitting with a party of friends. It was getting to the last days in which something could be done toward running in the Republican primaries. Something seemed to take hold of me. It seemed as though it were the call of duty to stick. It seemed to me that it was the time to strike, if any one was to strike at all.

"The committee named to nominate a candidate for Mayor had put up a 'knockdown' ticket. I refer to Mr. Waterman, the head of the ticket. I felt it to be my duty to give the members of the Republican Party throughout the city an opportunity to say whether they wanted a ticket headed by a man about whom they knew nothing and about whom they had not been consulted, or by a man who had been of some service to his party.

Saw Party Going on the Rocks.

"I have given thirty years of service to my party and my city, which I love. I thought of Mr. Waterman, who does not know the city or its people, and I realized that the so-called party leaders were leading us on the rocks.

"So I said to my friends, 'Boys, go ahead; I'll stand pat.'

"I had to leave for Florida to keep an engagement, previously made, but within two working days, I am informed, my loyal friends obtained not merely the 1,500 signatures legally required for the petitions designating me as a Republican candidate, but more than twice that amount.

"That spells encouragement. That means success for me in the primaries. I want to tell you that nothing but God Almighty can keep me from running in the primaries.

"I wish to say nothing against Mr. Waterman, to whom I give my most kindly and generous thought. But Mr. Waterman is being used to fill a breach in the situation after the supposed leaders had failed to get any other candidate to stand up and make a fight.

"There were plenty of candidates, but evidently they were not properly persuaded or lacked courage.

"So Mr. Waterman was selected to fill the breach. What they wanted of Mr. Waterman was his fountain pen in one hand and his check book in the other. Let him lock up the check book and he will find out how popular he will be.

RED FLARES FOR WALKER

Old Neighbors Cheer for 'Jimmy' as He Opens Primary Fight.

CITES RECORD AT ALBANY

McKEE AND BERRY SPEAK

Tammany Designees Enthusiastically Received in a Torchlight Parade.

Senator James J. Walker went down among his neighbors in Greenwich Village last night and opened his campaign in the Mayoralty primaries in a fashion that recalled the picturesque methods of old-time political fights—red flares, a torchlight parade, a band, and the hall packed with the people who called him by his first name.

Among his own, Senator Walker started out to deliver "just a talk in the kitchen to the neighbors." But before he ended he promised to "make my voice heard even in Brooklyn" and said that he would make his fight on his sixteen years' record at Albany.

"That's a record of action," he said, as he stepped to the edge of the platform, "that's a record of action, and let me tell you there's no blather skiting in that. I'd rather stand on that record than caddy or understudy for a windmill."

The 1,500 persons jammed into the auditorium of old Public School 3, Grove and Hudson Streets, burst into a roar of applause. There were cries from all parts of the hall for Walker to "Give it to him, Jimmie," and to "Let him know where he gets off."

Standing at the lip of the stage, the slender, youthful looking Tammanyite smiled out at the neighbors. He brushed back his hair impatiently. He motioned time and again for silence, but the crowd kept up the din. Finally he made a mock move as though to turn away and order came back.

For Five-Cent Fare With a Seat.

"And, listen," he said. "It seems to be a habit to talk about car fares. Well, get this right, now, and then go out and spread it around: I'm for the five-cent fare. I have always been for it and I will be for it always. I'm for the five-cent fare with a seat, and not for the five-cent fare with a strap. There's a difference."

Walker, who had said that he would not formally open his campaign in last night's speech, spoke for about thirty minutes. Before he entered the hall and received an enthusiastic welcome his running mates on the Tammany ticket had briefly addressed the meeting. They, too, received a striking welcome from the audience and at the end of the meeting were forced to join Senator Walker on the steps of the school while a thousand or more persons filed past to shake the candidates' hands.

City Judge Joseph V. McKee, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, who spoke first, stirred the meeting when he paused in the course of his speech and, in a deeper tone, solemnly pledged himself, Walker and Major Gen. Charles W. Berry, candidate for Controller, to the five-cent fare. In his speech Judge McKee attacked the record of the Hylan-McCooey candidate for Aldermanic President, William A. Cokeley of the Bronx. He recalled that Cokeley had been the right-of-way agent for the Boston & Westchester Railroad some years ago, and said that Bronx residents still remembered that.

General Berry also discussed the five-cent issue. He said the public was not getting "five cents worth of service nowadays" and said that if Walker were sent to the City Hall "a nickel in the subway will get you more." General Berry, a physician and for many years on the Board of Health, assailed Mayor Hylan's claims for greater health in the city. He said that the personnel of the Health Department "is bright, but they are hampered by obstructionist tactics by persons higher up."

Demonstration Begins Early.

The Village's demonstration to its favorite son began at 7 o'clock, when hundreds began to gather at the headquarters of the Huron Club, the regular Democratic organization, at Broome and Hudson Streets. Lieutenants of Dan Fine, leader of the district, and a lifelong friend of Senator Walker, lined up the club members, and about fifty taxicabs were parked in Broome Street and in Hudson Street.

Members of the Huron Club hustled up and down the street issuing red flares, Roman candles and bombs. Hundreds of the women in the district appeared early at the clubhouse and they were seated in the taxicabs, with American flags. Every machine and, it seemed, every house in the line of march was plastered with Walker posters. "Walk with Walker," said some of them. "Win With Walker" called others, and still others told all who read that the household was "With Walker."

There were fully 1,000 persons in line when the parade got off.

A band was at the head playing the tunes one heard ten or more years ago when red lights and fireworks were common trappings of a political campaign.

The procession headed up Hudson Street to Spring Street. The sidewalks were lined with people—with "Jimmy's neighbors." They were out in their shirt sleeves, the women in their house wrappers and the children out in the street to run shouting by the side of the marchers. The bombs banged in a stealy volley, the red flares turned Hudson Street into a canyon of carmine, and the roman candles and the skyrockets shot up from all quarters.

Walker himself was not in the parade, but Judge McKee was in one of the machines and there were frequent cheers as he went by. The procession going through Spring Street got an impromptu reception from the firemen of Engine Company 30. They were at their apparatus and every bell was clanging and all the sirens screeching as the colorful and noisy parade filed past.

Where Walker Played As a Boy.

Through Spring to Sullivan Street and thence into Canal and over to Varick Street—all streets where Jimmy Walker once played with the "gang." Then into Watts Street and back into Hudson Stree for the final stretch up to Public School No. 3.

Inside the auditorium all seats were taken long before the parade arrived. Leader Finn's men were busy even after the meeting got under way providing chairs for the overflow. Several hundred persons unable to gain admittance and stood outside.

Walker was dressed in a blue serge suit. A pink was in his button hole. His face flushed and paled alternately as he stood silently listening to his neighbors' greetings.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said Thomas J. Horgan, associate leader of the old First Assembly District, "give Jimmy a chance—he's back tonight in the Ninth Ward."

Horgan smiled over at Walker, who returned the smile. Finally Walker got his chance to talk.

"Tom," he said, over his shoulder at Horgan, "and my neighbors. I was asked today to write something for the press about my speech tonight. But I told them that I was merely coming down to talk to the neighbors, and that they knew me and they wouldn't need any message."

Walker had started out in almost a conversational tone, and some of his auditors began to move restively. Finally one of them shouted, "Louder, Jimmy, louder; we don't get you."

Walker looked over at the man who had interrupted and then continued:

"All right I'll talk louder and let me say right here that I'll speak so loud it will be heard even in Brooklyn before I am through."

Shot at Hylan Cheered.

This shot at the Hylan faction over the bridge caught the quick fancy of the crowd and Walker was once again forced to suspend for a while.

"I have no speech to make down here," he said, "along political lines. I cannot come down here to you, my neighbors, with this honor resting upon me and talk politics right off the bat. I cannot be unmindful of what this means to me tonight. If I were to give way to what is in my heart right now I should not be able to utter a word. I certainly would not be able to make a speech in the strict sense of the word. I feel too keenly for that.

"And why not? It was only at 110 Leroy Street, just a stone's throw from this school building, that I was born. I was brought up here and all that I have I owe to this neighborhood. I intend always to stay here and if, on the first of January, they put two lights outside my house, they'll put them right outside 6 St. Mark's Place."

The speaker then turned to recall his early days. He spoke of the influence which his fahter, William H. Walker, had exerted in the old district, and paid a tribute to his father for what he had taught him. He spoke of incidents in his youth and occasionally some one in the crowd would remember them and cry out a line or two to supplement Walker's narration of the events.

"I never have had a hunger for big badges," he said, "nor a thirst for important sashes. There is nothing in the Mayoralty's power that is attracting me. If I left public life tomorrow, after sixteen years in the service of the people, I'd be content, I think. There's nothing in my sixteen years in public office that I am ashamed of. There is nothing to hide, and, thank God, there is much that I can be proud of.

The Compensation Law.

"Take the Workman's Compensation law. There are some men at the press table tonight who were on 'Capitol Hill in Albany the night that went through. They'll remember how I felt about it. I was not speaking at Albany in favor of the Workman's Compensation bill for political effect. I was speaking because in my boyhood I had seen the mangled forms come out of the holds of ships right down here on the 'farm.'

"I had seen the sharks go to the tenement to feast on the misfortune of the injured men and the grief-stricken women. I was speaking that night in favor of that law from my heart. I was visualizing the thing itself; I was looking back with the eyes of childhood. I was speaking for the bill because I knew what it meant.

"It was the same way with other legislation. I knew what it was intended to accomplish, and I knew how much it was needed, because I knew out of my own experience and out of the experiences of you, my neighbors.

"I suppose it has become a habit to talk about carfares. I am going to promise my neighbors tonight that if I am elected Mayor there will be no increase in fares. Thr can't b any increase in fares, and if there could be any increase we would see to it that they were not granted. Rest assured of that; it's the truth.

"I think it would be a wonderful thing to be Mayor of New York City. I'll tell you why. I love New York. I love the city for what it has done for me and for that reason, if for no other, I shall always give to New York City and to its citizens the best that God grants to me."

ATTACK HYLAN ON CROSSINGS.

Four Democratic Senators Approve $300,000,000 Amendment.

Four Brooklyn Democratic State Senators, members of the regular organization of which John H. McCooey is leader, repudiated yesterday Mayor Hylan's attack on the proposed $300,000,000 grade crossing constitutional amendment sponsored by Governor Smith. All four voted in the Legislature to submit the amendment. It was learned that three other Brooklyn Democratic Senators held similar views and would probably express them today.

Among the Senators who declared that the Mayor was wrong in intimating that the purpose of the amendment was to take the cost from the railroads and put it on the taxpayers was Senator Frank E. Johnson, from Mayor Hylan's own district and always considered a strong Hylan supporter.

"I believe sincerely in the grade crossing amendment just as fully as I did when I voted for it in the Senate," Senator Johnson said. "I regret that Mayor Hylan does not approve it."

"I stand by Governor Smith's program and do not endorse the Mayor's position," said Senator Philip M. Kleinfeld. "Human life is more important than dollars and cents. I voted for the $300,000,000 bond issue for grade crossing relief and I still favor it."

"I stand squarely behind my vote in the Senate, said Senator James A. Higgins. "I believe the bond issue plan is the best yet devised for grade crossing elimination."

"I stand just where I stood at Albany—in favor of the $300,000,000 bond issue," said Senator William L. Love.

CLUB DECLARES FOR WALKER.

Coney Island Democratic Organization Attacks Hylan.

The Coney Island Democratic Club, a recognized part of the Democratic organization of the Sixteenth Brooklyn Assembly District, although not the main district Democratic club, came out for Senator James J. Walker and the rest of the Tammany city ticket yesterday. Resolutions adopted by the club attacked Mayor Hylan for delay in building new subways.

"What our people need now is better transit facilities," said Judge Cornelius Ferguson, President of the club. "As Senator Walker is pledged to hurry along subway construction, we came to the conclusion that the best interests of our section will be served by his election. The sentiment of the Democrats of the district is largely favorable to Senator Walker. To my mind the Sixteenth Assembly District will furnish one of the surprises at the primary election."

WALKER A LUNCHEON GUEST.

Silent on Politics at Function of Italian Hospital.

Senator James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for Mayor, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday by the Italian Hospital at the Hotel Biltmore to celebrate the success of its boxing show held two years ago to raise funds. A check for $64,620.91 was turned over to the hospital as the net proceeds of the boxing bouts and it was announced that an additional $10,000, posted as security for the bouts, would be added to the fund within a few days.

Senator Walker in a brief address did not touch upon political matters, except to say that he hoped he might consider the horseshoe shape of the table at which he was seated a favorable omen. Dr. John W. Pigelli, President of the hospital, presided. A. A. Bertini, the treasurer, predicted the nomination of Senator Walker and predicted that he would make an honest and intelligent Mayor.

A feature of the luncheon was the singing of a new song written by Austin Titus and Herbert Spenser, entitled "Every New Yorker Should Make Jimmy Walker the Mayor of New York Town."

HYLAN AT NIGHT MEETINGS.

Several Hundred Cheer the Mayor at Brownsville Rallies.

Mayor Hylan was enthusiastically received at two Democratic meetings in Brownsville last evening. There were three or four hundred, including a number of children, at each meeting. The crowds at each cheered the Mayor on his arrival, and he was so pleased that he held an informal reception at each place, standing on the running board of his automobile.

Joseph Fennelly, Democratic leader of the Second Brooklyn Assembly District, presided at the first meeting, which was at the Brownsville Democratic Club, at Stone Street and Dumont Avenue. Deputy Register Hyman Shorenstein presided at the second meeting, which was at the clubhouse of the Regular Democratic Club of the Twenty-third Brooklyn Assembly District, 1,731 Pitkin Avenue.

Former Smith Worker to Aid Hylan.

The announcement of the appointment of William Griffin as Secretary of the Hylan Manhattan and Bronx Campaign Committee was announced yesterday by John P. Cohalan, the Chairman, at the headquarters at the Hotel Roosevelt. Mr. Griffin, who is an advertising man, was an active worker in Governor Smith's campaign for the Democratic Presidential nomination and a member of the Governor's Committee of 250, named by Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Governor's campaign manager.

KEEP TAMMANY OUT, IS HYLAN RALLY CRY

getting into Brooklyn under, rather than over, the East River.

The meeting was said to have been mildly enthusiastic. Mayor Hylan seemed pleased both with his reception and with Mr. McCooey's talk.

Mayor Hylan's Speech.

The Mayor's speech follows:

For seven long years I worked with Charles F. Murphy, John H. McCooey and the other Democratic leaders to keep peace and harmony in the ranks of the Democratic Party of this city. Throughout this period I have opposed the attempts of outsiders to break up the peace and tranquillity and to stop the progressive march of our city Democracy. I acknowledge gratefully that I have had the fullest cooperation of these leaders. It was because of their help that it was possible to have a united, peaceful and progressive Democracy, working at all times for the best interests of the people.

Unfortunately, however, one of the greatest political organizations that ever came into existence lost its greatest leader and another attempted to take up his work. Fortunately for the people, we have with us the Hon. John H. McCooey, who has stood loyally behind me in the battle to continue the fight for the people's rights, which, after all, is in harmony with the best traditions of the Democratic Party and constitutes its greatest asset.

When I first took office the Citizens Union representative called at the City Hall and advised me that I should appoint to office "high-class" men and that I should not appoint Tammany district leaders to important city offices. I advised the Citizens Union representative that I preferred to take the advice of my friends and loyal Democratic leaders and supporters rather than to take the unsolicited advice of those who had worked with the so-called "high-class" individuals, who expended a $2,000,000 slush fund in an attempt to defeat me.

Says Leaders Are "Unsophisticated."

I kept faith with the Democratic leaders. The list of my appointments to public office is proof of my loyalty. But we lost through death the great leader of Tammany and his stanch ally in the Bronx. They were succeeded by young men more or less unsophisticated in leadership. Though I have given these leaders both recognition and patronage and extended every possible consideration, the influence of the traction interests seems to have been greater than that of the men and public officials who wanted to keep peace in the party.

The traction interests and the Citizens Union appear to be the new dictators of the great Tammany organization. At their behest George Olvany, the head of the Tammany organization, and Edward Flynn of the Bronx organization have deserted the regular city organization. They have placed a ticket of their own selection in the field against the ticket of the majority leaders—John H. McCooey of Kings, Maurice E. Connolly of Queens and David S. Rendt of Richmond.

The regular Democratic city ticket of the City of New York is composed of John F. Hylan for Mayor, William H. Edwards for Controller, William A. Cokeley for President of the Board of Aldermen.

Richard Croker and the late lamented Charles F. Murphy at all times recognized and followed the policy of the rule of the majority. Why the departure of Olvany and Flynn from the strictly adhered-to custom by their placing of a rump or irregular ticket in the field? The question is echoing and re-echoing throughout the City of New York: "Why did Olvany and Flynn desert Mayor Hylan?

In what respect have I failed during the last eight years to satisfy the legitimate expectancies of these new chiefs of Tammany Hall and of the Bronx democracy? Nobody even suggests that I have been wanting in my loyalty to the Democratic organization in Manhattan and the Bronx, or that I have failed to cooperate with the responsible officials of the city to secure harmonious action in the management of its affairs.

Attacks Gamblers and Vice.

What, then, has Walker to give within reason and right to Olvany and Flynn that I have failed to deliver? Are the gates of our city to be flung open for the return of the common gamblers and keepers of dens and houses of vice? Is revenue to flow from these sources? And, most important, is the notorious transit plan of readjustment of the McAneny State Transit Commission to be perpetrated on the public, and is $650,000,000 of the people's money to be turned over to the traction magnates, the Wall Street gamblers and their political friends?

Are the new subways and the bus franchises to be similarly delivered? Is the 5-cent fare provision of the dual contracts to be blotted out and replaced by an 8 or 10 cent fare? These questions are in the minds of everybody. They can be answered by the enrolled Democrats of this city on primary day. And they will be answered aright.

Recognizing the pertinency of these questions, Messrs. Olvany and Flynn have shifted from one answer to another. As a last resort they have assumed a sudden spirit of magnanimity toward other ambitious gentlemen, and secretly whisper that I, having served as Mayor of this city for eight years, should meekly pass out of the picture. Of course, nobody gives credence to this feigned excuse of Messrs. Olvany and Flynn.

The Mayor Reviews His Record.

My road as Mayor of this city during the last seven and one-half years has not been strewn with roses. I have given of myself without stint, and with every ounce of mental and physical energy I have endeavored to protect the people against the currupt devices and designs of the criminal and financial interests.

And I know that the people of New York appreciate the fight which I have waged. As I lay on a bed of what many believed to be a fatal illness the good wishes and prayers of New York's millions reached out to me in the awful hour of darkness and impending death and dragged me from the very brink of eternity.

I do not look forward to the next four years as Mayor of this city with any thought of a life of ease. There have been offered to me innumerable opportunities much more lucrative and far less strenuous. I have declined them all, because I owe a duty to the people of the City of New York, who have twice honored me with the high office of Chief Magistrate of this city.

My answer to Olvany and Flynn is that I am a candidate for re-election because the work which I undertook when I assumed office in 1918 is not yet completed, because I was prevented from completing it by the influence and power of the traction interests; but that success is now within the grasp of the people. I charge that the real reason for the desertion of Olvany and Flynn of the regular Democratic designees is that the traction and financial interests realize that the people are about to come into their own and that it is imperative for them to wrest control of the City Government from the people and to have it turned over to the designees of Wall Street manipulators.

The Transit Situation in 1918.

I came into office in 1918. The traction companies bemoaned their financial insolvency. They were embarrassed because they were overcapitalized and were paying swollen dividends. The B. R. T. had itself cast into receivership by the end of that year. By that time the city, although it owned and had paid for our subways, had no power to regulate the intolerable service which the traction companies gave.

In the latter part of 1918 they began clamoring for increased fares. Requests for increases were dumped pell-mell upon the Mayor and members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. We investigated the financial history and status of the companies, found no justifiable warrant for increases in carfare and turned down flatly each and every one of the requests.

Incredible as it may seem, the receivership of the B. R. T. was permitted by the Public Service Commission and later by the Transit Commission to continue until June of 1923—four and a half years, during all of which time I kept on protesting, demanding that the rights of the people be protected, that the receivership be ended, and that the transit lines come into responsible hands. I was helpless.

I appealed year after year to the Legislature of the State of New York to grant the City of New York the power to regulate its own rapid transit lines, and each year my prayer for relief was denied.

Attacks the Transit Commission.

Finally, in 1921, the intolerable Transit Commission was created by the New York Legislature. McAneny, Harkness and O'Ryan were placed in the saddle. In September of that year they promulgated their abominable plan of readjustment, which provided for buying up all the about-to-be-scrapped surface lines and old elevated lines, at prices to be fixed by agreement between them and the transit companies and without the consent of the City of New York. I made public opposition in every way to the adoption of that plan. Even my enemies will admit that it was because of my opposition that McAneny, Harkness and O'Ryan lacked the courage, although they had the power, to adopt this plan. It would have meant a rifling of public funds to the extent of at least $450,000,000 excess value and a wiping out of the five-cent fare.

It was not until the Spring of 1924, after I had been in office for nearly six and one-half years, that any measure of relief was granted by the Legislature to the City of New York. Then there was created the Board of Transportation. The Board of Transportation has been in office only since July 1, 1924—but a year—during which time it has formulated plans, laid out routes for a new municipally owned subway and let $37,000,000 worth of rapid transit construction contracts. The dirt is flying and the subway is being built.

Thus it is that, although I have been in office seven and one-half years, it is only a year since any power was given to the City of New York to find any solution of its transit problems. Even today the City of New York has no power to control or improve the service which the people get on our existing rapid transit lines. That power is still absolutely vested in the McAneny State Transit Commission; and it is for that reason that the people have no relief.

My statement to the public is that the reason Olvany and Flynn have deserted me at this time is because it is recognized by the private traction interests that at last it is within the power of the City of New York not only to build, but to operate its own subways. The traction interests have little to fear so long as all power over our rapid transit lines is vested in the New York State Transit Commission which they control. They know that if I am continued in office the new subways will be completed and they will be operated by the city at a 5-cent fare and the profits will go to the people.

I am a candidate for re-election because I propose to make certain that between now and April, 1926, when the term of office of the present Transit Commissioners will expire, that they do not foist upon the people of the City of New York their plan of readjustment and rob the public to the extent of $450,000,000, destroy the 5-cent fare provision of the dual contracts, substitute an 8 or 10 cent fare and filch from the people at least $60,000,000 additional annually forever hereafter. The traction magnates and their Wall Street friends and politicians now see a real danger; and they have resolved that the only way by which that danger can be averted is by turning me out of office and placing Walker in."

William H. Edwards, candidate for Controller, and William A. Cokeley, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen made speeches.

Just before the end of the meeting, Mr. McCooey again urged the members of his organization to get out a big vote for Mayor Hylan. He said that in the past only between 40 and 50 per cent. of the Democratic enrolment had been polled in the primary and asked them to make this percentage larger this year.

ALLIANCE QUERIES HYLAN.

Asks Mayor if He Will Heed Olvany's Requests for Appointments.

The Hylan Seven Years of Progress Alliance, which rather dropped out of the Hylan movement after the Mayor, before his break with Tammany, rebuked Thomas C. Burke, President of the Alliance, for an attack on George W. Olvany, asked the Mayor yesterday whether, if re-elected, he would heed recommendations for appointments from Judge Olvany.

"Events have shown, said Oscar L. Meyerson, counsel of the alliance, "that Judge Burke's strictures on Judge Olvany were mild compared with recent statements made by the Mayor concerning Judge Olvany's sympathies with the traction interests. Moreover, it has become evident that Mayor Hylan merely played politics and was not sincere when he apologized to Judge Olvany, his purpose being merely to placate the leader of Tammany Hall to the end that the latter would look favorably upon Mayor Hylan's candidacy."

HYLAN PLEAS "UNOFFICIAL"

Officer of Police Lieutenant's Body Denies Letters Were Approved.

An officer of the Police Lieutenants' Benevolent Association, who wished to remain anonymous, declared yesterday that letters forwarded to members of the association retired from active duty asking their support for Mayor Hylan had been sent without the official knowledge or approbation of the active members of the association. The letters were signed by Charles J. Schlusnen, who is a retired lieutenant.

In the letters retired members of the association were asked to send replies to Room 217 at Police Headquarters. This room, according to the officer, has been used for some time as a meeting place for the retired members of the association.

SOCIALIST DISOWNS HYLAN AND WALKER

Their Municipal Ownership Views Aren't Enough, Says Norman Thomas.

TALKS OF HOUSING ISSUE

Overcrowding in the Homes Causes More Suffering Than in Subways, He Declares.

Dr. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Mayor, said yesterday that he had been interested in the observation of William M. Bennett, candidate for the Republican nomination, that the municipal ownership and operation views of Mayor Hylan and Senator Walker put three "Socialist" candidates in the field, but denied that this was true.

"Senator Walker and Mayor Hylan are not Socialists, and whatever they are fighting about, except a desire for office, it is not socialism," he said.

"It is indeed a proof of the essential soundness of a position which Socialists have taken for many long years that no candidate except Mr. Bennett, not even Mr. Waterman, dares to come out against municipal ownership and the five-cent fare. But municipal ownership and operation of a unified transit system is only part of the Socialist program. The people of New York suffer more from overcrowding in their houses—I mean their landlords' houses—than in the subways. Only the Socialist and Labor Fusion platform has presented a plank on this subject. Moreover, only our platform has tried to present a plan for achieving a unified, publicly operated transit system free from the curse of the spoils system.

"The other platforms deal in slogans for voters and jobs for the politicians. Tammany Hall and the Republican machine may be forced by public sentiment to adopt some Socialist notions. But only a party built on a very different set of ideas and interests than our political machines represent can make much progress toward using city government as the servant of those whose labor of hand and brain creates the power and wealth of America's greatest city."

FOR LYNCH; MUTE ON HYLAN.

Staten Island Business and Professional Men's League Acts.

The Staten Island Business and Professional Men's League endorsed Borough President John A. Lynch for renomination yesterday, but failed to endorse Mayor Hylan, although Mr. Lynch is running upon the Hylan ticket. It was said that a difference of opinion as to the advisability of endorsing Mayor Hylan had arisen among members of the league, but all that William Shrimpton, its President, and Mark Allen, Chairman of its Executive Committee, would say was that they didn't want to take action on the Mayoralty candidates now.

Bertram G. Eadie, leader of the anti-Hylan forces in Richmond, received a letter from Borough President Lynch, informing him that his application to place Walker banners across streets would be granted. Mr. Eadie had been unable previously to get any definite answer to his application, and had announced that he intended to seek an order to compel Mr. Lynch to grant the application from a Justice of the Supreme Court.

SENATORIAL ELECTION IN WISCONSIN SEPT. 29

Governor Blaine Issues Call for Vote to Pick Successor of La Follette.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 20.—The special election for United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Robert M. La Follette will be held Sept. 29. Governor J. J. Blaine issued the call today. The special primary to nominate candidates for the office will be held Sept. 15. Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman said nomination papers must be filed eighteen days prior to the primary.

Robert M. La Follette Jr., Progressive candidate for the nomination, announced today that he would open his State speaking campaign on Monday. Progressive leaders are a bit nervous over young La Follette's ability as a campaigner, and this, it is believed, is the reason for an early start.

Roy P. Wilcox, Stalwart Republican candidate, will perfect his State organization and is expected to begin his campaign shortly.

Francis E. McGovern, former Governor, his already perfected a State organization.

HUSTED NOT TO MAKE RACE IN WHITE PLAINS

Designated by Democrats for Mayor, He Says His Health Prevents His Running.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Harvey Husted, in a letter to the Democratic City Committee today, declined the party's designation of him for Mayor of White Plains. The designation of Mr. Husted was announced only yesterday by Chairman Murphy.

Mr. Husted gave as the reason for his declining that he did not believe his health would permit him to conduct a campaign and take over the duties of Mayor, in the event of his election.

Mr. Murphy would not say today what steps would be taken by the Democratic organization toward designating another man for the office. This choice is in the hands of a committee which has until Aug. 25 to fill the vacancy, Mr. Murphy said.

CALDWELL IS ENDORSED.

Citizens Union Supports Opponent of Borough President Connolly.

The Citizens Union announced yesterday its support of former Representative Charles Pope Caldwell as a Democratic candidate for Borough President of Queens against Borough President Maurice E. Connolly.

"It is our opinion that the best interests, not only of Queens, but of the whole city, would be served by the removal of Mr. Connolly from public life," wrote Walter T. Arndt, Secretary of the Union, in notifying Mr. Caldwell of its endorsement. "We shall be glad to help you in any way in your campaign. We have in our office a great deal of material covering the record of the present Borough President, and this we will gladly place at the disposal of any representative you may send to this office."

COOLIDGE GREETED IN NORTHAMPTON

President Stops Overnight Amid Scenes of His Early Political Triumphs.

SEES MANY OLD FRIENDS

Motors From Plymouth Through Crowded Villages—Will Return to Swampscott Today.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 20.—President Coolidge returned tonight to his old home, the scene of his first political victories. He was greeted by thousands along the way and a dignified, neighborly welcome was accorded him in the little street where he lived so many years.

Mr. Coolidge slept tonight for the first time since he became President, under his own roof in the rented house he occupied when he succeeded President Harding.

Leaving his ancestral home in Plymouth, where he spent six days with his father, the President, accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, motored the 125 miles, arriving here after a five-hour run to pay a visit to Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Elmira Goodhue. He probably will leave about noon tomorrow for Swampscott.

At the request of President Coolidge no public recognition was taken of his home-coming. Despite his desire that he might return as a private citizen, Mayor Felker and a committee met the President at the border of the city and escorted him by way of the main thoroughfares to the home which the President maintains as his legal residence. The White House cars dashed into Massasoit Street almost before the waiting throng were aware that he had arrived.

There was a shout and cheering when the car came to a stop in front of the plain little house. The President helped Mrs. Coolidge from the car and then turned, lifted his hat and bowed several times to his old neighbors.

President Avoids Speech-making.

Mayor Fieker had prepared a speech which he was anxious to deliver before the President could enter the house. The President, either because of his anxiety to get within doors, or to avoid the speechmaking, was safely inside his own portals before the Mayor had extended him a set welcome.

Undaunted, however, Mayor Fieker proceeded. Turning to the crowd he took a place of vantage on the porch and entered upon a speech in which he told how glad he and the other citizens of Northampton were to have the President back in their midst. He then called upon the President to set a time later in the evening for a reception, but Mr. Coolidge sent out word that he and Mrs. Coolidge preferred to rest.

Captain Lyons of the Northampton police was the first to greet the President as he stepped from his car. The President recognized Lyons, whom he had appointed to the police force when he was Mayor fifteen years ago, and in return to the greeting put out his hand, saying, "Hello, Ed; I am glad to see you."

Captain Lyons intends throughout tonight to stand guard, with half a dozen other policemen, around the Coolidge home.

Mrs. Goodhue had seen to it that the President and Mrs. Coolidge did not have to wait long for their evening meal. Mrs. R. B. Hills, an intimate friend of Mrs. Coolidge, was one of the little party at dinner.

Old Friends Wave Adieu.

The President, as usual, was a little ahead of schedule on leaving Plymouth. When the automobiles swung around Florence Cilley's corner a group of old friends, including Herbert Moore, the President's cousin, and "Uncle Ed" Blanchard and "Ed" Brown, waved the party adieu. The President returned the salute.

The Coolidge car swung into the road which runs down by the village cemetery, and the President and Mrs. Coolidge paid a visit to Calvin Jr.'s grave. They then rejoined the other cars and the start for Northampton was made over the wooded mountain roads.

The route lay through Tyson, where Summer tourists gathered on the hotel piazza and waved a good-bye. At Ludlow a hundred or more villagers congregated at the town square and greeted the President.

At Proctorsville Mr. Coolidge stopped for a brief call on his aunt, Mrs. Pollard.

Owing to road repairing at the town of Chester, a long detour had to be made, most of it through cornfields. In the towns of Jamaica, Townsend and Newfane the President had a cordial reception from the villagers and Summer tourists who make up a substantial part of Vermont's population.

Apparently the people along the President's route knew of his coming, and many houses displayed the national colors. Newfane in particular made a splendid showing of bunting and American flags, and children in large numbers were grouped at the roadsides, cheering and waving tiny flags.

Large Crowd at Brattleboro.

The biggest demonstration of the day was at Brattleboro. The main thoroughfare was crowded with people, and the public buildings and business houses displayed the national colors, and in many instances a large portrait of the President.

Two of the Massachusetts State motorcycle police met the Presidential party at Brattleboro and did escort duty the rest of the trip.

Northfield, Mass., where the President and his wife are known as old neighbors, also turned out in large numbers. Here also the national colors were displayed on many of the fine residences of this town.

From Northfield the trip to Greenfield, a few miles distant, was made at a faster clip than any of the other laps of the journey. The business section of Greenfield was filled with villagers and automobilists saluted with a din of horn-blowing.

From this point, down through the Connecticut Valley, where Mr. Coolidge is well known, every farm house, shop and residence was alive with enthusiasm to welcome their returning neighbor. Workers in the tobacco fields stopped to cheer the President.

HOODED MEN KIDNAP TAILOR AND APPLY TAR

Drive Him From Burgettstown, Pa., to the Outskirts, and Return Him, Feathered.

Special to The New York Times.

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 20.—Four hooded men last night dragged Robert Norris, aged 43, who conducts a cleaning and dyeing establishment here, from the porch of his home, threw him into a closed motor car and carried him out into the country, where he was stripped and a coat of tar and feathers applied to his body. An hour and a half later Norris was thrown from the same car while the machine was passing down Main Street.

Almost immediately he was surrounded by a crowd. Friends hurried him into a near-by hotel, where as much of his coating was removed as was possible. He was then redressed and taken to his home.

Mystery surrounded the affair. For some reason best known to himself, Norris, when visited today by Justice of the Peace W. B. Culley, was uncommunicative and reluctantly answered only a few of the official's questions. He would not say whether he could identify his tormentors nor whether he contemplated criminal action against them. He was emphatic in his request that the county officials should not investigate the attack.

A young woman who formerly resided with the Norris family is said to have been the cause of the tar-and-feather party. Some time ago, according to Norris, he had a quarrel with the young woman and she left his home. Other reports are in circulation tonight linking Norris and the young woman, but so far they are not based on actual knowledge.

Minister Dies in Automobile.

WAREHAM, Mass., Aug. 20 (AP).—The Rev. Walter O. Waters, rector of Grace Episcopal Church of Chicago, died suddenly while driving his automobile through Onset today.

Dr. Waters had been a prominent figure in Chicago church circles and civic life. He succeeded the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires as rector of Grace Church. He was 63 years old, a native of Norwich, N. Y., and a graduate of Hobart College.

All Voters to Be Checked.

A report that Police Captains had been told that in checking up the lists of voters eligible for the primary contest, it would not be necessary to pay much attention to Republican voters, but to concentrate on enrolled Democrats and on those chiefly in Manhattan and the Bronx, was denied yesterday at the office of Acting Chief Inspector Thomas Murphy. The check-up will be made on the voters of all parties and in all boroughs, it was announced.

J. A. FOSTER SLATED TO LEAD DRY FORCES

Captain W. V. E. Jacobs, who was assigned to the Pacific Coast. Captain Carmine will direct the work of the dry navy against the liquor fleet.

The new Coast Guard director entered the service in 1888. He has recently been in command of the Coast Guard division for Alaska and while there aided in the search for Major Martin, army world flier, when the Major's airplane fell. During the World War he was in command of the Algonquin.

"Prohibition can be enforced and will be enforced," he said yesterday. "To say it can't be is to lose faith in the powers of a democracy. It is going to take time and the cooperation of every branch of the Government and the concurrent powers of the State, including the judiciary. What Admiral Billard and Captain Jacobs have already accomplished off the coast of New York and the North Atlantic seaboard is proof positive that the inflow of contraband liquor from foreign countries over the sea can be stopped."

LARGE RUM PLANT RAIDED.

Agents Enter by Hidden Door and Seize Four Stills.

Prohibition agents seized four 100-gallon stills, 1,250 gallons of denatured alcohol and a motor truck loaded with bootleg whisky made of the poison and arrested two men early yesterday morning in a raid on what was said to be the largest illegal rectifying plant known to this section of the country since the Volstead act went into force.

The raid was made by Joseph Wicks of the staff of General Lincoln Andrews and three agents of the Narcotic Squad on the top floor of a three-story building at 604 Pacific Street, Brooklyn.

The four stills were found in operation, the agents said supplying a 2,000-gallon daily output, which was sold at $3.50 a gallon. The agents also seized records which they said would lead them to the plant's owners and to scores of bootleggers in the five boroughs with whom they did business.

Wicks, accompanied by Coleman Manning, Joseph Smith and Marty Meyer of the Narcotic Squad, went to the building Wednesday night.

The agents went to the rear of the structure on Dean Street, climbed an iron fence and found themselves facing what seemed to be a bare blank wall. Inspection, however, showed that a door in the wall had been painted to represent brick. They got it open, softly climbed the two flights of stairs and on the top landing found further progress stopped by a barred iron door. Overhead was a skylight, by means of which the agents reached the roof.

On the roof was a number of hatches open to ventilate the room below. Drawing their pistols, the four men dropped through one of these at the rear of the loft.

There they saw, they said, four great copper coils set in large vats, a great number of barrels and tins and two men working at a boiler at the front of the room.

They moved up so quietly, they said, that the two men were completely surprised and surrendered without any resistance. They gave their names as Pedro Arccard, 28 years old, of 317 Ellery Street, and John Brandino, 35 years old, of 199 Boerum Street, both of Brooklyn. Each spoke broken English and insisted he was but an employe of the place, but denied knowledge of the owners.

Federal agents attached to the office of Commissioner Merrick seized 200 half barrels of beer yesterday in freight cars in the yards of the Erie Railroad at the foot of Fifteenth Street, Hoboken.

CONSUL BRINGS RUM FOR FRIENDS; FINED

Haitien Official Is Caught at Pier With 240 Bottles and a Barrel of Liquor.

GLAD WHEN IT IS SEIZED

Says It Was a Nuisance Importing Contraband on His Diplomatic Passport.

Eugene Le Bosse, Haitian Consul at Manchester, N. H., arrived from Port-au-Prince yesterday, bringing 240 bottles of assorted liquors and a barrel of rum. The liquor was seized and a fine of $1,200 was imposed, which the Consul agreed to pay by Monday.

The drinkables, Mr. Le Bosse explained, had been destined for "wealthy friends" who had importuned him not to come back from Haiti, with a diplomat's liquor immunity, empty handed. He explained that he had planned to sell the liquor to the friends at cost. Actually he seemed relieved when the customs men swooped down on the liquor.

"It is not only a bore," he said, "but a nuisance to bring them liquor every time I arrive. Probably the next trip they would have wanted me to bring a carload."

Mr. Le Bosse arrived on the steamship Nickerie, which docked at the foot of Montague Street, Brooklyn. Although he was traveling on a diplomat's passport, inspectors under Deputy Surveyor Harry Cohen decided to look through his luggage. This consisted of ten cases, eight packages, eight trunks and the barrel. Cohen asked Mr. Le Bosse how much liquor he had. The Consul said that he had half a trunk full of bottled goods and some liquor in bulk.

After finding the liquor Cohen escorted Mr. Le Bosse to the Custom House, where a hearing was held by Edward Barnes, Assistant Solicitor of the legal division. The Consul, who is 60 years old, said that on a previous trip he had brought in twenty cases of whisky without any trouble, adding that he was under the impression that he had the right to do so under his diplomatic status.

Mr. Barnes sought vainly to induce the Consul to disclose the identity of his friends. Mr. Le Bosse said that he would pay his own fine. He insisted that his position as Consul gave him the immunity extended to foreign embassies or legations, but the customs officials ruled otherwise. Pending the payment of the fine Mr. Le Bosse will proceed to Manchester to resume his duties.

GERMAN BOXER BITTEN SAVING WIFE FROM DOG

Prenzel, Middleweight Champion, May Be Forced to End Ring Career as Result of Injuries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Kurt Prenzel, middleweight champion of Germany, was severely bitten today while protecting his wife, who is Fern Andra, an American star of the German movies, from the attack of a mad dog. Though Prenzel received prompt medical aid and was rushed to Pasteur Institute, it is feared his injuries will end his ring career.

The accident occurred in Allen-Hof, where the pair were vacationing, the dog springing on Mrs. Prenzel as she stepped from an automobile. Examination of the dog's carcass at Pasteur Institute showed the dog was suffering from rabies. Prenzel's course of treatment requires twenty days.

REVIVE BLUE LAW FIGHT.

Lord's Day Alliance Will Push Bill Anew, Says Dr. Ferguson.

The Lord's Day Alliance of New York State will support again in the next Legislature the "blue law" bill which failed to pass in the last, it was announced by the Rev. Dr. John Ferguson, General Secretary, yesterday upon his return from a Western tour. The bill would "protect" the Sabbath, he said, and under it many popular activities would be impossible on Sunday, including baseball, movies, golf, dancing and skating. Stores would be closed also.

"The issue is simply this: Is the Sabbath worth saving, or is it not?" Dr. Ferguson declared. "If it is, we must pass laws which grant special privileges to no one. The motion picture houses are permitted to stay open and as a result theatre men are demanding the same privilege. There can be no halfway settlement. Sunday movies must cease."

The laboring classes might be willing to work on Sunday, he admitted, but if they did work it would do them no good.

The first step in the alliance's campaign to be waged this Fall on behalf of blue-law enactment, he said, was the dispatch of a telegram to the Attorney General in Albany protesting against a proposed band contest to be a feature of the State Fair, opening Sept. 12, for which it is planned to charge an admission of 25 cents.

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, August 21—Every correct and complete wardrobe should have its quota of knitted cravats, as well as woven. The knitted scarf is smooth, light, porous. Its mesh-like construction renders it astonishingly elastic and susceptible to quick knotting when breakfast is ready, but you're not. Knitted cravats are procurable, for town or sport, in plain colors, stripes, cross-bars, figures, checks, Jacquard designs and many more to name all which would exhaust your patience before it exhausted the list. Exclusive, but not expensive.

12,000 QUIT AS TEST IN GARMENT WAR

Workers Jam East Side Halls and Union Square in Two-Hour Strike.

DENOUNCED BY UNION HEAD

President Sigman Calls Strike an "Outlaw" Move of Communists.

The climax of the two months' warfare between the governing officials of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the Joint Committee of Action occurred yesterday when 12,000 men and women gathered in eleven east side halls and at an open air rally in Union Square after the Joint Committee ordered a two-hour strike as a test of strength.

The dissension within the union was revealed to the public when seventy-one officers and members of locals 2, 9 and 22 were placed on trial in June following a May Day meeting under their auspices at the Metropolitan Opera House, where Communist speakers attacked the international union officials. At the trial some of the defendants admitted membership in the Workers Party. They began an attack on the Sigman administration, charging that communism had nothing to do with the case, but that they were being tried for their attacks on the alleged undemocratic method of administering the affairs of the joint board, which is a delegated group conducting the affairs of all the dress and cloak makers' union. The defendants were found guilty and suspended from membership, and they organized the Joint Action Committee as their fighting organization.

Calls Strike Outlaw Move.

Morris Sigman, President of the international union, called the strike an "outlaw" movement which involved "but 10,900 of the 70,000 union members." The demonstration, he asserted, was "a fizzle," and he declared it was "the last desperate card played by the Communist 'Committee of Action.'"

Louis Hyman, leader of the Joint Committee which represents Locals 2, 9 and 22, declared the stoppage a success involving 20,000 garment workers whose presence backed up the Joint Committee's demand for the resignation of Mr. Sigman, reinstatement of the three locals and the suspended officers and reorganization of the Joint Board on a democratic basis with proportional basis.

It was impossible to ascertain whether all those in the meeting halls and at the Union Square meeting were members of garment workers' union. At two of the three doors leading into Cooper Union the doortenders said the audience "piled in" and that it was impossible to examine credentials. At the third door the doorkeeper said he demanded to see each one's union book. At some of the other halls employes who were not connected with the unions said that for the most part the audience swept into the halls without showing cards. The Joint Committee's spokesman said that all or nearly all of the persons in the meeting places were garment workers. This was disputed by the international union officials. The latter's estimators visited the various halls and announced that 10,900 was the maximum number they could estimate as having taken part in the demonstration. The Joint Committee's figure was 20,000. A canvass by newspaper men indicated 12,000.

Incident Disturbs Peace.

Except for one incident in front of the headquarters of the Joint Board on Twenty-fifth Street and Lexington Avenue, the demonstration was a peaceable one. The garment workers left their places of employment quietly and those from the Seventh Avenue district paraded past the Joint Board's building. Several hundred men and women who were bent on making the most of their opportunity stopped in front of the building and hooted and jeered at their international officers on the upper floors. They were charged by police, who rushed to the place in two automobiles. No arrests were made. The meeting halls were guarded by several hundred patrolmen under Inspector Lyons. Detective Sergeant Cornelius Brown with sixty men of the Bomb Squad circulated among the garment workers.

An exact calculation of the effect of the two-hour stoppage from the employers' point of view could not be obtained last night, as the figures had not reached central headquarters. Henry H. Finder, President of the Industrial Council of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association, regarded the stoppage as unsuccessful. He said that in forty-five of the largest shops which normally employ 3,000 workers, not more than 1,000 walked out. No workers joined the strike in twenty-three other shops, he said.

Charges of intimidation were hurled at each other by the warring groups. Mr. Sigman and his associates asserted that shop chairmen sympathetic with the Joint Action Committee compelled unionists to join the stoppage by threats of physical violence. The Joint Action Committee declared that threats of loss of jobs were made to prevent workers from leaving the shops.

Resolutions were adopted at the meetings declaring that the Joint Action Committee was empowered to order a general strike whenever it deemed it necessary if "our employers do not cease to interfere in our internal affairs, if they do not discontinue their policy of supporting the Sigman clique and forcing the workers to go to the Joint Board meetings and pay dues; if they do not discontinue to assist Sigman in forcing himself on the workers and if they do not cease to discharge workers at the instigation of Sigman and his clique."

The resolutions rehearsed the conditions that gave rise to the formation of the Governor's Special Mediation Commission and declared that the recent report of the commission gave the employers no concessions.

Mr. Sigman, in a statement, said that in order to fill the halls the Communists mobilized their entire following "from all trades and occupations and placed them under strict orders to attend these meetings.

"This was the last desperate card played by the Communist 'Committee of Action' in their attack upon our Union," he said. "To break unity and harmony in our ranks they have resorted to most uncivilized means of warfare, such as unbridled abuse, character assassination and wholesale charges which they never could meet nor meant to substantiate. Some of our workers at the beginning were carried off their feet by the ferocity of their attack. But as they saw that their union was in danger they regained their ground and now the torrent of abuse leveled against us by the Communists is rolling back upon their own heads.

"The legitimate contractual relations which exist between our union and the employers' associations and the individual employes will remain intact and the honor of our organization will remain unsoiled.

"In making a calculation of those who stopped work it ought to be borne in mind that 50 per cent. of our people are not steadily employed and that 25,000 are totally unemployed."

The Joint Committee of Action announced that the New York Joint Board of the Furriers' Union has contributed $10,000 to the three suspended locals to carry on their work.

The name of Benjamin Schlesinger, former President of the international union, has been mentioned as one who might be acceptable to the Joint Action Committee as the next President if the other side eliminated President Sigman. Louis Hyman, Chairman of the Joint Action Committee, admitted that he saw Schlesinger several weeks ago, but that neither Schlesinger nor anybody else would be acceptable unless he carried out the Joint Action Committee's program.

Besides Mr. Hynan the other speakers at the various meetings yesterday were Pauline Morgenstern, Joseph Boruchowitz, Julius Portnoy, C. S. Zimmerman, Frieda Reicher, Miriam Friedman, Rose Wortis, Morris Rubin and I. Steinzor.

SMITH FIGHTS OTTINGER ON PRISON RULING

Governor Orders Mandamus to Compel Payment of New Industries Board.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 20.—Governor Smith today clashed with Attorney General Ottinger and challenged the ruling of the State's law officer as to the validity of the statue passed by the last Legislature creating the State Board of Prison Industries and the position of its superintendent.

The Governor, on learning that the Attorney General had held in an opinion to James L. Long, State Superintendent of Prisons, that the law creating the board is unconstitutional, directed the Prison Survey Commission to start mandamus proceedings to compel State Controller Murphy to pay the July salaries of Robert T. Kent, State Superintendent of Prison Industries, and J. Stewart Burton of Albany, an accountant. Mr. Murphy had refused to audit the July payroll.

Superintendent Long appointed Mr. Kent, whose salary is $7,500 a year. The law was urged by Governor Smith and was supported by various groups interested in prison reform as a means of rehabilitating prison industries. Although the opinion of the Attorney General was rendered last May no attempt was made to oust Mr. Kent. Nevertheless Mr. Kent and Mr. Burton will be technically without jobs, in view of the fact that an opinion by the Attorney General has the force and effect of law until it is set aside by the courts.

"The amendments to the law setting up the Superintendent of Prison Industries in large part came as the result of a careful survey of prison conditions by the commission of which Mr. Lewisohn of New York was Chairman," Governor Smith said.

"I regarded that survey and the legislation that grew out of it as a distinctly forward step in the management of the State prisons. I deeply regret the fact that the Attorney General has seen fit to render an opinion which at least, for the time being, prevents progress of the work. I have taken comfort from the belief that the Attorney General's opinion cannot be sustained."

Superintendent Long will be forced to act as Superintendent of Prison Industries, the Governor said. The law whose constitutionality is challenged by the Attorney General, gives to the Superintendent of Prison Industries complete charge of those industries and provides for a new scale of wages for prisoners employed in the prison shops. The former rate was 1½ cents a day. The new law leaves it to the discretion of the authorities to increase this rate.

REPORTS $17,000 GEMS LOST

Dealer Carried Trinkets in Envelopes From Bank Vault.

Stanley Hershon, a manufacturing jeweler with offices at 2 West Forty-seventh Street, has reported the loss of jewelry valued at $17,000 to the police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, and Detective Farrell of that station has been assigned to the case.

Mr. Hershon said yesterday that he had gone to the Chelsea Bank, at Seventh Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, at 9 o'clock Monday morning, and had removed the jewelry from his vault there. Carrying the trinkets in ordinary envelopes, he returned to his office immediately. Arriving there before 9:30, he discovered he no longer had the jewels. He made the trip alone, and could not remember any one approaching him in the three-block walk. The jewels included a diamond and sapphire bracelet, two diamond bracelets, one sapphire bracelet, one diamond navette, two emerald cut diamonds, a diamond navette ring, a round diamond, a scarfpin, and about twenty carats of small diamonds.

Most of the jewelry, valued at between $11,000 and $12,000, belonged to his customers, and none of it was insured. Private detectives are also working on the case.

'THUNDERBOLT' RIDER DIES

Woman Was Hurt on Device at Coney Island—Inquiry Possible.

Mrs. Marie Hoffman, 33 years old, of 206 Thirty-second Street, Brooklyn, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning in the Coney Island Hospital of a fractured skull, received on Wednesday while riding in "The Thunderbolt," Coney Island's newest and fastest scenic railway.

A quick upward lurch threw Mrs. Hoffman forward, causing her head to strike an iron bar used by passengers for support.

George Hoffman, husband of the victim, suffered severe strains of the muscles of the back in his efforts to prevent his wife from falling out of the car. He was treated at the Coney Island Hospital and sent home.

It was believed at the Coney Island Police Station that an investigation might be started on the theory that the new scenic railway might be too fast for complete safety.

Berlin Traces Suicide to Hunger and Love; Says These Prompt 80 Per Cent. of Efforts

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Hunger and love are given as 80 per cent. of the reasons for persons wanting to end life, according to statistics from Berlin's Anti-Suicide Bureau, where many persons apply daily for methods of discovering something worthwhile in life. Although this bureau, opened by Berlin social workers, is functioning less than two months, more than eight hundred persons, 60 per cent. of whom are men, have applied this month for help.

The rapidly increasing number of suicides in Berlin led social workers to establish a place where a case could be dealt with and properly cared for, whether the trouble be mental or physical or caused by economic conditions. About 60 per cent. of the applicants state that they are impoverished and, of this class, more than half are well educated men between the ages of 40 and 50.

Girls rescued from drowning or other forms of suicide usually present cases for the bureau's psycho-analysis doctors who, by uncovering a story of disappointed love, enable the girls to see the tragedy in a bearable light. For the hungry, employment is found through societies in connection with large industrial firms, while advice usually cures the lovelorn. For drug fiends hospital attention is procured. The director of the bureau says the present idea of preventing suicides was developed through a system of helping unemployed, practiced by Walter Rathenau, former Finance Minister, who was murdered by political opponents.

JARDINE FORCES BUREAU CHIEF OUT

On Secretary's Demand, Dr. Taylor Resigns Agricultural Economics Post.

LONG AT ODDS ON POLICY

Official Was Accused of "Hostility" to Farm Commission—Dean Cooper of Kentucky Gets Place.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Dr. Henry C. Taylor, Chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and one of the principal officials of the Department of Agriculture, has resigned at the request of Secretary Jardine, who in a department order stated that Dr. Taylor's services were terminated as of Aug. 15.

This action was ordered by Secretary Jardine from his sickbed in Walter Reed Hospital, where he is recovering from a digestive disturbance. Thomas P. Cooper, Dean of the Agricultural College of the University of Kentucky, has been chosen to succeed him. Dr. Taylor has been serving in the department since 1919 and differed with Secretary Jardine on important questions of policy.

Dr. Taylor had refused to accede to earlier hints to resign, and is said to have consulted lawyers as to whether the Secretary had power to remove him. In the deposed bureau chief's absence from the city tonight, it could not be stated definitely whether he may resort to the courts to block his removal, although it is not believed that he will. He has connections among some of the strong farm organizations.

The episode dates back to the time of the sitting of the Coolidge Farm Commission, on which Secretary Jardine served, when it was charged by some members of the commission that Dr. Taylor was "hostile." It was further charged that the economist was severely critical of the commission and its findings and was antagonistic to Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

When the Farm Commission report reached Congress there appeared an opposition bill containing some features of the report but giving much additional power and responsibility to the Bureau of Farm Economics.

Former Governor Robert D. Carey of Wyoming, Chairman of the commission, charged at a Senate committee hearing that Dr. Taylor wrote parts of this opposition bill and really was sponsoring it. The clash over the two bills defeated the Administration farm program.

DERAIL DELAYS COMMUTERS

Long Island Trains Held Up by Accident at Winfield.

It was after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon before the traffic department of the Long Island Railroad restored normal service on its North Shore Branch following an accident at the Winfield junction about 4:30 o'clock in the morning. A freight train was crossing the intrlocking switches west of Winfield, when two of the rear cars of the train jumped the track. They were dragged 100 feet and knocked over a watchman's shanty. No one was injured. The tracks and the third rail were damaged.

Just beyond the junction there is only a single track between Winfield and "H" tower in the Sunnyside yards. Switching trains to this track delayed the morning rush hour trains bound for the Pennsylvania Station from fifteen minutes to half an hour. Some of the impatient commuters went to Woodside and took the subway and elevated trains. The evening rush hour trains were run on time.

ELOPED, NOW HUNTS A JOB.

His Woodland Bride of 15 Goes Home Till Boy Husband Finds Work

Eighteen-year-old William Kumpf of 308 Eighth Avenue, Astoria, who married Beatrice Fritze, 15, of 222 Vanderventer Avenue, Astoria, Wednesday night before the door of the woodland shack in which they had been living for a week following their elopement on Aug. 11, spent all day yesterday, following his return home, seeking work so he could support his young bride.

The couple were married before the hut at the request of Beatrice. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace M. F. Nelson of Highland Falls, N. Y., who was responsible for the young pair's discovery. William H. Kumpf and Ewald Fritze, the fathers of the couple, were witnesses.

At his home yesterday young Kumpf said he had intended to return to Long Island City last Tuesday night and get married at home. He is staying at the home of his parents in the meanwhile, while his bride is with her family.

PAROLE IF THEY QUIT DRUGS

Judge Tells Addicts They Must Cure Themselves in Prison.

Federal Judge William N. Atwell told two men sentenced to Atlanta yesterday for selling drugs that if they would promise to cure themselves of the drug habit and not sell any more, he would ask that they be paroled after four months.

The men were Alexander Jersky of 114 Chrystie Street and Fred Aseley of the same address. Both admitted they were addicts and Jersky said he would gladly lose a leg if he could be cured.

"Well," said Judge Atwell, "you won't have to do anything as hard as that. All that you will have to do is to say to yourself, 'You can't have it, you can't have it,' when you feel the desire for narcotics. Say it and mean it, both of you."

They promised to and were sentenced to serve a year and a day each in Atlanta. They were convicted on evidence of Federal Narcotic Agents Grice, Murphy and Cahill of Chief Ralph H. Oyler's staff.

REFUSES TO FREE REITERS ON BAIL

Justice Cropsey Denounces Reversals Based on Plea of Unfair Charge to Jury.

CALLS CLAIMS "TRIVIAL"

Former Officers of Federal Stores, Inc., Convicted of $25,000 Theft From Trust Company.

Supreme Court Justice Cropsey in Brooklyn yesterday denied the application of Samuel and Louis Reiter, former officers of the Federal Stores, Inc., for a certificate of reasonable doubt to free them on bail pending their appeal from conviction of grand larceny in connection with the theft of $25,000 from the Brooklyn Trust Company. Their concern failed early in June for $2,700,000. The two brothers, with another brother, Josef Reiter, were sentenced to from five to ten years in jail, following their conviction of obtaining loans from banks, giving as security fraudulent warehouse receipts.

In his decision Justice Cropsey attacked the practice of Appellate Courts in granting reversals on the ground that the issues of a case were not properly presented in the charge to the jury. Answering the argument of James F. Donnelly, lawyer for the Reiter brothers, that Justice Hagarty's charge to the jury was unfair, he said: "As to this point I find nothing in the record to show that the defendants were not satisfied with it. If, in fact, the charge in this respect was satisfactory to defendants' counsel it seems to me to be a wholly unwarranted thing for an Appellate Court to reverse, even if they thought the charge was erroneous.

"Following that practice, of course, a defendant can never lose. If he believes that a charge is improper but does not take exception and thus give the Court a chance to modify or withdraw it and the jury acquits, of course his client goes free; but if the jury acquits, then on appeal he also goes free because of the charge. Such a practice seems to me to be demoralizing and does not protect the interests of the people. Of course, I realize that Appellate Courts have reversed convictions for alleged errors in the charge, although no exceptions were taken to it and although defendant's counsel had expressly stated during the trial that he believed the law to be just what the Court subsequently charged it, but if such a practice is to prevail then there need be no wonder that the disregard for law and order continues to be so general."

Justice Cropsey ridiculed the contention of defense attorneys that Samuel and Louis Reiter were "innocent boys" and "dupes" of their elder brother Josef.

Answering other contentions, Justice Cropsey says: "The defendants contend that the first count in the indictment which charges the larceny by misrepresentation is bad, as it does not state to whom the loan was to be made nor who owns the property, the subject of the larceny. These claims are worse than trivial. The next point is that the defendants' guilt was not established beyond a reasonable doubt. Every word of the record has been read and so far as it seems possible to reflect anything in type the guilt of these defendants has been convincingly demonstrated. Finding no reason to believe that the conviction will be reversed the motion is denied."

GLENDALE HAS A BABY SHOW

Three-Hundred Queens Infants Entered in Prize Contest.

Three hundred babies of the Glendale section of Queens, accompanied by their mothers, took part yesterday in a "Perfect Baby" contest held at Vacation Playground 91, adjoining Public School 91, at Central and Folsom Avenues, Glendale.

Prizes were donated by the Mothers' Club of Public School 91 and the Women's Seminole Democratic Club of Glendale. The judges were Francis I. Ketcham, President of the Bushwick National Bank; Dr. John A. Ferguson, Mayor Hylan's personal physician, and former Coroner Ernest C. Wagner. The arrangements were in charge of Frank E. Smith, principal of the vacation playground, assisted by Miss Lola Freese. Prizes were awarded as follows:

Babies up to one year old: Stephen Pfadenhauer, 473 Bertha Place, Glendale; Dorothy Brady, 383 Alpha Place, Glendale.

One to two years old: Kenneth Demorest, 1,814 Catalpa Avenue, Ridgewood; Anna Maurer, 74 Richard Avenue, Glendale.

Two to three years old: Gladys Grasman, 139 McKinley Avenue, Glendale; Robert Donovan, 2,604 Cooper Avenue, Glendale.

Russell and Walter Hurd, eight-week-old twins, of 201 Schley Street received special third and fourth prizes.

SAYS HE LURED CHILDREN.

Woman Accuses Friend of Husband From Whom She Is Separated.

Charging that he had kidnapped her four children, Mrs. Catherine Kalankiewicz of 538 Avenue C, Bayonne, had local police arrest Stanley Rogoski of 22 Andrew Street, Bayonne, yesterday. The children are Anthony, 15 years old; Leon, 14; Julius, 12, and Stella, 9.

Mrs. Kalankiewicz alleged that Rogoski lured them from their home Aug. 16. She is separated from her husband, John Kalankitwicz, who is understood to be living at Hightstown, N. J., and to be friendly with Rogoski. The police are trying to get in touch with the husband.

Out of Work, She Takes Gas.

Dagmar Marthasen, 22 years old, who had until recently been employed as a maid, committed suicide yesterday at noon in her furnished room at 265 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, by gas asphyxiation. She was found by her roommate, Ella Olsen, 20 years old. She had been unable to find work.

SEIZE DALY, HUNTED AS TROLLEY GUNMAN

Detectives Break Into Connecticut Farmhouse and Catch Prisoner in Bed.

ADMITS CRIME, POLICE SAY

Alleged Confession Says He Killed Men When He Thought One Reached for Pistol.

Frank Daly, sought for several weeks for complicity in the murder of a car inspector and a motorman in the sensational hold-up of a one-man trolley car in Mount Vernon, was arrested early yesterday in a lonely farmhouse near Westport, Conn., by detectives with drawn pistols, who crept up in the dark and broke down the door. He waived extradition and was brought to Police Headquarters here, where he confessed, according to the police, that he fired the shots that killed the two street railway employes.

Two other men are already under arrest on charges of first degree murder for taking part in the robbery and the brutal double killing. They are John Marino and David Demaio. They are being held in White Plains. Four women are under bail as material witnesses, as is John Barillo, the nephew of Marino. Marino is said to have confessed that he drove the automobile in which the robbers escaped from the scene of the crime, and Demaio to have admitted that he planned the hold-up.

Daly's arrest followed a close search of more than a week, in which the detectives were close on his trail. After the hold-up the detectives said he went to the Connecticut farmhouse, returning to the city a few days later. His trail was picked up on the west side and the detectives followed it to Westport, where he returned, they said, several days ago.

Made Plans for the Capture.

On Wednesday night, the detectives said, they discovered his hiding place and made plans for the capture. The arresting party included Detectives Thomas Martin and Stephen Donahue of the Homicide Squad, Captain Michael Silverstein and Lieutenant Herman Mattes of the Mount Vernon police and several Connecticut State policemen.

They drove out toward the farmhouse, in which lived Peter Kleisch and his daughter, and stopped about half a mile so that the sound of the approaching car would not give the alarm. Creeping up on the house in the dark of the early morning with their pistols ready because of Daly's reputation as a desperate criminal, Donahue and Martin knocked on the back door. There was no answer and they crashed it down.

Kleisch and his daughter, roused from their sleep, made no attempt to stop them as they hurried upstairs to the room where they had been told Daly was sleeping. Throwing open the door, they leveled their pistols and made ready to shoot on the slightest provocation. They found Daly sitting in bed quietly smoking a cigarette. He made no resistance, and according to the detectives, readily admitted his part in the crime.

He was brought to Westport and arraigned in the Town Court.

As soon as Daly had announced that he did not want to fight extradition he was placed in an automobile with the police and driven to Police Headquarters here.

Recounts Story of Crime.

He was closely questioned for several hours by Captain Arthur Carey of the homicide squad and Assistant District Attorney Ferri of Westchester. He is said to have told the following story:

With Demaio, Marino and two others, he visited the scene the night before the hold-up, which occurred on July 20, to get the lay of the land. The next night he boarded the trolley car as it left New Rochelle for Mount Vernon, with Inspector Jacob Schumacher carrying $1,800 in small change—the collections of conductors at New Rochelle barns—seated near the motorman, Raglin I. Nicoll, Marino and the others followed in the automobile.

At the appointed spot, said Daly, he rose from his seat, seized the bags of money from the inspector. "I shot him," he is said to have confessed, "because I thought he was going to draw a gun when he put his hand around toward his back pocket. I told Nicoll to stop his car, but he didn't do it and I plugged him too."

Daly will be held for the line-up at heaquarters this morning and will be taken tto Mount Vernon in the afternoon.

ASSASSINS SHOOT HAVANA PUBLISHER

Andre, Opponent of Administration, Is Killed by Two Men in Front of His Home.

HAVANA, Aug. 20.—Armando Andre y Alvarado, owner of the newspaper El Dia, was shot by two unidentified assassins as he was alighting from an automobile in front of his home early this morning, dying shortly after on the operating table in a hospital.

Señor Andre, 52 years of age, was formerly Captain of the port police under the Zayas Administration and purchased El Dia upon being relieved of his duties when President Machado took office.

The paper has actively opposed efforts of the Interior Department to clean the island of gambling and vice and has been bitter editorially against the Administration.

Chauffeur an Eye-Witness.

HAVANA, Aug. 20 (AP).—Havana police, under the direction of Chief Pablo Mendieta, are making every effort to capture the slayers of Armando Andre y Alvarado, publisher of El Dia.

Señor Andre's chauffeur, the only eyewitness to the tragedy, told the police he left the downtown section of Havana shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, taking his employer home. Near the house two men were seen with their faces hidden behind a newspaper. As Andre left the machine several shots were fired and he fell to the sidewalk. The two then came closer and fired several more shots into Señor Andre's back as he lay face down. The assailants, a negro and a white man, escaped in an automobile, which was without license plates.

El Dia, today continued vitriolic attacks on the Government.

2 'NOTED IRISHMEN' HELD

Tom Moore and Daniel O'Connell Charged With Dry Offenses.

"Tom Moore and Daniel O'Connell," called the clerk in the office of United States Commissioner Cotter in the Federal Building yesterday, and Mr. Cotter, who is an Irishman, looked up in astonishment as the two men charged with violating the prohibition law stepped before him.

"The Tom Moore most of us have heard of was the most noted bard of old Erin," said the Commissioner, "and every one knows who Daniel O'Connell was. How do men with such noted names come to be charged with violating the national prohibition act?"

The defendants pleaded not guilty. They were held in $500 bail for a hearing. Moore was charged with driving a beer truck and O'Connell was charged with selling liquor.

HOLD TWO ACCUSED OF SHOOTING POLICE

Suspect, Shot in Chase After Drug Store Hold-Up, Is Identified.

THIRD MAN STILL HUNTED

Patrolman Moore, One of Six Wounded, Is in a Serious Condition in Hospital.

After an unsuccessful search for the third of a trio of negro robbers who engaged in an exciting automobile chase and pistol battle with a dozen policemen early yesterday morning while fleeing after holding up a drug store at Ninth Avenue and Forty-first Street, Assistant District Attorney Ryan and Captain Skehan collected the details of the crime and prepared for prosecution.

Five policemen and one of the alleged robbers were wounded and another captured. Patrolman Harry Moore, of the Special Service Division, was the most seriously injured of the policemen. He was shot in the stomach and was in a dangerous condition last night in the French Hospital.

Patrolman Simon Knapp of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station was shot on the knuckle of the right hand, Patrolman Harry Nichols of the same station was wounded on the chest, and two other policemen were grazed by bullets, but not seriously enough injured to warrant hospital treatment. Their names were not learned.

The wounded negro remained in such a serious condition in Bellevue that it was not until late last night that he was able to tell the police his name. He said he was James Wilson of 150 West 133d Street.

The police said he was known in Harlem as "One-eye." He and John Wages, who was captured during the chase, were formally charged with the hold-up of the drug store and the shooting of the policemen, and Wages was held without bail by Magistrate McKiniry in the Jefferson Market Court.

The third man, who with the man in Bellevue was cornered on the roof of a tenement at 441 West Thirty-third Street and where Patrolmen Moore and Nichols were wounded when the robbers opened fire, escaped in the early morning, although more than 100 policemen and detectives surrounded the block. It was believed that he had been wounded, and hospitals were warned to watch for him.

The hold-up which precipitated the chase and the pistol battle, in which more than 100 shots were fired, occurred in the drug store of Ceris Prappopas at 546 Ninth Avenue. Prappopas was bound by the armed robbers, who took $5 and a gold watch from him.

It was when the robbers were leaping into their waiting automobile just after the hold-up that they were seen by Traffic Patrolman O'Brien, who was passing on the street. He commandeered another automobile and started after them.

The chase led north to Sixty-sixth Street, with other policemen and motorists joining in, where near Broadway Wages was captured. When the pursuit wound south again Patrolman Moore, who was driving a woman relative and two men friends home in his car, asked them to jump out and he started after the two other robbers.

SUBWAY DOORS FAIL ON STALLED TRAIN

Lights Go Out, and Passengers Are Lifted Through Windows of Smoke-Filled Cars.

Women and children were lifted screaming through the windows of a stalled Interborough subway train under Flatbush Avenue, near Dean Street, Brooklyn, yesterday, when smoke from burning insulation filled the forward cars of a ten-car train and the emergency apparatus for opening doors failed to work. Nobody was injured, although there was a wild scramble to get out of the smoke-filled train.

The short circuit which set fire to insulation took place under the first car of the East New York-Flatbush train shortly after it pulled out from the Atlantic Avenue station at 2:30 o'clock. The lights went out, and the emergency lights burned only in the two centre cars for a time and then went out also. Smoke drifted up and through the windows and filled the cars, and women and children screamed and pleaded to be taken out.

When the rush up and down the darkened cars began, members of the train crew and passengers tried to open the doors by breaking the glass over the emergency door pulls, but the emergency apparatus would not work. Then the men lifted women and children through the windows to the ledge which runs through the tube at that section, and others went through the train and climbed out through the open back door to the tracks. They made their way to an emergency exit at Dean Street, and so out to the open air. Although many women were hysterical, none was overcome by smoke, and there was no need for medical attention. After a time the burned cable was repaired, and the empty train went on.

Postal Thief Gets 18 Months.

Judge Ben C. Dawkins in Federal Court in Brooklyn yesterday sentenced Samuel S. Markowitz, 22 years old, postal clerk emblebbler, to eighteen months in the Federal prison in Atlanta, Ga. Markowitz, who lived at 1,874 West Twelfth Street, Brooklyn, pleaded guilty to robbing the mails. Markowitz had been attached to Station S, Broadway and Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn. On July 17 he stole four $5,000 Liberty bonds from a package containing $320,000 worth.

Pay as You Go
and Keep Business Sound

THE man who buys at Macy's and pays cash for what he buys, benefits in two ways at least, over those who do not. First, he incurs no debt in the buying; second, he pays less than he would pay elsewhere.

The evils of the so-called "easy payment" plan are now attracting an unusual amount of critical attention on the part of public officials, economists and writers. They are concerned because the welfare of the nation, which depends upon the welfare of its citizens, is seriously involved. If many of our citizens become hopelessly entangled in debt, our national prosperity becomes imperilled.

Two interesting statements, reflecting upon the "easy payment" plan of buying, are reprinted below:

"Probably the instalment plan of sale deserves neither wholesale condemnation nor wholesale commendation. As a means of getting luxuries, it is wholly evil. . . . It cannot be really and permanently advantageous to business that people should be persuaded into buying what they cannot afford."
—President Lynch, of the International Typographical Union

"One of the outstanding phenomena in American life today is the growth of instalment plan banks. . . . I heard of a workman the other day who [illegible] in financial trouble and friends looking over his affairs [illegible] of $50. a week he [illegible] instalment payments coming due of $72. for house, automobile, furniture, etc."
—Statement by Edward A. Filene, merchant of Boston, in N. Y. Times

Macy's sells nothing on the instalment plan, and has no charge accounts. Its customers spend only what they can afford. Not even is ever in debt to Macy's.

The Macy method of doing business—to buy for cash and sell for cash—is above all criticism. When you buy at Macy's, you buy soundly, sanely, most economically. You know that you owe nothing for what you have bought; that there will be no distressing instalments to meet; and that you have paid at least six per cent less than you would have to pay anywhere else in the city.

CANCEL PEACE BID TO RIFFIAN REBELS

France and Spain Recall Their Delegates and Prepare to Use Their Full Force.

EXPECT ABD-EL-KRIM TO SUE

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Abd-el-Krim's chance to ask for peace before meeting the full force of French and Spanish armies has gone for good, according to a semi-official report issued in Paris tonight.

"The French and Spanish Governments, after waiting vainly for more than a month, are of the opinion there is no further use waiting for Abd-el-Krim to acknowledge receipt of their peace conditions," the statement says. French and Spanish delegates sent to Melilla to acquaint the representatives of the rebel chieftain with terms they were willing to grant him have been notified their mission is ended and there is no one left to whom Abd-el-Krim may apply if he desires peace.

Thus the rebel who for a time had an opportunity of talking over the future on an almost equal footing with two of Europe's oldest nations while still undefeated by them on a single battlefield, has let the opportunity pass.

A fleet of Spanish transports loaded with fresh troops is now cutting toward the Moroccan shore, while French reinforcements have practically all arrived and concentration is completed. By three operations the French commenced has seized control of military operations and won back their dwindling prestige in the eyes of the natives. North of Fez, north of Quezazn and north of Taza the power of French arms has been successively asserted and brought back thousands of fickle Moors into the Sultan's fold. The Franco-Spanish forces are strongly linked together and in a few days the curtain will rise on the final act of the drama.

More Troops Called From Spain.

MADRID, Aug. 20.—The Moroccan correspondent of El Sol reports General Primo de Rivera as saying in an interview:

"We must seize these never-so-propitious moments to attack strongly. In order not to weaken the forces in our present lines we have called for a number of battalions from Spain destined to attack various points. Postponement of the proclamation of the new Caliph in the Spanish zone is not due to increased Riffian pressure. We note that this pressure is weakening perceptibly."

Primo de Rivera spoke of Franco-Spanish cooperation along the Loukkos River where Abd-el-Krim could not offer resistance.

"Here, as also in the attacks north of Fez, the rebel chieftain lacked heart," he said. "In 1921 Abd-el-Krim could have entered Melilla, but in 1924 he lacked courage. The same applies to Tetuan and Fez, all of which shows he is simply an opportunist chieftain, only knowing how to avail himself of agitation among the tribesmen."

REBELLION BROKEN IN THE TAZA AREA

French Partisans Loot Villages of Defeated Tsouls—Other Tribes Expected to Surrender.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TAZA, Morocco, Aug. 20.—Smiles are not forced in Taza now. Good cheer and victory radiate everywhere. After six nip and tuck weeks—weeks when it was not safe at night to enter the zone separating native and European quarters of the town and when travel was forbidden after sunset thirty miles on each side of the city on the main Algeria-Fez highway—the immediate threat to Taza and its precious line of communications has been wiped out. The mighty Tsoul tribe, whose defection early in July forced civilian evacuation of Taza and who since then have been hanging like an ominous cloud over the mountains forming the northern rim of the famous Taza corridor, has been pacified.

Instead of every day bringing word of enemy infiltrations and raids, every hour now brings reports that another of the ten subdivisions composing the Tsoul tribal federation has begged for mercy. This time all but one of them—the northwesternmost fraction—have either surrendered with all arms or opened negotiations with the French.

Meanwhile the French are reorganizing the regained territory, establishing big posts, each garrisoned with a full battalion, along the northern frontier of the Tsoul region. They are still three or four miles south of their original front, but they have pushed their lines from five miles north of Taza to eighteen along a twenty-five mile front in three days.

Military experts attribute the victory to the sending of five columns against 5,000 Tsouls backed up by a few Riffians. The natives offered much greater resistance than during recent operations north of Quezzan, but when they found the French troops surrounding them everywhere they lost their heads and turned faithful. By manoeuvring on such a large scale, the French not only succeeded in attaining their objective with few casualties—losing much less than in operations formerly—but were able to give an impression of force which is likely to have far-reaching consequences. The first is the expected reduction of the Branes tribe, much stronger than the Tsouls and living north and east of them. In fact, many of the Branes have been allowed to return to their homes with their flocks without any interference, as it is sure they are returning in order to submit to the French, an omen of the weakening of their morale and the rapid conquest of their territory.

Natives Moving Out of Taza.

Other signs of a fundamental change for the better in the Taza situation are not lacking. Natives here no longer regard Europeans with sullen, ugly looks, but with deferential respect. Flocks of sheep and goats which have been concentrated at Taza for safety are slowly moving north to the hillside grazing lands. The countryside behind the front no longer is empty save for soldiers; the road north from Taza is filled with streams of native caravans such as rarely have been seen before. These natives live in the Taza corridor and, while long on the verge of rebellion, now are acting as partisans of the French. Their job is that of "beaters," who work through the mountains between the French columns and clean up all nooks and crannies where enemies may remain hid. They are carrying out the task with the thoroughness of the old-fashioned housecleaning, for as a reward of their loyalty and trouble, and also as punishment for the rebels, they are permitted to keep the booty they find.

The French have forbidden the conventional Morrocan treatment of the vanquished, such as killing, and burning and cutting fruit trees. The partisans have to content themselves with taking doors off the houses—for wood is precious in this sun scorched climate—and carrying off beds, tables, dishware, pots, pans and everything that is movable.

Hungry for plunder, the partisans thus descended on the Tsouls like swarms of locusts. They have come with wives and children, with old men, with the lame, the halt and the blind, with donkeys, horses, camels — with every one and every beast capable of carrying some part of the booty.

Looting of Rebel Villages.

When I went up to the front with the advancing French columns two days ago I left the natives basking in the sun at Taza seemingly as incapable of movement as the portrait of a lazy man. Coming back this afternoon I learned they can be on occasion as energetic and hustling as newsboys. The road had changed into a long narrow stifling cloud of dust raised by two unending columns of natives. One hurrying south with heavily laden men leading burros with big doors or sacks of grain strapped on their backs and women stooping under bushel bags of wheat somehow balanced on stolen platters on their heads and shrilly urging on the plodding camels, mournfully bellowing their protest against war.

Another column, beasts of burden with empty pack saddles and panniers accompanied by a trotting mob of men, women and children, was hastening up even faster from Taza for another load of plunder.

Meanwhile, another strange scene was being enacted at the French camps. Here salaaming elders sent as emissaries of some fraction of Tsouls were asking French officers on what terms they could surrender. Warriors, too, were throwing down their rifles in piles at the feet of the victors, while a priest was cutting the throat of a sacrificial bull in the immemorial Moorish ritual to show their good faith on such solemn occasions. As the Tsouls already had sacrificed a bull in the same way to Abd-el-Krim when they joined him, the French are not contented with this demonstration alone. As further pledges the Tsouls have not only to disarm but give up notables as hostages. They are then allowed to remain in their villages, but able-bodied men are kept out of temptation by being made to work on the roads, which certainly need repairing badly.

These terms, even with additional plundering by partisans, seem light when it is remembered how costly and dangerous the Tsoul rebellion has been to the French. The French, however, explain they are wagering a "corrective" rather than punitive war against the Tsouls, for the hostility of the Branes and the tremendous pressure of the Riffians left them between hammer and anvil.

MACKINAC DEATHS INCREASED TO 42

Eight More Victims of Excursion Steamer Boiler Explosion Are Despaired Of.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20 (AP).—The death list of the boiler explosion on the Pawtucket excursion steamer Mackinac stood at forty-two tonight, with every indication that at least eight more names would be added to it before daybreak. Nine persons, terribly scalded, have not the slightest chance to recover, physicians at the Naval and Newport Hospitals stated.

Four other persons, reported as missing, are believed to have been drowned. Naval airplanes flew over Newport harbor today in a search for their bodies. Navy and police officials planned to start dragging for them tomorrow.

Investigation of the disaster moved swiftly today following the arrival of Federal Inspector General Uhler in Providence to assume charge of the Federal inquiry on the orders of Secretary Hoover. After a conference with Captain Robert B. Clark and Inspector Richard Bailey, both of his service, Mr. Uhler inspected the Mackinac, which is now tied up at her wharf in Pawtucket. He gave the vessel's boiler, which State officials declared was defective, a minute examination.

He refused to make any statement other than that he and his assistants would cooperate with the Rhode Island Attorney General's staff, which has launched an inquiry to determine if criminal negligence played a part in the disaster.

The city was stirred today by the funeral of Manuel Vasquez, a seaman, killed in the explosion. His body was first identified as that of Edward De Vallee, a fireman on the ship. When De Vallee returned to his home in Pawtucket last night the mistake in identity was discovered.

Tomorrow, from the home of Chief of Police James McCarthy of Central Falls, the funeral of his son's family will be held. The mother, Mrs. James McCarthy, and her three small children have died, and the head of the family lies in the Naval Hospital in a serious condition.

Twenty-two patients are still under treatment at the Naval Hospital and at the Newport Hospital, which is to receive as many as can possibly be moved from the former institution.

The five victims who died today were Pauline Stephens of Darlington, R. I., Jean McCarthy and Mary G. and Donald Wildenhain of Pawtucket, and Miss Francena Holt of Providence.

SAYS EMPLOYERS BROKE THEIR PLEDGE

Acting Head of Bricklayers Blames Contractors for Violating 1910 Agreement.

Acting President George T. Thornton of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union, in a letter yesterday to Otto M. Eidlitz of Marc Eidlitz & Son, building contractors, 41 East Forty-second Street, declared that the agreement of 1910 between the bricklayers and the Mason Builders' Association was broken recently by the employers when they signed an agreement to recognize the Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers' International Association.

Declaring that he wished to place responsibility where it belonged, Mr. Thornton called Mr. Eidlitz's attention to the agreement signed by the building contractor in 1910, when Mr. Eidlitz was Chairman of the Emergency Committee of the Mason Builders' Association.

The agreement, signed at the end of the strike and lockout of 1910, provided that when a member of the Mason Builders' Association took work in a city not covered by the New York City agreement he should observe the agreements between the local builders' association and the subordinate unions of the bricklayers' organization.

In cases where no agreements existed, it was said, the members of the Mason Builders' Association were to abide by the rules between the employers and the employes of such localities.

ALBERT GETS DEBT DETAILS

Belgian Parliament May Be Called to Ratify Agreement.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 20 (AP).—The details of the agreement reached at Washington for the funding of Belgium's debt to the United States have been laid before King Albert at the royal Summer residence at Lacken, where Finance Minister Janssen had a long interview with the King.

The question of whether Parliament shall be called in special session to ratify the debt agreement will be decided on the return of the Belgian delegation from the United States, when the Cabinet will be summoned to determine this question.

General opinion favors waiting to ratify until the United States Congress has approved the agreement.

Foreign Minister Vandervelde has cabled the Belgian delegation in Washington, congratulating the members on the debt settlement, which the entire Cabinet considers satisfactory.

There is no question for the moment of a new loan.

Colonel House Pays First Visit to League; Suggests "Associate Membership" for Us

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 20.—Colonel E. M. House, on his first visit to Geneva since the foundation of the League, expressed the belief the United States would eventually become an associate member of the League just as during the war it was an associate to the allied powers. Absence of the United States greatly weakened the League, the adviser to the late President Wilson declared. American doubt had caused other nations in turn to doubt the effectiveness of the League's power and submitted it to a tremendous handicap, he added.

The League was comparable, Colonel House said, to the Federal Reserve act, but only if the United States were a participant; for just as the Federal Reserve act makes it psychologically impossible to have financial panics, the League of Nations with the United States participating would make war impossible. At present, however, with the abstention of the United States, Germany and Russia, the League, he said, was only half a league.

Asked if he thought the League would be an issue in the next election, Colonel House expressed the hope it would be never again dragged into politics.

"Politics is responsible for the rejection of the League," he said. "The League was not originally a Democratic idea. It originated with the Republican Party. It would be difficult to name one prominent Democrat, the late President included, who first favored the idea of a League. It was the Republicans who did all in their power to interest President Wilson in the League. After the President threw the weight of his office behind the League idea, the Republicans turned on it and made it a political issue."

Colonel House said Americans must come to understand that association with the League and representation at the League would not commit them to its decisions. Only the Senate can do that. America would in no manner be threatened with entanglements except such as the Senate might vote for. He expressed the belief that the whole world, including the United States, sooner or later would realize the necessity of compulsory arbitration as the only effective means of peacefully settling international disputes.

Colonel House recalled that the first draft of a League covenant which he drew up at Magnolia for President Wilson contained the essence of the Geneva protocol.

Colonel House revealed that following the foundation of the League he had caused an option to be taken on a thousand acres of land facing the lake near Geneva, where he hoped the League would build a seat worthy of its aims and importance. A beautiful watergate was planned as a memorial to all soldiers killed in the war. The option was dropped and the plans rejected when it was obvious the United States was not entering the League. The project would have cost less than one first-class battleship.

The Colonel and Mrs. House are stopping at Evian, where they are taking the cure. He spent only one day in Geneva but hopes to return next week to study the League. He is leaving for the United States next month.

COOLIDGE APPROVES BELGIAN DEBT TERMS

many is to make a special issue of bonds to be delivered to the Reparation Commission.

"Each of the undersigned will recommend to the appropriate governmental agency of his Government that, upon the delivery to the Reparation Commission of such bonds, his Government accept an amount thereof corresponding to the sums which Belgium has borrowed from his Government since the war and up to Nov. 11, 1918, together with interest, at 5 per cent., unless already included in such sums, in satisfaction of Belgium's obligation on account of such loans, which obligation of Belgium's shall thereupon be canceled.

"We are, dear Mr. Minister,
"Very truly yours,
"G. CLEMENCEAU,
"WOODROW WILSON,
"D. LLOYD-GEORGE."

In recommending to you that Congress take appropriate action with regard to this agreement, certain facts should be brought to your attention.

The neutrality of Belgium was guaranteed by the Treaty of London of 1839. In considering the reparation to be made by Germany it was agreed that the action of Germany in grossly violating this treaty by an attack on Belgium obligated the German Government under international law to repay to Belgium the costs of war.

On this principle the Treaty of Versailles (Article 232) provided that in accordance with Germany's pledges already given as to the complete restoration for Belgium, Germany should undertake, in addition to the compensation for material damage, to make reimbursement of all sums which Belgium had borrowed from the Allied and Associated Governments up to November 11, 1918, together with interest at 5 per cent. per annum on such sums. This obligation was to be discharged by a special issue of bearer bonds to an equivalent amount payable in gold marks on May 1, 1926, or at the option of the German Government on the 1st day of May in any year up to 1926.

Agreement Not Embodied in Treaty.

For various reasons the undertaking defined in the above letter was not embodied in the treaty. Belgium's obligations to the United States for advances made up to the date of the armistice amounted to approximately $171,000,000, and to England and France they amounted, I am informed, to about £164,700,000. In view of the special circumstances in which Belgium became involved in the war and the attitude of this country toward Belgium, it was felt that the United States might well agree to make the same agreement respecting pre-armistice loans to Belgium as England and France offered to do.

Advances made by the Treasury to the Belgian Government from the beginning of the war to the armistice amounted to $171,780,999. This principal sum, however, includes advances of $499,400 made to enable the Belgians to pay the interest due Nov. 15, 1917, and $1,571,468.42 to enable the payment of the interest due May 15, 1918. The interest on the advances has been paid up to April 15, 1919, the interest due from May 15, 1918, to that date having been paid out of Treasury loans for which the United States holds Belgian obligations, which, however, were made after Nov. 11, 1918, the date of the armistice.

This latter advance would not come within the terms of the agreement above mentioned. If, therefore, the United States accepts payment of Belgian obligations given before the armistice by receiving a corresponding amount of German obligations, it would seem that it should receive German obligations amounting to $171,780,000, with interest from April 15, 1919.

Although it is understood that England will take her share of the German bonds when received by Belgium, I am informed that the Reparation Commission has not as yet finally determined the details of the issuance of the necessary bonds by the German Government. A recommendation at this time that suitable legislative action should be taken may appear somewhat premature, but in view of the approaching termination of my Administration I have brought this matter to your attention, hoping that suitable action may be taken at the appropriate time.

WOODROW WILSON.
The White House, Feb. 22, 1921.

Story of Wilson's Pledge.

Woodrow Wilson's promise to Belgium with respect to the acceptance of German bonds in settlement of Belgian obligations for United States war loans averted disruption of the Versailles conference and was a determining factor in the leniency extended by the Coolidge Administration to Belgium.

This was stated in an official quarter this afternoon.

Secretary Mellon, it was stated in the same quarter, regarded the "promise" made by President Wilson in the Clemenceau-Wilson-Lloyd George agreement at Versailles, on June 16, 1919, supported by other official data, as the weighing factor in the negotiations in favor of remission of interest on the Belgium pre-armistice obligations.

Secretary Mellon, it is understood, felt that the Wilson promise was a "moral" obligation on the Government that should not be disregarded, and the other members of the Debt Commission concurred in his view, as also did President Coolidge.

It was Secretary Mellon's understanding that Belgium was on the verge of withdrawing from the Versailles Peace Conference when it appeared that nothing was about to be done in the direction of taking care of Belgium's claims against Germany by way of reparations, and that it was only after the Clemenceau-Wilson-Lloyd George agreement was reached that Belgium was persuaded to retain her delegates in the Peace Conference.

Even then, according to what was learned today, it was with reluctance that Belgium remained in the conference.

The facts in the case, as obtained from an official today, were substantially as follows:

There was no question of Belgium having a "legal" right to special treatment raised by the Belgian delegates in the negotiations just successfully concluded. The Belgians did not present their claim to special consideration as a "legal" claim. They were well aware that the United States Government had not ratified the Treaty of Versailles, also that the "promise" embraced in the Clemenceau-Wilson-Lloyd George agreement had never been ratified by the United States Senate, and that all Mr. Wilson agreed to do was to "recommend" the matter embraced in the "promise" to the "appropriate governmental agency of his Government."

Belgium advanced two important classes for special treatment. The first of these was that currency issues amounting to a huge sum had been put out by the Germans during their invasion of Belgium territory, that this "paper" was worth nothing, and as it had been used by the Germans in reputed payment of Belgian citizens, who would lose unless Germany made reparation, something had to be done about the matter. Consequently, the Belgian Government had assumed responsibility for these paper issues to keep her own people from losing.

The second claim advanced related to the cost of factory machinery and other material that had been stripped from Belgium and sent into Germany.

GOOD CASE FOR FRANCE SEEN.

Commitments by Wilson Toward Her Claimed in Paris.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—That part of the American statement concerning the Belgian debt terms settlement which leaps to the attention of the French is the section saying President Wilson's promises at the Paris peace conference regarding Belgium's debt constituted a moral obligation influencing the present Washington Administration. This declaration appeals to the French, because at the Paris conference President Wilson, in the name of the United States, made other commitments than those regarding Belgium's war debt. He made commitments extending to American participation in the League of Nations and including an agreement that Germany should pay for the war damage in France.

It is contended here that there is an analogy between two treaty provisions, one saying Germany should pay Belgium's war debt and another saying Germany should pay France's war damage. It is not difficult to follow the French in their conclusion that if the provision affecting Belgium's debt now influences the Washington Government there is no reason why the provision regarding reparations should not form the basis for a plea that France is entitled to special consideration so long as she must bear the burden of having repaired the damage all the armies did upon her soil in fighting the common battle.

While of course deeply interested in the wide field opened by the admission of the present American Administration that the turn in the domestic politics of the United States did not wipe out all the moral obligations assumed by the country under an Administration of opposing political faith, the French are immediately concerned in the effect the American stand may have upon their debt negotiations. While they do not expect any lightning change in American foreign policy under which President Coolidge would soon favor American entry into the League, in accordance with the promise President Wilson made at the Paris conference, yet they may certainly be expected to argue that Americans should consider the burden France now bears in shouldering the weight of some $4,000,000,000 worth of repair work to mend the damage America helped to do.

France's delegation to the United States for discussion of the war debts will sail from Havre on the liner Paris Sept. 16, reaching New York on the 23d, in time for the negotiations to begin in Washington on Friday the 25th. While the membership of the delegation has not been finally established, it was learned tonight that M. Caillaux hopes to head the mission and to include in it members of all the political groups as well as budgetary authorities. Thus the financial commissions of both the Chamber and Senate will be represented and also members of the Right, Centre and Left Parties.

Among the names mentioned as almost certain to be included in the final list are those of Henry Bérenger, general reporter of the Senate Budget Commission; Senator Fernand Chapsal, President of the Permanent Customs Appraisals Commission; Deputy Vincent Auriol, ex-President of the Chamber Budget Commission; Deputy Lamoureaux, general reporter of the Chamber Budget Commission; Deputy Maurice Bokanowski, former general reporter of the Chamber Budget Commission; Deputy Marquis de Chambraun, lineal descendant of Lafayette, and Joseph Simon, General Manager of the Société Générale Bank. During the war the latter was director of the financial services of the French High Commission in the United States.

It is noted that the name of Franklin Bouillon, often mentioned in the course of the last two months as probable leader of the delegation, does not appear in the list.

ITALY'S CLAIMS FIGURED.

Reasons for Leniency on Debt Are Adduced in Rome.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Aug. 20.—Despite the warning issued by Washington that the debt funding conditions granted to Belgium should not be considered to constitute a precedent for other nations, publication of the terms of the agreement has caused almost every Italian to produce paper and pencil and begin to do some figuring. The conclusion always reached is that the conditions granted to Belgium, though admittedly generous, are still too heavy for Italy.

Italy owes the United States roughly $2,000,000,000, approximately two-thirds of this debt being contracted during the war and one-third after. Applying the conditions granted Belgium to the Italian debt the yearly payments would work out at close to 1,500,000,000 lire. Doubling this figure to take care of the debt to England, which also amounts to $2,000,000,000, the total yearly payments Italy should make amount to about 3,000,000,000 lire. This sum, which is equal to about a sixth part of the total revenue of the Italian Government, is considered too high for Italy to bear.

A semi-official statement issued today mentions the following points as showing that Italy's financial situation is much weaker than Belgium's and should be taken into consideration in Italy's debt negotiations: First, that Italian wealth per capita is less than two-fifths of Belgium's. Second, that Italy has a large debt toward England, which Belgium has not. Third, that Belgium's share of German reparations is more than four times as large as Italy's. Fourth, that Belgium has priority over Italy on German reparations and therefore her share is likely to be even larger as compared to Italy's.

MAY OFFER BRITAIN $13,000,000 A YEAR

Caillaux's Reported Debt Terms Discussed in Paris—British Want Settlement.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—It is reported that when Finance Minister Caillaux goes to England next week to negotiate France's debt he may offer to pay £13,000,000 annually.

The basis of England's settlement with the Allies will be that London must receive from Germany and the allied debtors what England pays Washington. She pays Washington £33,000,000 a year. If Germany carries out the Dawes plan England's share of reparations will be about £15,000,000 a year, leaving £18,000,000 to be paid by the Allies, of which France may offer, it is said, to shoulder £13,000,000 on the understanding that this sum will be subject to reduction if England collects a larger proportionate share from Italy and her other debtors.

Up to the present England has asked a guarantee of annual payments of £20,000,000 by France, subject to the same possible reductions the French would apply to a £13,000,000 settlement. England would have the same priority rights as the United States under any settlement between Paris and Washington.

The same quarters which cite the £13,000,000 offer to England favor $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 annual payments to the United States, whereas the terms of the Belgian settlement would indicate that the American demand will be for about $125,000,000 or $130,000,000 annually.

The French say that $165,000,000 annual payments for both England and America represents the maximum which France can pay, that being a sum equal to the payments England makes the United States, and it is added that France can live up to this bargain only if Germany fulfills the Dawes plan.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Now that the French Finance Minister, M. Caillaux, is definitely expected here Sunday night on a flying trip to be devoted to trying to find a solution of the English and French differences of opinion regarding France's debt to England, a report has arisen that these differences are so great that M. Caillaux may be forced to make a second visit to London before he makes any headway.

Official circles here emphasize British willingness to come to terms with France regarding the latter's debt. There is no attempt, however, to minimize the wide divergence still existing between the British and French views on the debt tangle.

Incidentally, the coming visit of M. Caillaux is being linked up on all sides here with an agreement between the United States and Belgium on the latter's war debt to the former, which provides an opportunity for plenty of hard words, both for France and the United States. France is admonished to remember that sooner or later she must do something toward paying her debts to Britain if she wishes to preserve her credit unimpaired. The general debt position as seen by many here is crystallized in the following remarks by one caustic London commentator:

"Next Monday Mr. Churchill will meet M. Caillaux in an attempt to reach a British settlement with France. So far the United States is being paid by Britain and Belgium. No one is paying us."

M. Caillaux is expected to leave Paris Sunday noon, arriving here early the same evening. He will be accompanied only by his secretary. Upon arrival in London he will confer with several French financial experts also expected here from Paris on Sunday. These experts may remain in London after M. Caillaux departs for France.

M. Caillaux and Mr. Churchill will meet Monday. It is impossible to say yet how long M. Caillaux will remain here. The opinion is being freely expressed that it would be most suitable to arrive at some settlement of the Franco-British debt difficulties in the forthcoming Caillaux-Churchill parleys, now that the United States and Belgium have succeeded in making an agreement.

Britons are pleased at American insistence that the generosity shown toward Belgium does not constitute a precedent for future American action. In this they see a barbed dart aimed particularly at France, and they have been prompt in showering darts of their own in France's direction barbed with the implication that the settlement of the Anglo-French debt question must be upon strictly business principles without the admixture of sentimentality.

Wants British Terms Modified.

A suggestion that since more favorable terms have been granted to Belgium than to Britain the British agreement should be similarly modified is made editorially in The Daily Mail.

"The British people have the right to expect," says The Daily Mail, "that whatever payments are made to the United States by any of the countries which owe it money shall be accompanied by equal payments to the British Treasury. We believe the fairness of this claim is generally recognized in America, as also that if more favorable terms are granted by the United States Government to other countries than were given to Britain the British agreement ought to be similarly modified.

"In the meantime the British public would like to know whether, as an effect of the Belgian agreement with the United States, we get money from Belgium only if she gets it from Germany, whereas the United States is paid by Belgium whether or not Germany pays up under the Dawes scheme."

The Morning Post is also critical of the settlement.

"We do not know on what grounds the American Debt Commission thus differentiates between its various debtors in the process of collection. It is understood, however, that the terms of the Belgian settlement do not form a precedent, and we can well believe it. There seems to be a general and happy agreement, in which British statesmen eagerly joined, that Britain alone should pay the greater part of the cost of the war.

"America demands her bond alone among the Allies and associated nations. If the financial assistance given by America is to be treated by the Debt Commission as an investment, the part taken by the United States in the war necessarily assumes a very different complexion from the part taken by the Allies in the contest."

Pilgrims Commemorate Pius X.

ROME, Aug. 20 (AP).—A constant stream of pilgrims filed past the tomb of the late Pope Pius X in St. Peter's throughout today, which was the eleventh anniversary of the death of the venerable Pontiff. Hundreds laid wreaths on the marble tomb and knelt beside it in prayer.

WIDE TRIBUTE PAID TO VICTOR LAWSON

President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes Express Regret on Death of Publisher.

HIS INFLUENCE EXTOLLED

Funeral Will Take Place Monday and Will Be Marked by Simple Ceremony.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Victor Fremont Lawson, proprietor and editor of The Daily News, who died suddenly last night at his home, 1,500 Lake Shore Drive, in his seventy-fifth year, will be buried on Monday morning, following a simple funeral service in the New England Church, at Delaware Place and North Dearborn Street. Out of respect for Mr. Lawson's wishes, no service will be held at the home, and only close friends and relatives will witness the burial in Graceland Cemetery.

That the church funeral may be as nearly private as possible, in keeping with the career it closes, all seats in the church will be held for personal friends and acquaintances of Mr. Lawson until 10:55 o'clock.

Among these will be the twenty-odd members of the Commercial Club, intimate friends of Mr. Lawson. They will attend the funeral together, Rufus C. Dawes, President of the club, said today.

The pallbearers, active and honorary, are to be men who were close to Mr. Lawson in life—associates on The Daily News, friends in public and business circles, newspaper contemporaries.

Wide Representation in Pallbearers.

The pallbearers will be:

ACTIVE.

Two of the honorary pallbearers—Mr. Langland and Mr. Strong—were business associates as well as cousins of the publisher. The former is editor of The Daily News Almanac, the latter business manager of The Daily News.

Mr. Lawson's friends had not decided today on a minister to conduct the funeral service. The Rev. John R. Heyworth, pastor of the New England Church, is at St. Andrews, East Quebec, on his vacation.

No Premonitory Sign of Death.

Mr. Lawson's death was peaceful though sudden. At the close of an anxious day his physicians had thought him rallying toward recovery. He seemed comfortable and in no danger at 9 o'clock in the evening. Then, without a premonitory sign of distress, the stroke came. Mr. Lawson was dead before the nurses watching at his bedside were aware of the attack.

Mrs. Clark M. Cavenee, a niece, was the only relative with Mr. Lawson when he died. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Iver Lawson, had been with their brother early in July, but had returned to their home in San Diego. Mr. Lawson's only other close connections are William Harrison Bradley, his brother-in-law, and Mrs. Bradley's daughters, Miss Marion Kari Bradley and Miss Mary Linda Bradley. Mr. Bradley was at his home in Ridgefield, Conn; Miss Mary Bradley in Arizona, and Miss Marion Bradley in New York. Mr. Lawson's illness had not seemed serious enough to warrant calling any of them to Chicago.

Friends Stunned by Death.

The news that Mr. Lawson had died stunned the little group of friends at the home and was heard incredulously by associates who had seen and talked with him within the week.

Mr. Lawson himself seemed unworried by his illness. He said nothing to those who were with him to indicate that he did not feel sure of recovery. His mind was fully engaged with the affairs of The Daily News until the end. His death caught him almost in action, for on the desk in his home lay papers that he had set aside only a short while before to be taken up later.

To those who were closest to Mr. Lawson his sudden death was a shock but not a surprise. Mr. Lawson had persisted so long in overworking that his death under the strain was inevitable. His lieutenants had frequently urged him in recent months to be more merciful to himself.

The two earlier breakdowns, of which only a few were aware, were disregarded warnings. The first attack made Mr. Lawson an invalid for nine months in Europe. The second nearly cost him his life. In spite of those attacks, Mr. Lawson vigorously carried in his seventy-fifth year a burden that had been too heavy for him when he was much younger.

His only recreation was walking. Before Mrs. Lawson died, in 1914, the two were fond of travel, but in his later years Mr. Lawson practically gave up that recreation.

President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes expressed admiration of Victor F. Lawson, editor and publisher of The Daily News, in statements to The Associated Press today, on learning of Mr. Lawson's sudden death in Chicago.

Tribute from President Coolidge.

"A pre-eminent example of a patriotic American," said President Coolidge, in summing up his appreciation of Mr. Lawson's career. His statement, issued at Plymouth, Vt., follows:

"For a long time I have known Victor F. Lawson and of his good works. He rose from humble beginnings to a place of great leadership and influence. He represented what our country extends to all its inhabitants in the way of opportunity. I can think of no better way to describe his achievements as a friend, a journalist and a statesman than to say he was a pre-eminent example of a patriotic American."

Vice President Dawes's statement was given out in Chicago. It follows:

"The death of Victor Lawson is an irreparable loss to this city and State and to American journalism. He has demonstrated that dignity, high purpose, cleanliness and conviction in journalism are not incompatible with great business success.

"Mr. Lawson was a most sincere and conscientious man. To him his position as the editor and publisher of a great newspaper was one of public trusteeship. His positions were taken in accordance with his ideas of what was right rather than what was popular, and yet he lived to see that that which was right, courageously presented, always received eventually general public support.

"He possessed a singularly sympathetic nature and a tender heart. His charities were as numerous and large as they were unostentatious. A fine public spirit was one of the guiding motives of his life. Seldom was a meeting called for the betterment of civic conditions without the attendance of Victor F. Lawson or without his financial support.

"He will be mourned by the whole city and especially by those who enjoyed his friendship and personal contact with him. We have lost a great and good citizen, a strong and upright leader and a friend to all in need."

VICTOR F. LAWSON,
Photographed When He Received the Degree of LL.D. at Columbia University in June, 1924.

Cabinet officials, statesmen and political leaders—Washington officialdom generally—spoke no less emphatically than President Coolidge did in commenting on Mr. Lawson's death.

"Mr. Lawson was a great journalist," said Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State. "He occupied a most prominent place in his profession for nearly half a century and every one will regret his death."

Cardinal Telegraphs Regrets.

His Eminence, George Cardinal Mundelein, who at present is in the East, sent the following telegram to The Daily News:

"Deeply regret to hear news of death of Victor F. Lawson. His death deprives the country of its ablest publisher and editor, Chicago of one of its greatest constructive citizens, and myself of a warm friend and well wisher."

CARDINAL MUNDELEIN.

"Victor F. Lawson was a powerful—perhaps the greatest—influence for good that Chicago has had within her borders during the last forty years," read part of a telegram sent by Mayor William E. Dever from Atlantic City.

Praise of Mr. Lawson's leadership in clean, independent journalism came from newspaper publishers the country over today in messages deploring the sudden death of the editor of The Daily News.

Editors of other Chicago newspapers joined with journalists generally in speaking appreciation of the stalwart, forward-looking independence of The Daily News and of the service that Mr. Lawson rendered honest reporting in his development of The Associated Press.

"A great and good man," telegraphed Melville E. Stone, Mr. Lawson's one-time associate in ownership of The Daily News and in promotion of The Associated Press.

Frank B. Noyes, President of The Associated Press, sent the following message:

"WINTER HARBOR, Me., Aug. 20.—It is an inexpressible shock and grief to me to learn of Mr. Lawson's death. A great figure in American journalism has passed."

Edgar T. Cutter, superintendent of The Associated Press, expressed his sympathy in a message saying that "the passing of Mr. Lawson is a very great loss to humanity and to newspaper life.

"I have learned to know Mr. Lawson as a kindly Christian gentleman, whose constant desire was to be helpful," he wrote. "His efforts for constructive journalism have had far-reaching results at a time when clean newspapers were a tremendous influence for the betterment of the race."

"All newspapers are indebted for his superb leadership in newspaper morality and enterprise," said Charles D. Atkinson the The Atlanta Journal.

"By his passing American journalism loses its most constructive and courageous champion and the founder of what we today know as independent newspapers," was the message from Jason Rogers, former publisher of The New York Globe and now publisher of The Advertisers' Weekly.

Melville E. Stone's message, expressing the attitude of Mr. Lawson's associate in the development of The Associated Press, and a message from Kent Cooper, Mr. Stone's successor as general manager of The Associated Press, follow in full:

Stone Reviews Long Acquaintance.

"I have just learned of Mr. Lawson's death and am utterly prostrated by it. For fifty years or more he and I were very intimate friends. We began our acquaintance as schoolmates at the old Chicago High School, and he joined me in the ownership and conduct of The Chicago Daily News when I was 29 years old and he 27. We worked together in the formative days of the paper for twelve years, he as business manager and I as editor, and there was never the slightest friction between us. He was a great and good man, conscientious, generous and with an everabiding determination to do his duty as a Christian gentleman.

"MELVILLE E. STONE."

"Victor F. Lawson was an inspiring figure in American journalism. He once referred to The Associated Press as being his greatest adventure, and indeed it was. His devotion to the ideals of the newspaper profession was reflected in his ardent interest in The Associated Press. Associated Press men scattered throughout the world hold him in reverence. Just so, memory of him will be revered by them throughout the years.

"KENT COOPER."

"Mr. Lawson was one of the greatest citizens Chicago ever has known," said Joseph Medill Patterson, one of the two co-editors of The Chicago Tribune. "As a journalist there have been few to compare with him. He made his newspaper great without cheap compromises with popular taste and paralleled his career as an editor with long and successful service as head of The Associated Press."

Influence Large and Lasting.

Colonel R. R. McCormick, co-editor of The Chicago Tribune:

"Mr. Lawson's influence upon the city of his birth was large and lasting. As a newspaper editor he developed the best tendencies of the modern journal, carrying his own publication through the period of transition in which old journalistic ideals and standards were to meet the demands of great circulation and popular interests. In doing so he largely affected American journalism, contributing to its best ideals and its most effective gathering and distribution of news. His influence upon the government and the social welfare of his native city was remarkable."

John C. Shaffer, editor and publisher of The Chicago Evening Post, said he was profoundly shocked by the news of Mr. Lawson's death.

"Mr. Lawson's death is a great loss to the community," said Mr. Shaffer. "Mr. Lawson was one of the outstanding men in Chicago's history. He was a man of the highest character and ability. He stood out always for the clean, the healthy and the hopeful in civic affairs and in journalism. I am keenly sorry to hear of his death."

William A. Curley, editor of the Chicago Evening American:

"Every editor in the country who believes in clean journalism, fair fighting and original enterprise will feel a distinct loss in the death of Mr. Lawson."

William L. McLean, publisher of the Philadelphia Bulletin:

"For nearly half a century Victor F. Lawson was a creative force in American newspaperdom. His achievement in the up-building of the Daily News was great. He was a founder of The Associated Press and continued throughout his life an untiring worker and a valued counselor. He was a large factor in the perfection of that great news-gathering organization and made the entire newspaper-reading public debtor to him."

Ralph Pulitzer, editor of the New York World:

"Mr. Lawson was a wise, upright and strong influence in American journalism. He was the originator of his own successful newspaper formula which had for its components wholesome human interest, political independence, gentility and calm. These elements distinguished not only his news features, but his news and editorials as well. The result is to be seen in the eminence in its field of the Daily News, certainly as powerful a community leader as a newspaper could hope to be. He will be mourned but he will be remembered both by his profession and his vast public."

Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution:

"The exemplary character and remarkable genius of Victor F. Lawson is reflected in his life work and The Daily News stands as a monument to his life work more impressive than a marble mausoleum."

Editor of Boundless Energy.

H. V. Jones, editor of The Minneapolis Journal:

"One of the giants of newspaperdom has fallen, full of years and good works. Victor F. Lawson was a man of wide horizon and boundless energy. Amid the whirl of directing a great newspaper he found time and zest for many cognate activities. His service to The Associated Press and to The American Publishers' Association was typical. Whereas he might merely have adorned American journalism, he sought ever to improve it."

Frank P. MacLennan, publisher of The Topeka State Journal:

"America loses a journalist who had ideals and maintained them. My association with him on the Board of Directors of The Associated Press and my friendship with him and admiraton for him at all times makes his loss most keenly felt. Victor F. Lawson has been an outstanding power in the advancement of American journalism. His success proved his theories."

Dewitt MacKenzie, head of The Associated Press Bureau in London, forwarded the condolences of The Associated Press in Europe and expressed profound personal grief. So did the London chief of the United Press, who declared that "we all feel that we were Mr. Lawson's friends."

No Illusions of Greatness.

No ornate monument will mark the grave at Graceland wherein he will be buried on Monday.

There will be a marker carved with the dates of birth and death at the head of the grave. Naught else.

The kinsman closest to him emphasized this arrangement as characteristic of Victor Lawson, saying:

"He had no illusions of greatness and no craving for a posthumous renown. He knew that when he should be through he would be through. That was one of the reasons he never permitted himself to think he 'was The Daily News.' He had a lively sense that The Daily News was an institution and that he was a person subject to natural laws. Hence he firmly detached his personality—in the sense of purely personal likings and dislikings—from the journal that meant half a century of his life. His attitude in that respect accounted for what many persons who knew him little but thought they knew him better called his 'peculiar feeling' about the inviolability of his personal affairs."

Interest in Disposition of Paper.

Great interest in what disposition Victor F. Lawson's will may make of his newspaper, The Chicago Daily News, and of other portions of his estate, which is large, was expressed today.

It was regarded as probable that the publisher's will—and it is considered certain he has left one—will not be filed or made public until after his funeral on Monday. Neither of Mr. Lawson's attorneys—Walter L. Fisher or John J. Healy—could be located when efforts were made to learn where the will was safeguarded.

Mr. Lawson was a widower, his wife having died several years ago. They had no children and Mr. Lawson has few close relatives.

GOVERNMENT BONDS ADVANCE ON BUYING

Prices Up From 1-16 to 2-3 of a Point, With Transactions Heaviest in Weeks.

Prices of United States Government securities advanced from one-sixteenth to two-thirds of a point in response to a strong buying movement yesterday. Transactions were the heaviest in weeks, and the close was virtually at the day's high points. The gains were general both in Liberty bonds and Treasury issues.

The market was influenced by the expectation in Wall Street that the Government financing in September will consist of only a small bond issue at a low interest rate, and by the belief that money rates will remain low for the remainder of the year. Investors apparently believe that with the supply of Government bonds steadily diminishing through reductions in the national debt and payments by foreign debtors United States Government bonds will not be obtainable in the future at yields higher than those prevailing at present.

The largest advance yesterday was in Treasury 4¼s, which closed at 107.4, a net gain of two-thirds of a point for the day. Liberty first 4¼s advanced seven-sixteenths of a point, closing at 102.7, and the registered bonds of the same issue rose nine-sixteenths of a point, the final sale being at 102. Liberty second 4¼s closed at 101.1, a net gain of one-fourth of a point, and Liberty third 4¼s advanced three-eighths, closing at 101.20. There were advances of half a point in Liberty fourth 4¼s and seven-sixteenths in Treasury 4s.

Yesterday's was the first sharp rally to occur for some time in Government bonds, which have been receding gradually. Market experts believe the present demand is likely to continue, particularly from large fiduciary institutions and from industrial corporations.

FOUR YOUNG FOLKS MISSING

Police Send Out Alarm for Two Boys and Two Girls.

The Missing Persons Bureau at Police Headquarters sent out general alarms last night for two girls and two youths who disappeared from different parts of the city at different times.

The parents of Vincentine Sica, 15 years old, believe she eloped Monday night with Biagio di Santo a former boarder in the Sica home at 2,511 Third Avenue.

Genevieve Rogers, 18 years old, a radio operator who lived with her grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Simmons, at 750 Ninth Avenue, disappeared Aug. 1.

Charles Hereth, 19 years old, who was the main support of his widowed mother and four young brothers and sisters in their home at 625 East Sixteenth Street, disappeared last Tuesday from a boys' camp at Bear Mountain.

Abraham Gelman of 60 Forley Street, Elmhurst, Queens, reported last night that his son, Robert, 16 years old, a student at Newtown High School, had left a note yesterday morning at his home, in which he wrote that he was "going out West."

Baby Bottles

THE scientific pick and shovel men who are excavating in Egypt have unearthed enough nursing bottles to prove that some of the babies of two thousand years ago took their nourishment as many babies of today take theirs. Nothing as yet has been dug up to enlighten us as to how baby's milk was kept at a safe temperature.

Milk to be safe must be kept absolutely cold. Keeping it at a safe temperature today is a matter of a good refrigerator well supplied with clean, pure Knickerbocker Ice.

CHINESE PUZZLE HAS MANY FACETS

But All Show the Necessity of Foreign Action of Some Sort on Unequal Treaties.

NOTES ARE CALLED FUTILE

Some Revision Must Be Agreed To or China Will Break Them, Shanghai Observer Thinks.

INTENSE FEELING IN CHINA

Powers Accused of Using Money to Stir Up Disorders So as to Avoid Peace Parleys.

By THOMAS F. MILLARD.

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, July 24.—It has been remarked that diplomacy is able to find very few ways of doing anything actually constructive, but it has the devil's own power to prevent things from being done. One realizes that it is quite possible that diplomacy through inherent fatuousness or because of ulterior motives may succeed in delaying indefinitely any broad revision of the China treaties.

If so, what then?

To generalize, it can be foreseen that almost surely a failure to go some distance toward meeting Chinese nationalistic feeling in this matter will cause what is termed "anti-foreignism" to grow steadily and, like a suppressed volcano, to spurt out now and then with violences, boycotts and a pressure of mass psychosis against everything foreign. In the long run the Chinese can beat us at that game, too; that is, they can beat us in so far as the business and comfort of foreigners in China are concerned.

To particularize, no national Government of China (and no provincial Government, either) which attempts to withstand and suppress this swelling "recovery of rights" movement will be able to remain long in power. If the present Government at Peking so much as gives an appearance of yielding to the powers in any of the leading issues of treaty revision it probably soon will be replaced by a Government dominated by the extreme radical elements. This being so, it is evident that for China firmly to demand broad treaty revision and for the powers to refuse, leads to an impasse. The logical outcome of such a situation is strained relations, and a continuance of strained relations usually results in severance of diplomatic contacts.

There are a number of ways whereby oblique diplomacy may be able to stave off treaty revision. The stock argument, of course, is that China is "not yet ready" to have her full sovereign powers restored. I believe that is true in one sense. But the Chinese intelligentsia retort:

"Well, who is to decide when China is ready? Is that to be decided exclusively by foreign powers? Or do Chinese have anything to say about it?"

Here again we wind up squarely before the question: Will the powers in unity, or any one of them, go to war with China rather than revise the treaties? For, if the Chinese succeed in going on with their program, it cannot be very long before they will confront the powers with abolition of some of the treaties by ultimatum.

However, diplomacy does dearly love to squirm and wriggle around questions of this nature, and it is not improbable that, if confronted by an impasse at Peking and in the other capitals, it will evade the issue of war and will pursue the line, as in the case of Russia, of merely withdrawing recognition from China and waiting for her to blow up or simmer down.

Tells of "Silly" Peking Diplomacy.

The fictitious character of the authority of the various Governments which in the last few years have held on at Peking has been evident for some time, as also is the irregularity of the "elections" by which their authority was established. Yet, after each overturn, the powers almost hastily have given recognition to the new Government. Apparently there has been a fear on the part of the powers that unless recognition was given promptly a situation disadvantageous or dangerous to the foreign position in China would be precipitated. Diplomacy abhors a vacuum, and a lot of diplomats sitting in Peking with no Government to write notes to would look rather silly.

They look silly enough as it is, for the powers through all these political and military upsets have continued to address diplomatic notes to the Peking Government, demanding that it perform its treaty functions in respect to foreigners when the fact that the Government is unable to enforce such orders is perfectly known. In this this process has brought contempt and derision on the legations and almost has destroyed their influence.

It never seems to occur to the powers that there is any other way out of this situation except to stand pat on the treaties and continue to write protests.

It implies no unfriendly feeling toward a nation to withhold diplomatic recognition of a new Government for a reasonable time. With a nation in political flux a reasonable hesitation sometimes is better than the hasty recognition of every "Government" that comes along. The position of foreigners has, I believe, suffered more by the process in late years of hasty recognition and continuous note writing at Peking than they would suffer from a non-committal attitude, because such note writing has to Chinese the complexion of nagging their nation, and the net result is to pound the objectionable treaties into popular psychology.

Treaty rights do not require to be continually asserted to make them valid; in fact, when a treaty has come to a point when it is necessary for one of the parties to be constantly reminding the other party about it the usefulness of that treaty is nearly finished. To maintain the fiction of constantly insisting that a Government must enforce treaties when in fact it is confronted with a popular psychosis which deprives it of power to enforce them is to wither treaty rights by diplomatic casuistry.

An alternative to recognition of some national Government in China is to sever diplomatic relations. A situation may come about, perhaps in a few months, when the American Government would have to sever diplomatic relations with China. Such a situation can be caused at any time by the Peking Government, or what may pass for it, insulting or affronting the American Government. In view of the possibility (lacking any prompt moves toward treaty revision) that a radical Government may obtain power at Peking, a gesture of that nature might suit its ends. I mention the American Government in this connection, not that it is likely to be picked out among the powers for such a step, but for illustration.

That a state of severance of diplomatic relations with China by a number of powers would set China definitely in line with Soviet Russia is evident, and in this circumstance lies the motive for certain political influences which may try to bring it about.

Sometimes it is pointed out in discussions here that in the event of conditions compelling a severance of diplomatic relations by some of the major powers, actual contact with the country can be carried on through consular officials in the foreign residential concessions. That is so only provided the powers would maintain their positions in the concessions by military force.

Powers Must "Watch Their Step."

I am rather astounded to observe the tremendous change that has taken place in China within the last six months. A year ago one was justified in assuming that in any event the position of foreigners in the settlements concessions would be respected by Chinese. It is not possible to assume that now; rather the contrary is so. If any power now severs diplomatic relations with Peking, its entire consular position almost surely will fall also. Yet, unless the powers "watch their step," such a situation may be forced. It is part of the calculated program of the Chinese radicals if broad treaty revision is not accomplished.

I find these pertinent observations in Ellery C. Stowell's work, "Intervention in International Law."

"Every powerful State makes use of its political influence to induce its neighbors, especially its weaker neighbors, to adopt the course which the powerful State believes will prove most advantageous to itself. This influence is, as we have said, especially potent with the smaller States, who fear to give offense. To ignore the suggestion from a great State may cause the latter to seek at the first opportunity a pretext for employing its superior force against the weaker, or—what is more likely to occur—it may lend its influence covertly to support the internal enemies of the Government until they overthrow and replace it with one more pliant to the foreign will. Even though the great State do no more than to insist upon the meticulous observance of the letter of its strict rights in all their relations, the resulting inconveniences and annoyances might prove intolerable for the weaker State. * * * Whenever a great State relies upon its superior force to make its weaker neighbor line up to the strictest interpretation of its rights while it continues to allow itself the habitual latitude in fulfilling its reciprocal obligations, the weaker State must surely yield unless it finds as champion some other powerful State."

The Chinese press is warning the people that in order to prevent treaty revision some of the powers may seek to bring about collisions between powerful Chinese militarists, especially in the region of the Yangtse Delta, which, by involving again the security of Shanghai, would provide a further example of China's internal confusion and make a concrete need to protect the concessions by some kind of international action.

Rumors that the military authorities of Kiangsu and Chekiang Provinces soon will go to war are persistently circulated here and are telegraphed abroad as arguments against holding an early conference. Chinese assert that foreign money is being used to foment internal war, and they do not mean Soviet money either.

Plan to Protect Shanghai.

Since the clashes in this region of rival militarists and the consequent involvement of these concessions and the entire port of Shanghai in the disturbances, various plans to secure the immunity of the port and settlements from such operations have been advanced. All of them, however, are predicated on the thesis of maintaining the existing status of the foreign concessions.

The plain most favored by foreigners (except by the missionary class) is to create a neutral zone around the port, and for the powers to provide a military garrison to police it. The police and volunteers of the concessions are insufficient even for the adequate protection of the present areas of the settlements in times of serious trouble, and they cannot remain constantly mobilized. It is estimated that at least 20,000 troops are needed for this purpose at Shanghai. And if that method is adopted it should logically be extended to all foreign residential concessions in China. It would amount to foreign military occupation on a restricted scale.

Another idea is for the powers to create for these purposes a special "international police." Of course, that would be only camouflage for military intervention. Chinese are quite familiar with the process from the use of Russian and Japanese "railway guards" in Manchuria and in Shantung.

One can turn this situation around as many times as one likes, but every fact will show the same condition. That it is a choice between complying in some degree with Chinese nationalistic sentiment or using force to hold the existing foreign position.

STEAM HEAT IN AUGUST.

Tenant Says Landlord Turned It On to Get Him to Move.

Louis Charchowski of 2,427 Jerome Avenue, the Bronx, came to the Morrisania Court yesterday after what he said was a sleepless night to ask Magistrate Vitale for a warrent for his landlord, Louis Leach of 2,424 Davidson Avenue, the Bronx.

"He's keeping the steam heat on," said Charchowski. "At first I thought it was another heat wave, but last night I learned better when I heard steam coming from the radiators. He wants me to move, and I want a warrant for him."

Magistrate Vitale granted a summons against Leach returnable today.

William Lubin, 35 years old, of 1,884 Belmont Avenue, the Bronx, was held yesterday in $500 bail for Special Sessions by Magistrate Vitale on the complaint of Mrs. Barbara Mulholland, wife of Police Sergeant George Mulholland, of 1,074 Jackson Avenue, the Bronx, who said Lubin refused to rent her an apartment at 1,049 Forest Avenue, the Bronx, because there were three children in their family.

Arrest Man Resembling Anderson.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 20 (AP)—A man answering the general description of George "Dutch" Anderson, pal of Gerald Chapman, and wanted for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hance of Muncie, Ind., was arrested by the local police today and is held pending the arrival of a detailed description of Anderson from Muncie. The prisoner says his name is Hogan and his home Texas. A remarkable resemblance to photographs of Anderson caused his arrest.

Ten Powers Sign Alcohol Agreement

HELSINGFORS, Aug. 20 (AP).—An agreement aimed to suppress alcohol smuggling among Finland, Sweden, Norway, Poland, Germany, Denmark, Russia, Esthonia, Latvia and Danzig was signed here today by representatives of these countries.

eral authorities could take steps to protect it against vandals. The next morning, however, they found that Mexican children can be as destructive as their American brothers and sisters. Some urchins had entered the tomb and amused themselves by hurling mud balls and stones at the figures on the walls. The scientists repaired the damage and turned over the tomb to the proper authorities.

On Way to "Mystery City."

Another example of the versatility of the Mayas was found at Comalcalco. There is much clay there and the Mayas made skillful use of it. A large quantity of clay bricks was seen, the largest one measuring six feet long, three feet wide and three inches thick. It was used as a lintel for a window. The bricks were covered with rude attempts at caricatures and hierogyphs. Evidently the old brick molders nad attempted to ape the more gifted sculptors of the tribe.

At Macuspana, Tata, pure descendant of the ancient Mayas, who has been brought to New Orleans for research purposes, was found. He proved a godsend. He took care of the horses, soon became an adept at cleaning old monuments for photographing and was a true friend and excellent companion.

Next the party went to Tortuguero, a ruin never before visited by archaeologists. The President of the town introduced the labor leader, who demanded unreasonable terms for labor. Mr. Blom engaged a band of Indians, and two new monuments were quickly unearthed with the date 388 A. D.

At Zopo a guide found a cave reported to contain ruins. The underground channel proved to lead from a small hole in a broad limestone wall. The Maya builders had sealed the entrance with the wall. A narrow passageway led down to several large artificial terraces on which many bones, pottery and other evidences of ancient habitation were found. It evidently had been a seat of worship at which the high priests sought to placate the mountain and water gods. The Tulane men were the first white men to enter the cave.

The party continued next to Saltode, Agua, whence they began a search for a mysterious ruined city between that point and Palenque of which they had heard many rumors. After crossing a small river in canoes and struggling up a steep hill they began to meet fallen walls and mounds. Then real Maya ruins began to appear.

They found a main temple one side of which was in perfect condition. At the front, to their consternation, they found that a large tree had fallen on the ruins, crushing the centre part of the temple and burying whatever secrets the "mystery city" might hide under fifteen feet of stone and debris. Since Tulane University had contracted with the Mexican Government not to do any excavating, the explorers were forced to content themselves with studying and mapping the new ruins and returning to Finca Iowa (ranch) in Agua.

Ready to Drop From Exhaustion.

The trail led through a long, open series of savannas on which there was not a drop of water. To attempt a crossing in the blistering sun of the day was extremely hazardous to both men and animals, so the start was made by moonlight. Toward dawn explorers and animals were ready to drop with exhaustion.

"We were in pretty bad shape," Mr. Blom said in describing the long, moonlight ride. "Every passing object began to take on a weird and unearthly shape. All of our childhood witches and hobgoblins revived with terrifying force. Even the innocent bushes became strange, green-eyed monsters which clutched greedily at us as we passed. We dozed continuously in our saddles. Then one of us would mutter something and feebly try to brush away the horrible hullucinations. The coming of the dawn and the fact that we missed the main trail once and had considerable difficulty regaining it helped to revive us somewhat. But we were a pretty sorry sight as we rode into the Village of Palenque that morning."

Narrowly Escape Bandits.

The next day they learned they had narrowly escaped being attacked by bandits. A merchant had been held up and robbed on the very part of the main trail from which they wandered.

A day was spent at the beautiful and much-studied Palenque ruins one of the greatest cities of the Maya Empire. A caretaker engaged by Mr. Blom on a visit several years ago, reported the finding of three new monuments, two of them with dates. A large quantity of scientific data was collected.

The journey to the next objective, Finca Encanto, was difficult and hazardous because of precipitous ascents and descents and almost impenetrable forests. Four Bachajon Indians were engaged to cut a trail through the network of underbrush. The first day Xura, a small ruin was found. The party here climbed through a narrow pass in the mountain range.

The next three days, slow progress was made behind the trail cutters, but finally an open trail appeared, leading to a broad rich valley in Encanto and the ranch.

New Ruined Cities Found.

The first ruins visited were new. Chuctiepa revealed four pyramids but nothing of much importance scientifically. The next side trip was to Yocihiha, where a series of ruined cities were found by the banks of a natural bridge and whirlpool. This was probably the most important discovery of the expedition.

A large collection of unexcelled pottery, and the evidence, related yesterday, that the Mayas were skilled in tooth treating, were found. On the top of a small mountain another new ruin, Huxumachital, was discovered. It consisted of a temple and other stone buildings. This moved the line of Maya stone buildings further west and filled in some gaps in the history of the race which have been puzzling archelogists for many years.

Leaving Encanto, the explorers climbed mountains for several days toward the highlands of Chiapas.

Ocosingo was the second new cluster of ancient cities to be visited. A great quantity of idols and monuments, most of them appropriately inscribed, were unearthed. Before continuing toward San Cristobal and Comitan, they branched off through the San Jose Valley to the Finca El Real. This brought them to the border line of the big forest zone of some 15,000 square miles, inhabited by the Lacandone Indians, a tribe of sun worshipers. They dress in the bark of trees, use bows and arrows and are seldom seen by white men. They ran deeper into their dene forest retreats when the Tulane party approached and would not make friends.

Two days from the El Real ranch the party found a magnificent set of ruins which the Indians called Agua Escondida, meaning "hidden spring." The name is appropriate, for a stream about 100 feet long emerges suddenly from under a rock and disappears into a hole. It is the only water in many miles. About 1,000 feet from the water the explorers found a large mound, surrounded by a group of small rones. On the former were many ruins and at the top a magnificent temple, in a state of almost perfect preservation. Large trees had grown out of the roof. The temple consisted of three main rooms.

"The temple, from the perfect arrangement of the walls and the position of the different mounds, proves that it belongs to the best developed period of the old Maya Empire," said Mr. Blom.

BISHOP KIDNAPPED BY CHINESE BANDITS

By T. R. YBARRA.

matic circles as to how the United States would view joint naval action by Great Britain and Japan against Canton.

"Washington would be unlikely to raise any substantial objections to such naval measures as we and the Japanese may be constrained to take for the protection of British and Japanese merchantment and merchandise from physical interference by the Canton Reds, to judge from the American precedent of a few months old," says the diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Telegraph.

"This was in the struggle for mastery at and around Shanghai between Generals Li and Chi, and the defending commander sought to restrict the freedom of foreign vessels, including American ships, in the estuary.

"The retort of the American naval commander was that he would not hesitate to frustrate, by force if necessary, any such attempt to restrict the free navigation of American ships.

"America, in the light of this and other weightier facts, could not but approve the adoption by British and Japanese naval commanders off Cantonese ports of asimilar line of conduct should the need arise."

An additional complication of the situation is the fact that the present Cantonese Government is nominally subordinate to the Peking Government and hence cannot be recognized by foreign powers. Actually, however, it goes ahead without paying the slightest attention to Peking's orders.

So any representations addressed to Peking regarding Canton by the foreign powers would probably be quite ineffectual, since Canton would doubtless ignore them. But for England and the other powers to deal directly with the Canton authorities must be construed as an actual recognition of the Cantonese Government, a section of which is accused of being directed by the Moscow Bolshevists.

British Experts Are Puzzled.

The problem of the precise legal position of the Canton Government is giving the British experts a good deal of trouble. They are looking into it with great care before advising Mr. Chamberlain on the representations he should make to the United States and other Governments.

So far as known now, Canton has no legal status in international affairs. There have been many changes lately in the Government in power there and in South China, and it appears that at the moment those who have the upper hand do not control Kwangtung Province, their authority being limited to the City of Canton itself.

Some of the leaders seem to be under direct Bolshevist influence and are called bitterly hostile to certain Western powers, but it is not clear here as to what claim they have for holding power or how far they can rely upon popular support.

The problem is further complicated because Canton is the subject of a series of treaties, negotiated at different times and imperfectly coordinated. Therefore, it is necessary that Great Britain consider closely what these treaties cover before taking action.

Protests may be made pro forma by the British to the Peking authorities, but it is recognized here that Peking is powerless to take action that could modify the objectionable Canton manifesto.

Until the Government here has had time to satisfy itself regarding the legal status of the case and practical course to be taken, it will not communicate with the American Government.

Called an Act of Piracy.

LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP).—The new South China coastal regulations discriminating against British and Japanese shipping, as reported from Canton yesterday, are:

First, steamers of any nationality except British and Japanese will be allowed to use any port, provided they omit calling at the British port of Hongkong.

Second, all steamers upon entering ports must be subject to inspection by pickets of the Anti-Imperialist Union.

The statement of the British Consul General at Canton in his protest to the Chinese Government, that the regulations are in violation of Great Britain's treaty rights and are tantamount to a declaration of war, is endorsed by many newspapers here, although it is remarked that the Peking Government is probably powerless.

The general conclusion here is that the regulations are a deliberate affront by the so-called Cantonese Government, which lacks an international status. The action, therefore, is held by some here to be rather an act of piracy than of war.

Press discussions in London indicate a desire to have the support of the United States in any concerted action.

The Daily Mail's Hongkong correspondent says there is intense indignation among the British there, coupled with impatience at the apparent inaction of the British Government.

Canton Official Is Assassinated.

HONGKONG, Aug. 20 (AP).—Liu Chunghoi, Finance Minister of the Canton Government, has been assassinated.

He was one of the leaders of what is called the Bolshevist element in the Government, closely associated with Moscow.

DECIDE UPON SCOPE OF PEKING PARLEYS

Britain, Japan and America Will Discuss China's Plea for Customs Autonomy.

PLAN TO SEND JOINT NOTE

Expected Accord by Them on Scope of Conference Likely to Control Its Results.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, Aug. 20.—Today the Foreign Office states that Japan, America and England have agreed to accept China's customs conference invitation, and agree to discuss the tariff autonomy she seeks. They have completed a joint note to China concerning her demands. It is possible that a qualified acceptance will be included in a note to Peking next week.

It is reported but not confirmed that Japan seriously considers raising her Peking Legation to an Embassy before the conference convenes, thus making Mr. Yoshizawa the ranking negotiator.

The Cabinet is agreed that Japan's policy at the conference must be one of helpfulness to China, but the members disagree concerning the stand Japan is to take in the discussions among the powers prior to the opening of the Conference, when their joint attitude toward China will be decided.

The principal question to be solved at the pourparlers is the use of the increased revenue China will receive from the high tariffs. Japanese bankers support Finance Minister Hamaguchi in his contention that part of the funds should go to repay China's foreign debts, including the Nishihara loans made by Japan in 1918 on securities amounting to 180,000,000 yen, that China should make the Yokohama Specie Bank a depository for customs revenue, and that China should increase the number of Japanese tax collectors in the interior of China.

Commercial circles advocate the abolition of the likin, urge China to suppress the anti-Japanese boycott, and ask measures for improving trade.

The Cabinet will meet on Wednesday to decide on a policy for the pourparlers with the Britons and the Americans which will determine their joint attitude. Meanwhile the bureau chiefs of the Foreign Commerce and Finance Departments are debating on proposals.

The indications are that the pourparlers between these powers will be more important actually than the customs conference itself, as the powers agree that a common stand is absolutely necessary, but differ as to the exact terms under which the tariff will be raised.

A second note concerning the Shanghai affair is being prepared by the Peking diplomats, but they are progressing slowly at present.

To Hear China's Plan in Due Time.

TOKIO, Aug. 20 (AP).—The interested powers have virtually agreed on their attitude toward the proposed conference on the Chinese customs tariff. The Foreign Office, in a statement today, said it had been agreed that tariff autonomy cannot be granted China at present; the agenda arranged by the Washington agreement must first be considered by the conference, after which the delegates will decide regarding the discussion of any reasonable proposals China may make.

It was generally agreed that no decision should be made at present regarding the scope of the conference beyond the agenda provided by the Washington agreement.

While pointing out that tariff autonomy could not be granted China at present, the Foreign Office added that this did not preclude a discussion of the matter after the Washington agenda had been discussed.

Japan stresses that she is in perfect sympathy with Chinese desires and will vote in conference to discuss any proper matter after the prescribed agenda has been settled.

2 BOYS SET OUT WITH $11.

Mothers Believe They Left Homes to Seek Fortunes.

With a combined capital of $11, Joseph Scredi, 14 years old, and Leonard Tirente, 13 years old, both of 118 Madison Street, set out from their homes last Monday without bidding their parents farewell. At the request of the mothers, who believed their sons decided to seek their fortunes, Detective Petersen of the Oak Street Station is leading a search for the boys.

Mrs. Rose Scredi said her son was 5 feet tall, weighed 100 pounds and had brown hair and eyes. He wore a white blouse, brown knickerbockers and a gray cap. She added that he had $8 in his pocket when he left home. The Tirente boy, whose mother said he had $3, is 5 feet tall, weighs 102 pounds and has brown hair and eyes. He wore a blue waist and blue knickerbockers and a gray cap, the mother said.

were thus recorded in waves, varying from ten to four meters in lengths.

Calls Nature More Perfect Workman.

In the advance pages of his report Professor Cazzamali places great emphasis on the importance of his discovery, declaring:

"Who can say that nature is a less perfect workman than man? It is highly probable that she foresees and has foreseen in the perfection and evolution of the human brain infinitely varied possibilities."

He points out that his investigation brought him conclusions contrary to those reached in 1916 by the Russian Professor Lazareff.

"The discovery of the emission by the brain of short sound waves contradicts the calculations of Professor Lazareff," says Professor Cazzamali, "but is supported by an enormous wealth of information in the field of radiations.

"Marconi recalled recently at a meeting of the Royal Society of Arts that the rapid progress of radio transmission had caused research to concentrate its attention on long waves only. We have practically neglected the study of short waves, which, however, were employed in the classic experiment of Herz and Marconi himself.

"It was in 1916 that the latter, with a spark stimulator and crystal receiver, began the study of short waves. We know that these waves permit transmission, notably of the voice, at a great distance and possess a strong tendency to prefer darkness to light. The short waves eliminate the necessity of high-powered stations, demand less consumption of energy and are more sure and rapid in transmission.

M'MILLAN BLOCKS LAST POLAR FLIGHT

He Advises Against It and Wilbur Refuses Plea of Navy's Flying Chief.

PLANES DECLARED FAILURE

But Explorer Says Dirigibles Could Do Arctic Work—Expected in Maine Next Month.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Donald B. MacMillan, commander of the expedition which went North with hopes of being able to make an aerial exploration of the Polar Sea and now is about to quit its base at Etah, Greenland, in a message to the National Geographic Society today declared that planes had proved impractical and that dirigibles could do the work and should attempt it at the earliest opportunity.

Incidentally, he disclosed that Commander Byrd, chief of the naval aviation section of the expedition, "wished to make one more flight with maximum loads to prove to himself more decisively that the work cannot be done." MacMillan opposed this and appealed to the naval authorities against such a project.

Answering a message on the same subject from Commander Byrd, who, though emphasizing the hazards being encountered, did not ask to be withdrawn, but said his men favored "fighting hard as long as possible to achieve our mission," Secretary Wilbur today ordered Commander Byrd and the navy contingent to make no more flights over the Polar Sea, but to depart from Etah with MacMillan.

Expect MacMillan in Maine Sept. 20.

Nothing has been received from MacMillan by the Geographic Society confirmatory of the dispatch from Portland, Me., which stated that MacMillan had sent a message to Daniel W. Hoegg, managing editor of The Portland Evening Express, saying he would reach Wiscasset, Me., by Sept. 20.

The expectation is that the Peary and Bowdoin will travel together until after the proposed airplane exploratory flights over Baffin Island and to the Norse ruins in Southern Greenland and Labrador have been completed.

After that it is thought probable that the Peary will proceed south to Wiscasset, while the Bowdoin may remain behind to carry forward scientific work. The entire navy contingent is on the Peary. It is considered possible for the Peary to stand by for the proposed flights and reach Wiscasset by the 2nd of September.

In his message today Commander MacMillan said he was convinced from his present experience that Arctic work is extremely hazardous for airplanes because of the uncertainty of landing places and caches of food and gas cannot be relied upon.

Navy officials pointed out that his opinion coincides with the conclusions of Amundsen and Ellsworth after their recently attempted flight to the Pole. The consensus of opinion in the Navy Department is rather adverse to using the navy dirigibles for subsequent exploration of the polar area.

MacMillan Against Further Flight.

The message received from Commander MacMillan this afternoon was as follows:

"Our plans are now to give the photographers and scientists of the National Geographic Society every opportunity to do a big and valuable work by stopping at various places on the Greenland and Labrador coasts. All are enthusiastic and eager to embrace every opportunity.

"I am convinced that Far Northern Arctic work is extremely hazardous in heavier-than-air machines, simply because landing places are uncertain and caches of food and gas cannot be relied upon.

"A fiord is free today and icebound tomorrow. A cache, under such conditions is not a help but a menace, for if depended upon and a plane arrives out of fuel, destruction is the inevitable result.

"The lighter-than-air machine can do the work and should do it at the earliest opportunity.

"Our plans for the exploration of the unknown area of the Polar Sea northwest of Axel Heiberg Island cannot possibly be carried out before cold weather sets in.

"Commander Byrd wished to make one more flight with maximum loads to prove to himself more decisively that the work cannot be done.

"I admire his courage, as I do every man in his command. They have been flying over the ice-strewn waters and ice-capped hills, where safe landings are utterly impossible.

"If the officials of the United States Navy could have seen conditions from the air, I am confident that orders would have been issued to stop all work at once, due to bad weather, clouds, fog and snow.

"An unusually late Spring has resulted in bays being frozen over which, by past experience, I confidently believed would be free of ice. Our work has been delayed for two weeks. This, coupled with the resulting handicaps to airplane performance, has resulted in completely frustrating our plans."

This message was transmitted through Arthur A. Collins, the boy amateur operator of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who has "received" the Bowdoin and the Peary with marked success for the past two weeks.

Wilbur Orders End of Flying.

Secretary Wilbur today ordered Commander Byrd to cease flying and leave Etah with MacMillan, in the following message:

"Referring to your message of Aug. 18 and MacMillan's message to the National Geographical Society, the department considers further attempts to fly over Polar Sea not advisable this season. Withdraw with MacMillan and make such flights in secondary explorations as expedition returns south as you deem practicable after conferring with MacMillan.

"Department highly appreciates the fine spirit and splendid work of the naval unit under your command under very severe weather conditions."

Byrd Wanted to Fight to the Last.

Commander Byrd's message, to which the Secretary referred, after telling of repairing the damage to two of his planes continued:

"The reason that the Polar Sea has not yet been reached is because the weather has been so consistently bad that the mountains have been almost continuously covered with fog or clouds. Also we have had difficult time locating landing place on account of the ice and, when we do put down at base food and fuel, the ice is liable to close in overnight. There are no landing places whatever on the land.

"However, in spite of the handicaps, we can accomplish our mission if the weather remains good so that we can get over the mountains. Men in favor of fighting hard as long as possible to accomplish our mission. Please acknowledge."

ANDREWS DENIES MONGOLIA OUSTER

Explorer Cables Parents That He Did Not Break Agreement With Government.

BLAMES LOCAL FRICTION

And Says Conflict of Mongols and Reds Makes Further Work Impossible.

Special to The New York Times.

BELOIT, Wis., Aug. 20.—Desperate political conditions in Mongolia, caused by friction between the Russian Soviet and the Mongolian Government, have made research work in the Gobi Desert no longer safe, according to a cable received today from Roy Chapman Andrews by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Andrews.

In telling of his departure from Central Asia Andrews branded as false the reports that the Mongolian Government had ordered him to leave the country because of violation of terms of his agreement with the Government. He declared, however, that it would be foolhardy to continue work there in view of unsettled political conditions.

While the explorer reports that the "missing link" is still missing, he says his party has made some wonderful discoveries on this expedition, including very early prehistoric remains, dinosaur eggs larger than those discovered on an earlier expedition, arrow and spearheads, skeletons and charred bones. These, he believes, are relics of a race of sand-dune dwellers.

No Anxiety Felt Here for Him.

No alarm is felt here for the success or safety of the members of the Third Asiatic Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History under the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews which, dispatches from Urga, Mongolia, stated, had been ordered to cease exploration and to leave Mongolian territory as a result of alleged violations of an agreement with Mongolian scientific organizations.

Robert C. Murphy, acting director of the Museum, when told of the dispatches, and also that Mr. Andrews had been accused of employing in topographical work persons under suspicion by the Mongolian military authorities, said:

"The charge that Mr. Andrews has been engaged in propaganda against the 'Red Bolsheviki' is absurd. He has been in Mongolia five years, throughout which he has been engaged in purely scientific work and has been on friendly terms with the Government of Mongolia."

Louis D. Froelich, editor of Asia, a magazine which shares with the Museum the sponsorship of the expedition, admitted the possibility of "local difficulties" on the Mongolian border, but agreed with Mr. Murphy that the troubles of the expedition could not be very serious.

KELLOGG ASKS BAN ON LIQUOR CARGOES

Opening Conference With Canadians He Urges That Clearance Be Refused to Such Ships.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Secretary Kellogg in greeting the Canadian delegates who are here to confer with an American delegation on the question of regulations to enforce the anti-smuggling treaty between the United States and Canada, expressed the hope that it would be found possible to refuse clearances to ships with cargoes of liquor destined to the United States, and to provide for extradition in cases involving offenses against the customs laws of the two Governments.

The Secretary referred to the fact that for more than 100 years the long boundary between the United States and Canada had existed without conflicts and without armed forces, and declared that the present meeting was another evidence "of the interest of English-speaking people in law enforcement and of their ability to work together in suppressing crime and law violation. Mr. Kellogg pointed out that provisions along the lines of the Canadian agreement had been under discussion with the Government of Mexico and the commissioners of both Governments had definitely recommended treaties on these subjects.

"I understand," the Secretary continued, "that since the conference was held in Ottawa and the convention was signed on June 6, 1924, your Government has passed some laws with respect to smuggling which are very helpful. I hope that it will be found possible to take measures whereby clearances of ships with cargoes of liquor destined for the United States may be refused, since it is evident when such clearances are requested that the object of the expedition is unlawful. I also think it would be helpful if provision might be made in due course for extradition in cases involving offenses against the customs laws of our respective Governments."

SARTAIN LOSES NEW TRIAL

Court Denies Pleas of Ex-Warden of Atlanta and Ohio Man.

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 20 (AP).—Federal Judge Robert T. Ervin today denied a new trial to Albert E. Sartain, former Warden of the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, and Laurence Riehl, Columbus, Ohio, recently convicted of conspiracy to receive bribes.

The defendants will appeal to the United States Court of Appeals.

Sartain is under sentence of eighteen months, while Riehl is facing a year and a day in the Atlanta prison. Their convictions followed a Government investigation of conditions at the prison.

Acquitted of Mae Price Murder.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 20.—Frank Corri late tonight was found not guilty of the murder of Mrs. Mae Price, wardrobe mistress of the "Brown Derby" company, whose body was found in her room at the Hotel Hollis on May 31. The jury was out a little more than six hours. Corri was immediately rearrested for desertion from the 13th United States Infantry at Camp Devens, on Aug. 20, 1924, and is being held for officers from Camp Devens, to whom he will be turned over tomorrow for court-martial. He faces a maximum sentence of five years for desertion.

VALENTINOS PART; DENY DIVORCE IDEA

Only "Marital Vacation," Wife Says, Admitting Their Temperaments Clashed.

TOO BUSY FOR HOME LIFE

Screen Star Tries to Phone Her From Hollywood—Regrets That It Had to Happen.

The reported separation between Rudolph Valentino and his wife, Winifred Hudnut Valentino, known as Natacha Rambova, so far is only a matter of geography, it was learned yesterday. That is, Mrs. Valentino is in New York to arrange for the release of her first picture, "What Price Beauty," before sailing for Europe, while her screen star husband remains in Hollywood to complete a new picture, "The Lone Eagle."

Mrs. Valentino explained yesterday at her New York apartment, at 270 Park Avenue, that no divorce was contemplated and that her separation from her husband was only temporary, "a sort of marital vacation," she confided.

"I'm sure this marital holiday will be a good thing for us both," she said. "When a husband and wife both are working and both are the possessors of temperaments I think they should have a vacation from each other. Since I've begun making my own pictures we have been drawn more or less apart, and I can't find the time to devote to the home that I used to. My husband is a great lover of home life."

Valentino tried to reach his wife on the long distance telephone from Hollywood early yesterday morning, but was unable to reach her because the telephone in the apartment is shut off during sleeping hours. So he talked with George Ullman at the Hotel Ambassador, personal representative of both Valentinos. Ullman accompanied Mrs. Valentino [illegible]

THE PLAY

Pyrotechnics of the Soil.

THE MUD TURTLE, a play in three acts, by Elliott Lester. At the Bijou Theatre.

[illegible]	Ellen R. Warner
Matey	Claude Cooper
Tustine	David Landau
Mrs. Tustine	Viola Fortescue
Kate	Helen MacKellar
Lem Tustine	Buford Armitage
[illegible]	Victor Sutherland
[illegible]	Julian Noa
Dutch	Albert Bannister

In the space of one act at the Bijou Theatre last evening "The Mud Turtle" burned to white heat and gave out sparks. The theme was somewhat mustily odoriferous, to be precise—of "Desire Under the Elms" and "They Knew What They Wanted," and the entrance of Helen MacKellar, as a waitress just married to the farmer's son, was, in its turn, reminiscent of Amy in Sidney Howard's prize play. In spite of these qualifications, the first act of Mr. Lester's play had strength and quality. The audience was caught up in the illusion.

To a large farm in the wheat belt of Northern Minnesota, brutalized by the tyranny of the soil, came a farmer's son, Lem, and his bride, Kate, whom he had met first as a waitress in a Minneapolis restaurant. The tyranny of the soil had passed on that brute force to Lem's father, who resisted her presence, made insinuations about her past, ordered her about, dismissed her husband from the room and struck her on the face. For a second she drew back. But then she stood before him and swore revenge. She swore also to make a man of her husband, to stiffen his backbone and compel him to defy his father in the interests of his wife. Thus the drama began auspiciously.

In order that it might lose none of its quality, Miss MacKellar gave an illuding performance in the part of Kate. Like Amy in "They Knew What They Wanted" she was confused by her first appearance on the farm and the strain of meeting for the first time her husband's expectant family. Like Amy again, her speech was of the vulgate, rough with slang and the dry humor of the streets, and her understanding of the world, her city notions of the farm were strained through the motion picture. But, unlike Amy, as the part developed, she was completely mistress of herself once she had grasped the situation. In a fine bit of emotional acting Miss MacKellar portrayed the character. It was intelligent acting, too, in which Miss MacKellar did not lose herself; consciously she understood her part, and knew how to achieve its various effects.

Having set up the motive of revenge in the first act, "The Mud Turtle" begins to crumble in the second, and even in the third does not quite match the [illegible] of those early moments. And what is the rock on which this promising craft founders? To at least one playgoer the playwright, in attempting to let Kate fulfil the task he had set her, cheapened her character and weakened her will. This blow on the face that old Tustine gave her in the first act was a personal insult of the most scandalous sort, a brutal offense to be requited only in kind.

What those two last acts offer in the way of revenge, however, is of a different nature. [illegible]

[illegible] It is not what we had come to expect of so spirited a woman as Kate was in act one.

[illegible]

For the most part, the play has been well cast. David Landau, deep of voice and huge in frame, makes a domineering, determined Tustine. Mr. Armitage in the part of young Lem does better with the youthful [illegible] of the first act than with the heroics of the last. As Matey, an old sailor, who lost his [illegible] and fled to the plains, Mr. Cooper gives a well-rounded performance. In spite of the fact that Miss MacKellar's conception of her rôle lacks originality, it does not lack force. Its want of [illegible] is due largely to the play.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 20 [illegible].—Two announcements affecting Cullen Landis, motion picture actor, were issued yesterday. One by his surgeon was that an operation for appendicitis had been performed and that an examination revealed that Landis had not been internally injured in a recent automobile accident.

The other announcement, by Landis, declared that he and Miss [illegible], formerly of Lexington, Ky., will be married as soon as the present Mrs. Landis receives her final decree of divorce.

Marguerite Clark Convalescing.

Marguerite Clark, retired motion picture actress, who underwent an appendicitis operation at the Fifth Avenue Hospital on Tuesday, is improving so rapidly that her discharge is only a matter of a few days, attendants said yesterday morning. The actress, who arrived in New York last Friday with her husband, H. Palmerston Williams, changed her plans to leave immediately for [illegible] New Orleans when her physician advised an operation.

OCEAN GROVE FIRE ROUTS 350 GUESTS

Boy Runs Elevator Up and Down in Smoke-Filled Shaft Till All Are Safe.

MANY FLEE IN NIGHT DRESS

North End Hotel Loss Is Put at $150,000—One Fireman Rescued by Comrades.

Special to The New York Times.

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., Aug. 20.—Fire that swept the North End Hotel, one of New Jersey's most noted hostelries, drove 350 guests to the Boardwalk in semi-panic today and caused damage estimated at $150,000. The south wing, containing the blue suite, where many famous guests have stayed, was destroyed. The flames started shortly before breakfast in the southern annex, which contained the laundry and engine room, and were not under control until after noon.

The Rev. Charles M. Boswell, President of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, said that a meeting of the organization would be held next week to consider contracts for reconstruction.

An instance of heroism came to light when it was learned that Sidney Baker, negro elevator boy, had rescued David Homer Bates of the Hotel Ansonia, New York City. Mr. Bates, who is 80 years old, was apparently unaware of his danger when Baker battered down his locked door and carried him through the smoke-filled halls to safety. Mr. Bates was manager and cipher operator of the Union Army Telegraphic Corps in the Civil War and spent many days with President Lincoln during and after the war.

Bates ran his elevator up and down the smoke-filled shaft until it was almost certain that no one remained in the rooms.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward E. Bratton of Philadelphia were celebrating the second anniversary of their marriage at a party last night. Friends presented them with a new set of silver, to replace the original wedding gift set stolen from their Philadelphia home a few weeks ago. The set of silver could not be found tonight after the fire.

The origin of the fire is undetermined. Estelle Little, chambermaid, rushed through the hall at about 7:20 shouting that the laundry was on fire, and Baker, the elevator boy, rang the hotel alarm and then started through the building arousing the guests. Many guests fled down the stairs in pajamas and night gowns, only to rush back to recover clothing and valuables when they found the danger was not pressing.

Carl Anderson, a member of the Avon Fire Department, was overcome by smoke while working in an elevator shaft. He was carried to the Boardwalk by his comrades.

Lack of water and the collapse of Ocean Grove's power pumping apparatus gave the fire a good start. When apparatus from Asbury Park, Allenhurst, Bradley Beach, Avon and Belmar arrived lines were stretched to Wesley Lake and an adequate supply of water was assured. Thousands of hotel guests from Ocean Grove and Asbury Park flocked to the Boardwalk.

"FEET OF CLAY" ENJOINED.

Author of "Outward Bound" Gets London Writ Against Film.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—An injunction was granted in London today against showing part of the American Famous Players film, "Feet of Clay," on the complaint that the last two reels had been taken bodily from Sutton Vane's "Outward Bound."

William Harris Jr., who produced "Outward Bound" on the New York stage, saw the film and began proceedings. The film afterward was shown in England, and Sutton Vane applied for an injunction, which now has been granted.

CARROLL GETS WALLACK'S.

Leases Forty-second Street Theatre for Nine Years.

Wallack's Theatre, in Forty-second Street, has passed into the control of Earl Carroll, who has taken a nine-year lease. The Carroll production of "White Cargo," now at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, will move to Wallack's a week from Monday. It is probable that the house will receive a new name.

Wallack's Theatre, which has had several names and several lessees in recent years, is owned by Meister Builders. It was last under lease to John Cort.

'Arms and the Man' to Open Sept. 14

The Theatre Guild will begin its new season on Monday night, Sept. 14, when Shaw's "Arms and the Man," with Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt heading the cast, will open at the Guild Theatre in Fifty-second Street. This is the first of a series of Shaw revivals, originally announced for the Garrick. The continued success of "The Garrick Gaieties" at the latter playhouse, however, means that the first of the Shaw plays will be seen at the uptown theatre.

"First Flight" Opens Sept. 17.

"First Flight," a new play by Maxwell Anderson and Laurence Stallings, authors of "What Price Glory," will be produced here at the Plymouth Theatre on Thursday night, Sept. 17. The play deals with the life of Andrew Jackson, and will have Rudolph Cameron and Helen Chandler in its leading rôles. "What Price Glory" will end a year's run at the Plymouth on the preceding Saturday night, Sept. 12, and will open soon afterward in Chicago.

L. F. Werba Announces Two Plays.

Louis F. Werba, it is announced, will return to the theatrical producing field this season with two offerings, one a musical comedy. This will be "Love's Voyage," with book by Edgar Allan Woolf, music by Armand Vecsey, and lyrics by Neville Fleeson. It will have its première in Atlantic City late in November. In January Mr. Werba will produce "Mercy," a comedy by Homer Miles. Mr. Werba has been inactive as a producer for two seasons.

"Carmen" at Polo Grounds Sept. 2.

An open-air performance of Bizet's "Carmen" will be given on Sept. 2 at the Polo Grounds by the Municipal Opera Company of New York. Miss Ethelinda Axel, a young American dramatic soprano, will sing the title rôle. Cesare Sodero will conduct an orchestra of 100 and there will be a ballet of 150 dancers.

MUSIC NOTES.

[illegible] has cabled to his manager that owing to the visit of the Prince of Wales to South America, the operatic season at the Colon Theatre, Buenos Aires, has been extended one week. He will sail from Buenos Aires on Sept. 14 [illegible] rehearsals for the Metropolitan season.

[illegible] will arrive in the United States Sept. 11. She will leave for the Pacific Coast, where she has been engaged for seven performances in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego with the San Francisco Opera Association.

UNCLE TOM TO DANCE AND SHOOT LEGREE

London Musical Comedy Version Drops Eliza on Ice, but Still Lets Little Eva Die.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin," Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal story written in 1851, has been turned into a twentieth century musical comedy and will be tried in the English provinces within a few weeks preparatory to presentation in London.

An announcement to this effect was made today by Harry Mear and Charles Cullum, jointly responsible for the experiment. The atmosphere of the great play has been retained, they assert, but the adapters found the original types of virtue and villainy too accentuated to be produced two generations after the slaves had been freed.

A plantation negro is said to have been brought direct from the South to play Uncle Tom, who in the musical version shoots the villain Legree. The play will abound in plantation melodies, Uncle Tom dancing the rhythmic "Charleston" in one of the interludes. Eliza, the bloodhounds and the flight over the ice cakes will be missing, but Little Eva will continue to die and go to heaven up amid the scenery "flies."

One critic has observed that Mrs. Stowe "would have a fit" if she knew her masterpiece had been made into musical comedy.

ZIEGFELD IS PLANNING 'FOLLIES' IN LONDON

Announces Negotiations for Theatre There to House English Versions of Revue.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Provided a suitable theatre can be built to house them, an English version of the Ziegfeld "Follies" will be seen in London. Florenz Ziegfeld said today he had signed an agreement with a promoter, and that a new theatre would be built within a minute of Piccadilly Circus inside of fourteen months. If the scheme went well, he said, there would be an interchange between the New Amsterdam Theatre in New York and the London house.

The proposition was made at Deauville, the French resort where Mr. Ziegfeld had been, and would be settled one way or another within the next week, he said.

Meanwhile, the producer was complaining that a chance remark in Deauville about being willing to take back six English girls to America for the "Follies" had led to the receipt this morning of six hundred letters from applicants.

Ethel Barrymore begins an engagement at the Lyric Theatre here in October for a six months engagement.

ROAD'S INCOME $436,884.

Kansas City Southern Reports July Revenues of $1,800,543.

The Kansas City Southern Railway Company reports total railway operating revenues for July of $1,800,543, compared with $1,636,228 for the previous year, an increase of $164,315. Total operating expenses for the period were $1,253,642, compared with $1,194,514 in July, 1924. This left a railway operating income of $436,884, against $342,248 the year before, an increase of $94,636.

The road, which is the first of steam carriers to report, also gives figures for the first seven months of the year. Operating revenues for the period were $11,951,880, against $12,011,623, and operating expenses $8,446,287, against $8,743,055. Railway operating income totaled $2,739,870, compared with $2,535,170 in the first seven months of 1924.

ROAD PAYS $1,569,784 TAXES

Long Island's Assessments 18 Per Cent of Net Revenue.

Taxes paid by the Long Island Railroad during 1924 amounted to $1,569,734, or 18.7 per cent. of the net revenue from railway operations, it was announced yesterday.

State, county, village and town taxes collected from the railroad amounted to $97,167, which included assessments for police, fire, water, light and administration. As its proportion for keeping Long Island highways in good repair the railroad paid $103,361, about $10,000 more than the previous year.

PENN STEEL PAYS DEBT.

Eliminates $1,635,498 Obligation Leaving No Fixed Charges.

It was announced yesterday on behalf of the Penn Seaboard Steel that the company has entirely eliminated a funded debt of $1,635,498, which leaves it without fixed charges. No details were given in the announcement as to how the debt was discharged. Since 1921 the corporation has eliminated obligations of $5,000,000.

The corporation's principal activities are centred in the New Castle plant. Placing of orders for new railroad equipment has caused an increase in the ratio of operations.

HAD RECORD PROFITS.

Pacific Steamship's Net for Half Year Was $719,721.

The Pacific Steamship Company reports net earnings of $719,721 for the six months ending Aug. 31, 1925, a new high record for any corresponding period in the history of the company.

H. F. Alexander, President of the company, in a letter to the banking syndicate which recently underwrote the company's bond and preferred stock issues says: "The company's net earnings for the first six months of the year usually represent between 25 and 30 per cent. of the total for the year."

Gardner Motors Net Earnings.

The Gardner Motors Car Company reports net earnings of $18,295 for the seven months ended July 31, against a loss of $188,425 reported in the corresponding period last year. The balance sheet as of July 31 shows net current assets of $1,040,000 and current liabilities of $291,000, a ratio of four to one.

Norwalk Tire Reports Assets.

The financial statement of the Norwalk Tire and Rubber Company, as of June 30, 1925, shows current assets aggregating $2,224,120, against current liabilities aggregating $337,865, a ratio of eight to one. The assets included cash holdings of $209,795 and inventory valued at $933,524.

New Glidden Issue Subscribed.

Stockholders of the Glidden Company, paint manufacturers, subscribed to practically all of the 40,000 shares of stock recently offered by the corporation, according to announcement yesterday.

$120,000 for Stock Exchange Seat.

The New York Stock Exchange membership of George H. Goddard was sold yesterday to Arthur L. Warthen Jr. for $120,000, a reduction of $2,000 compared with the last previous reported sale.

DECIDES LATE JUDGE'S SUIT

Court in His Ruling Is Unable to Follow Predecessor's Intimation.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—A suit which had been heard by the late Vice Chancellor Foster just before his recent death was decided by Vice Chancellor Berry, his successor, to whom the case was re-referred for decision.

The suit was brought by Herbert Gates of Asbury Park to compel Ernest H. Williams to sell him a tract of land. Williams defaulted on the contract, it was charged. In defense Williams said that Gates refused to take title and the agreement was voided.

Vice Chancellor Berry, in deciding for Gates, said that Vice Chancellor Foster had intimated that he considered the preponderance of proof to be in favor of the defendant, but that, notwithstanding this remark, Vice Chancellor Foster had reserved decision and requested briefs to be filed.

"I have examined the pleadings and proofs with a great deal of care and I am unable to reach the conclusion that the contract was ever rescinded or abandoned by the complainant," said Vice Chancellor Berry.

I Could Hardly Believe It

YESTERDAY I placed on sale the seats for the opening of the Embassy Theatre next Wednesday night.

By nightfall the house was half sold, and a subsequent performance sale well under way.

As you know, the opening night price is five fifty a seat. It seems that the general festivity which is assured for this premiere has a definite attraction. I am too excited for words.

Thereafter there will be two performances daily at 2:45 and 8:45, with prices ranging from $2 to $1, plus tax.

Last night I saw "The Merry Widow" again with the musical accompaniment elaborated from Franz Lehar's famous score. I am now confident of success, as this picture is truly a remarkable achievement. Erich von Stroheim, the director, is to be congratulated, as are Mae Murray, John Gilbert and the other Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer players.

I think you will find the Embassy just the sort of intimate playhouse which motion pictures have long needed, where comfort is assured and where each seat is reserved. I hate to have people crowding the aisles waiting to slip into the first vacant seat.

Sincerely,
Gloria Gould

CUBS PUSH GIANTS BACK FROM PIRATES

Defeat by 5 to 3 Puts McGrawmen Three Games Behind on Eve of Series With Leaders.

NINTH INNING RALLY FAILS

Tony Kaufmann Keeps Champions in Check, Though They Put Two Runs Over.

By HARRY CROSS.

The Giants had their final workout yesterday before battling with the Pirates this afternoon by being exposed to a thorough trimming at the hands of the Chicago Cubs by a 5-to-3 score. The defeat, along with Pittsburgh's pleasant afternoon in Brooklyn, gives the Smoketown boys a lead of three full games. To put it conservatively, there is hardly anything in the situation for New York to get chesty about. However, today's another day.

Tony Kaufmann, Chicago's talented righthanded tosser, gave the Giants an unpleasant afternoon. He was possessed of altogether too much pitching to suit the Giants. For eight innings he held them to three hits and everything he flipped up was endowed with magic.

The Giants did uncork a bit of a rally in the ninth when they got Kaufmann on the run, but even then Tony refused to curl up and play dead. In this more or less promising ninth, with the score 5 to 1 against them, the Giants jammed the bases with no one out. The best they could do was two runs.

Kelly and Lindstrom Walk.

Bill Terry opened the ninth with a nifty single to centre. Kaufmann lost the location of the plate and he walked Kelly and Lindstrom, thickly populating the bases.

What a chance this was for Frank Snyder! Fate rested the situation right in his hands to do with it what he would. But he wouldn't. He popped a ludicrous foul to Gabby Hartnett. Bentley decided to take matters in his own hands, so he rammed a single to left and sent Terry and Kelly over. Still only one out and Lindstrom rested at second, and at first was Koehler, pinch running for Bentley, with the tying run in his shoes.

It should be said for Billy Southworth that he made a commendable try. He lashed a long drive into the right field sky, and for a moment it looked as if it was going into the seats for a homer. It didn't. Heathcote backed up against the concrete wall and nabbed it. Lindstrom raced to third after the catch and Captain Frank Frisch was at the bat.

Naturally the crowd was a bit steamed up when they saw a competent batsman like Frisch at the plate. It was generally suspected that he would dent Kaufmann for another run or so. Frank lobbed a long fly into centre and Mandy Brooks caught it and ended the spirited effusion.

Breaks Against Giants.

Among the eleven hits coined by the Cubs off Bentley, it might be observed that some of them were wicked, tantalizing bouncers, which hopped out of the reach of the Giants' fielders by the length of a finger.

But they were just as effective as if they had been yards out of reach. The Giant defense was inclined to be ragged and there was not that certainty of execution which must be on tap if they expect to dislodge the Pirates during this coming momentous week-end.

The Giants tickled Kaufmann in the second as if they meant business. Terry walked and went to second when Kelly poked a single to right. Lindstrom rolled harmlessly to Kaufmann and Tony whipped the ball over to third to force Terry. After Snyder flied to Heathcote Bentley struck a timely blow for himself, and his single to right sent Kelly home.

That lone run looked fair enough until Bentley was inclined to get a little shaky in the fifth. Kaufmann walked and was forced by Adams. Heathcote hit a single to left and when Pittenger rocked a single to centre Adams scored and Heathcote went to third. Young leaped up against the right field wall to pull down Jahn's screamer. Heathcote went home on the sacrifice fly.

The Giants' hopes went aglimmering in the seventh, when hits began to rattle off the Chicago bats like hail. Adams singled and went to third on Heathcote's safe slap to right. Pittenger, who was the most proficient citizen on the lot with the bat, hit his third single and scored Adams.

Jahn unleashed a two-bagger to right and Heathcote scored, Pittenger going to third. After Grimm rolled to Terry Brooks smacked a sacrifice fly to Meusel, Pittenger taking a quiet trip home.

There wasn't much for the New York fans to get excited about until that ninth inning came, with its numerous chances. The Giants' rally didn't quite make the grade simply because they couldn't hit Kaufmann.

SKEETERS BEATEN AGAIN BY HUSTLERS

Rochester Makes It Two in Row by Scoring 5 Runs in Eighth to Win, 9 to 4.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP).—Rochester made it two in a row over the Jersey City Skeeters here today by winning the second game of the series, 9 to 4. An eighth inning rally, in which five runs were made, gave the Hustlers their victory.

TO WALK FOR BALL FANS.

Dan O'Leary, 85, to Give Exhibition at Polo Grounds.

Dan O'Leary, fifty years ago winner of many walking championships, and now reputed to be 85 years of age, will be seen in action here this afternoon when he will perform at the Polo Grounds between the two games of the double-header to be played there between Pittsburgh and the Giants. O'Leary will walk around the infield twelve times, just outside the bases, a distance of approximately one mile. He plans to do this in ten minutes.

For several years past O'Leary has been doing this in minor league ball parks. He appeared at Jersey City last Sunday. Today's walk will be his first in a major league park.

CUYLER'S HOME RUN BEATS ROBINS, 2-1

Drive in 6th Bounces Over Brown's Head, Breaks Tie and Wins for Pirates.

KIKI ALSO STARS IN FIELD

Spectacular Catch With Bases Full Saves Kremer in Hurling Duel With Grimes.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Kiki Cuyler, the cruising Corsair; Ray Kremer, the Pirate pitcher, and the Ghost of the Opera yesterday beat the Robins in as spectacular a battle as ever was fought on Ebbetts Field.

Cuyler robbed the Robins of sure victory in the fifth and drove out the winning home run in the sixth. Kremer curbed the Brooklyn bats to six safe blows, only one of which did any damage, and completely baffled the boys of Flatbush in the final four innings, not a man reaching first base after Cuyler had given him a lead.

And now you may ask what the Ghost of the Opera had to do with it. The answer to that is that the phantom tenor lured the ball past Eddie Brown and gave Cuyler his home run and Pittsburgh the winning margin of 2 to 1.

With the score tied and two out, Kiki's drive to centre field appeared perfectly harmless, but just as Brown reached forth his hands to stop the ball's progress and hurl the sphere back into the diamond for Burleigh Grimes to master the next batsman, it hit one of the many irregularities left in the outfield where the seats were erected for Mayor Hylan's concert, leaped over Eddie's head and rolled on to the fence while the fleet Kiki circled the bases with the winning tally.

With a run to work on, Kremer became invincible and from then until the end the Robins never had a chance. Three men strode to the plate with determination in each inning—but only three.

Cuyler Makes Sensational Play.

The Robins' chance had come and gone earlier in the contest. Cuyler took that away from them also. It was in the fifth inning when the score was still tied and it was enough to break the hearts of the faithful five thousand who saw it.

Mitchell, the first man up, walked. Stock and Wheat both popped out, but Fournier singled, sending Mitchell to third, and Dick Cox was passed, filling the bases. That brought Eddie Brown to the bat and when he smashed into one of Kremer's fast ones it looked as if the game were in the Robins' coop and the door securely locked.

Mitchell, Fournier and Cox were off with the crack of the bat and sped toward home. The ball sped straight for the right centre field fence for what seemed a certain triple. But over the turf sped Kiki Cuyler, his spikes biting into the turf, his fleet feet kicking the yards behind him and his hand outstretched.

It seemed impossible that he would ever reach it, but just as the ball passed his head he stuck his glove a little higher in the air and there the ball stuck. He raced on to the dugout and a few minutes after saving the game for the Pirates in such a spectacular manner he won it for them with his harrowing home run.

The nearest the Robins came to a hit after that was Zach Taylor's smash to the right field fence in the seventh. It had all the earmarks of a double when it left his bat, but there was Cuyler's glove to be passed again and it was more repelling than the French Army at the Marne.

All the other scoring was done in the first inning. The Pirates got their run on Bigbee's double, fair by inches, and a single to centre by Rawlings. The Robins' tally was Zach Wheat's tenth home run of the season, which sailed on a line over the right field wall.

Both Hurlers Settle Down.

After these counts had been registered the rival pitchers settled down in earnest and both pitched great ball for the rest of the game. Grimes seldom has been better this season, but Kremer was just as unsolvable.

The Robins got three men on in the third, but there were two out at the time and Dick Cox rolled weakly to short for the third. That would have been a propitious time for California Dick to hit safely in his twentieth successive game, but he failed to reach that figure and his string ended at nineteen contests.

Besides his fine flinging, Grimes did a great deal more in an effort to beat the Pirates. He started two double plays and twice covered first while Fournier was fielding wayward grounders. He fanned four Buccaneers and allowed only eight hits He deserved to win, but Kremer certainly didn't deserve to lose.

After going thirty-one innings without having a fielding chance, Cotton Tierney came back from his vacation in the seventh and languidly threw out Wright at first.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 20 (AP).—E. Garland Braxton, left-handed pitcher, today was sold to the New York Yankees by the Springfield club. Springfield is to get an outfielder and a pitcher from the Yankees in addition to a cash payment.

Pickups and Putouts

Jack Bentley may not have won his game at the Polo Grounds yesterday, but he drove in all three of the Giant runs with his bat. The pitcher can't be expected to do it all.

The Cubs generated unexpected speed on the bases. They committed larceny on Snyder no less than five times.

Frisch was sliding all over the base paths, going into first on his ear twice and into second once. Frank also made the prettiest fielding bit of the day, scooping up Hartnett's bouncer with one hand for a force out at second in the fourth.

Jovial John Lobert, the former Giant, had the time of his life rooting for the Giants to pull through in the ninth. If the players had worked as hard as John did they would have succeeded.

These next few days at the Polo Grounds are going to be feverish and important. The Giants are willing to assume the importance if the Pirates will monopolize the feverishness.

Pittenger had a batting holiday off Bentley. He made four hits and drove in a couple of runs.

Among the young men wearing Giant uniforms who did not get a hit yesterday were Southworth, Frisch, Young, Meusel and Snyder. Do you wonder the Cubs won?

World Series Setting for the Pirate Games; Reserved Seats Gone; Gates Open 11:45 Today

The Pittsburgh Pirates come to the Polo Grounds this afternoon for a five-game series with the Giants which will mean three of the most tumultuous afternoons the two pennant-contending clubs have experienced this season. There will be double headers this afternoon and tomorrow and one game on Sunday.

As the series will pretty well establish the leadership in the National League race, the games have taken on a world's series flavor. There is the same demand for the limited number of reserved seats and arrangements have been made at the ball park for record crowds. With fair weather the series will undoubtedly hit a new mark in baseball attendance. It is estimated that more than 150,000 persons will turn out on the three days.

Anticipating a general rush toward Harlem today, the gates will be thrown open at 11:45 A. M. and the first game will begin at 1:45 P. M. There will be thousands of unreserved seats and the populace is advised by the management to arrive early.

The box and reserved seats for the three days have all been sold and the speculators have not overlooked a chance to make hay while the sun shines.

The situation today is much the same as it was in the National League in 1921, when the Pirates came to the Polo Grounds all set to win the pennant. They were at the time seven and a half games in front of the Giants, and Pittsburgh was preparing for the world's series. But the Giants went out and took five games straight and then proceeded to take the pennant for themselves.

The Pirates today are three games in front and they once again face a five-game series. Both clubs have been preparing for it. Manager McGraw has been saving his pitchers for a week and has Greenfield, Scott, Barnes and Nehf ready for the first four games. Manager McKechnie has also been grooming his moundmen for the big test. Aldridge, Yde, Oldham or Morrison may get the first call, but it looks as if all the pitchers on both staffs would get a chance before the series is over.

As Monday is an open date for both clubs, any of the games which may have to be postponed on account of bad weather probably will be played on that date.

ATHLETICS DOWNED BY SISLER'S TRIPLE

Drive With One On in 9th, After Rice Hits Homer, Wins for Browns, 7-6, Sweeps Series.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—Right-fielder Harry Rice's home run and Manager George Sisler's triple with a man on base in the ninth inning of today's game gave the St. Louis Browns a clean sweep of the three-game series and relegated the Philadelphia Athletics to second place in the league standing. The score was 7 to 6.

Washington, by virtue of its twelve-inning victory over Cleveland, now leads the American League by a six-point margin.

The Browns pounded Walberg and Groves for an even dozen hits, including two home runs, a triple and a double. Five pitchers were used by Manager Sisler in stemming the Athletic tide.

Dykes's home run with two men on base in the fifth inning featured. Marty McManus, second baseman of the Browns, also hit for the circuit.

BLANKENSHIP WINS AGAIN.

Gets Eighth in Row as White Sox Sweep Red Sox Series 11-7.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 (AP).—Ted Blankenship registered his eighth consecutive victory today when the Chicago White Sox defeated the Boston Red Sox 11 to 7, making a clean sweep of the three-game series. Erratic fielding behind Ruffing and Zahniser, who were both hit hard in spots, gave the White Sox their runs.

Blankenship weakened in the seventh inning and was replaced by Connally, who held the Red Sox safe until the ninth inning, when a pinch hitter, Carlyle, started a rally with a three-base hit. Fast fielding by Collins and Davis cut the rally short, however.

REDS BEAT PHILS IN FINAL.

Win Behind Rixey, 8-4, and Take Series, Three Out of Four.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds captured the series here, three out of four, by taking today's game with the Phillies, 8 to 4. Rixey was touched for eight hits in the first five innings but tightened up over the last four and held the Phils safe.

YANKS AND TIGERS FORCED TO LAY OFF

Rain Stops Game That Is Transferred Here—Hugmen Face Indians Today.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—On account of a heavy rain this afternoon the last game of the Yankee-Tiger series was postponed. It will be played in New York when the Tigers repair there on Sept. 26, 27 and 28, probably as part of a double-header on the 26th, which is Saturday. The postponement was a great shock to almost nobody. Inasmuch as neither team is going anywhere in particular the players were satisfied with a day off.

The club officials are not grumbling either over the prospect of transferring the contest to New York, where the gate receipts grow bigger and juicier than they do in this part of the country. A couple of thousand spectators had gathered in Navin Field, but at 2:45, fifteen minutes before game time, they were told that they could go home. If the announcement was a terrific blow the fans concealed their emotions admirably.

Tomorrow the Yanks will open the crucial series with the Indians. The word crucial is not used in jest, for nothing less than sixth place is at stake. Having gained sixth place, the Yanks may suddenly decide to annex the fifth position also. You can never tell. At any rate tomorrow is the acid test. The players are in prime condition and Manager Huggins is confident that his players will give "a good account of themselves," as the saying goes.

Huggins said today that he had read of John McGraw's discovery of a new unlively ball and wished he could say the same for the American League. Examination of new horsehides in the clubhouse today showed no change from the old models. But that, of course, proves nothing concerning the National League. Hug also said that he had heard nothing of keeping balls in an icebox to deaden them, as alleged by three other American League clubs.

BRAVES WIN 4TH IN ROW.

Take Final From Cards, 6 to 3—Hafey and High Get Homers.

BOSTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Boston Braves swept a four-game series with the St. Louis Cards by taking the final game today, 6 to 3. Rogers Hornsby, League leading batter, again went hitless in four trips to the plate. He only made one hit in the series.

SELIGSON AND WOLF REACH TENNIS FINAL

Advance in Metropolitan Junior Singles Championship at Montclair A. C.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Julius Seligson of New York and Harry Wolf of the Montclair A. C. reached the final round of the metropolitan junior tennis championship today on the courts of the Briarcliff Lodge Tennis Club.

Seligson won with surprising ease over Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, allowing him only three games. The score was 6—1, 6—2. The New York youth scored on clever placements and broke up his opponent's net attack with passing shots along the side lines and across the court.

Wolf put out Gregory Mangin of the Montclair A. C. at 7—5, 6—2. Mangin made a game fight to tie the score in the first set after trailing in the early stages, but tired and after dropping the last two games of this set yielded quickly in the second chapter.

Wolf played two other matches, advancing to the final of the doubles. In the second round the Montclair youth and Everett Smith defeated Cox and Goodwin at 6—2, 6—3, and in the semi-finals they eliminated John Pitman and McCauliff at 6—3, 4—6, 7—5.

Mangin and Lemoine Heuser reached the semi-finals at the expense of John Hart and Carl Mears of New Haven at 6—3, 6—4.

Solomon Delivers Blow After Bell Rings at Braves Field and Maloney Gets Decision.

BOSTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—King Solomon of Panama forfeited the decision to Jim Maloney of Boston at the end of the third round of the scheduled ten-round battle at Braves Field tonight when the referee called a foul on a hard right to the jaw which knocked out Maloney just after the bell struck. Solomon had carried the first and third rounds. He weighed 189¾ pounds and Maloney 196.

SENATORS WIN, 1-0; REGAIN LEAGUE LEAD

CLEAN SWEEP OF SERIES

Overhaul Athletics by Taking Three in Row—Zachary and Marberry Outpitch Miller.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20 (AP).—Cleveland and Washington battled for twelve innings today before Washington won, 1 to 0, in the final game of the series. This victory enables the Senators to regain the lead by a six-point margin, as the Athletics lost to the Browns.

Marberry took second base on Hodapp's wild throw at the start of the twelfth. Rice singled. S. Harris hit to Hodapp and Marberry was thrown out at the plate. J. Harris fouled out but Goslin's third hit scored Rice with the run that made it three straight and a clean sweep of the series for the champions.

Although Washington made thirteen hits off Miller, the Cleveland southpaw, he was effective with men on bases. He also received excellent support, the Indians executing three double plays. Washington also gave its pitchers good support, also having three double plays.

Peckinpaugh, Severeid and Goslin had ten of Washington's thirteen hits.

Zachary, after holding Cleveland to five hits in eight innings, retired in favor of a pinch hitter and was replaced by Marberry, who went in as a relief pitcher for the third consecutive day.

MISS GANTT VICTOR IN MUNICIPAL GOLF

Beats Mrs. Macmillan, 3 and 1, and Will Face Mrs. Weltman in Final Today.

Miss Ariel Gantt, a comparative newcomer in golf, and Miss Virginia Weltman, members of the New York Golf Club, will meet in the final round of the women's municipal golf championship at Mosholu Park today. Miss Gantt earned the right to play for the 1925 title by defeating Mrs. Sallie Macmillan of the Olinville Golf Club yesterday by the score of 3 and 1, while Miss Weltman defeated Miss Kathryn Brossman, another Olinville golfer, in the other semi-final match, 9 and 7.

The defeat of Mrs. Macmillan by Miss Gantt was a decided upset, for the victor has been playing golf only a short time while Mrs. Macmillan has long been numbered as one of the leading players in the municipal ranks. Her failure yesterday was the third time that she has been balked in her attempt to win the title. Two years ago she was runner-up to Miss Weltman and last year she was defeated in the semi-final round. She was the medalist this year and everything pointed to another final between her and Miss Weltman until Miss Gantt decided otherwise.

Faulty wooden club play was partly responsible for Mrs. Macmillan's elimination. A bad slice developed in her game early in the round and persisted throughout, putting her in trouble all through the match. Miss Gantt, who had an approximated 90 for her round, took the lead at the start and never surrendered it. On a few occasions Mrs. Macmillan succeeded in getting up on level terms with her opponent, but she was never able to forge ahead. Although she lost the match, Mrs. Macmillan had the honor of making one of the great shots of the day when she holed out a chip from off the edge of the eleventh green for a 2.

Miss Weltman had an easy time winning her match from Miss Brossman, but four stymies for the latter on successive holes were responsible for the one-sidedness of the score.

The summaries:

Championship Flight, Semi-Final Round—Miss Ariel Gantt, New York Golf, defeated Mrs. Sallie Macmillan, Olinville, 3 and 1; Miss Virginia Weltman, New York Golf, defeated Miss Kathryn Brossman, Olinville, 9 and 7.

Beaten Sixteen, Semi-Final Round—Mrs. A. McDade, New York Golf, defeated Mrs. Helen Englehart, New York Golf, 5 and 4; Miss M. Martens, Olinville, defeated Mrs. H. K. Berger, Olinville, 1 up.

FUGAZY SEEKING LEONARD'S RETURN

Hopes to Match Him Against Jimmy Goodrich at Ebbets Field Next Month.

Thwarted in his efforts to land the Mickey Walker-Dave Shade welterweight championship fight or an important heavyweight battle for Ebbets Field, Matchmaker Humbert Fugazy, announced yesterday that he had opened negotiations to bring Benny Leonard into the ring again. Fugazy said he would try to induce the retired world's lightweight champion to meet Jimmy Goodrich, who, as the winner of the State Athletic Commission's elimination tournament, is recognized by the Board as Leonard's successor to the title.

Fugazy has been making overtures to the retired champion for several weeks, and was to have had a conference with him yesterday afternoon, but postponed the meeting until today. Fugazy hopes to hold the fight at Ebbets Field next month.

Although Leonard, who retired on Jan. 16 last, has maintained that he was through, it has frequently been reported that he would return to the ring as soon as a formidable lightweight rival appeared. Now that Goodrich has been recognized as his successor, it is believed the champion regards this an opportune moment to step forth.

The last fight in which Leonard was scheduled to appear was with Mickey Walker for the welter title, which, after many postponements, was abandoned last Fall when Leonard said he could not fight because of an injured thumb. Leonard's last fight was on Aug. 1 of last year, when he met Pal Moran in a no-decision contest in Cleveland.

The departure of Jack Kearns for Chicago yesterday left an almost complete vacuum in the Dempsey-Wills heavyweight situation so far as New York was concerned. The next move is up to Paddy Mullins, who is confronted by the alternative of waiting for Floyd Fitzsimmons, midwestern promoter, who has Dempsey's signature to a tentative agreement, or of signing with Tex Rickard, who has the signature of Kearns to an agreement on file with the New York State Boxing Commission.

Kearns expressed himself well satisfied with the results of his mission here. He came to New York to have himself reinstated by the commission and accomplished this by signing up both of his world's champions, Dempsey and Mickey Walker, to meet their challengers.

Kearns was accompanied by Walker, who is scheduled to meet Sailor Friedman in East Chicago, Ind., Monday night. Walker is booked to defend his title against Dave Shade at the Yankee Stadium on Sept. 21.

BIDDERS PAY $106,800 FOR YEARLINGS AT SPA

Average for 25 Head Offered Is $4,272—Total of $1,410,250 Sets American Record.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Twenty-five head of thoroughbred yearlings came under the hammer tonight in the paddock of the Fasig Tipton Company, it being the eleventh night of the sales. The total realized was $106,800, the average being $4,272. This makes the grand total for 407 head $1,410,250, which far exceeds the grand total of any yearling sales in the history of throughbred breeding in this country, with still one more night to be included.

The most important consignment offered was that of Edward F. Simms of Paris, Ky., from which the big prices of the evening were realized. Top price in this lot was $12,100, which William Sheedy, agent, paid for a bay colt by Sweep—Play Toy. Next best was $11,000, paid by La Brea Stable of H. A. Cotton of Los Angeles for a bay or brown filly by Wildair out of Lady Eastman.

William Sheedy, agent, bought a brown colt by Eternal out of Grace Harban for $9,690. H. K. Bliss paid $8,100 for a black colt by Imp. Negofol out of Sun Queen, this being a full brother to Coventry, winner of this Spring's Preakness Stakes. A chestnut colt by Imp. Negofol—Polly Connelly was bought by W. S. L. Martin for $7,500, this one being a half brother to Little Polly and Newmarket.

GREB BADLY INJURED AS AUTO OVERTURNS

Middleweight Champion Suffers Possible Internal Injuries in Accident Near Pittsburgh.

TWO RIBS ARE BROKEN

Wheels Lock as Brakes Are Jammed on Coming Down Hill to Avoid Other Cars.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20 (AP).—Harry Greb, middleweight boxing champion, was seriously injured early this evening when his automobile overturned a few miles from this city. He was brought to the West Penn Hospital, where physicians said he suffered two fractured ribs and cuts and bruises on his back and chest. The extent of internal injuries he may have suffered will not be known until X-ray photographs have been made, it was said. The champion's condition was declared to be serious, but not necessarily dangerous.

Greb and two other men had started in the boxer's car for Erie, Pa., where the former was to fight Jimmy Darragh tomorrow night. As they descended a hill, which was slippery from a light rain, the party observed two parked automobiles at the foot of the hill blocking the highway. Greb threw on the brakes and his car, the wheels locked, skidded off the road and turned over.

The fighter was pinned down by the steering wheel. His companions, Leo Cagill, a sparring partner, and Allen Jones, crawled from the wreckage not seriously hurt. Passing motorists came to their aid and Greb was brought to a hospital.

Greb an Active Fighter.

Harry Greb's ring campaign extends over a period of eleven years. Born in Pittsburgh on June 7, 1894, of Irish-German parentage, he made his first professional appearance in 1913, and since then has taken part in more than 240 battles. He won the world's middleweight championship on Aug. 31, 1923, winning the decision over Johnny Wilson in a fifteen-round bout in New York. He met Wilson in a return match in this city Jan. 18, 1924, and again received the verdict at the end of fifteen rounds. He also successfully defended the title against Mickey Walker this Summer.

Greb at one time also held the American light heavyweight title, winning it from Gene Tunney on May 24, 1922, in a fifteen-round decision here, but lost the crown to Tunney on Feb. 23, 1923. He made another effort to regain the title the same year, but again lost the decision to Tunney.

M'TIGUE-MARULLO IN RING TONIGHT

Slattery and Rosenbloom Also to Clash at Coney Stadium—Other Bouts.

Mike McTigue former world's light-heavyweight champion, will open his campaign to fight his way back to his former rank when he faces Tony Marullo, New Orleans, in the feature bout of twelve rounds at the Coney Island Stadium tonight. Rivalling this match in interest will be a special six-round contest between Jimmy Slattery, the Buffalo light-heavyweight, and Maxie Rosenbloom.

Slattery's appearance will be his first bout since his knockout by Dave Shade. The Buffalo fighter is certain he will vindicate himself in the eyes of those who predicted great things for him. The fight will mark Slattery's last over the six-round route, as on Aug. 25 he will be 21 years old and eligible to appear in bouts up to fifteen rounds in this State.

Heavyweights will appear in another twelve-round bout. They are Bob Lawson and Jack De Mave. In a six-round preliminary Benny Ross will face Eddie Notarbartolo. The opening four-rounder will bring together Danny Ross and Joe Marino.

Sully Montgomery, the former college football star, whom Frank Church is grooming for honors in the heavyweight ranks, will meet Leo Gates, the Mohawk Indian, in the main bout of twelve rounds at the Rockaway Beach Arena tonight. Frankie Carpenter of Freeport will meet Willie Walker, negro boxer of Harlem, in the semi-final eight. In another eight, Young Jack Dempsey of Philadelphia will oppose Harry Duer of Brooklyn, while Sammy Aaronson and Willie Patterson will clash in a six, and Willie Hahn and Arthur Dufort in a four.

Larry Estridge, negro middleweight of Harlem, and Lew Chester of Brownsville are scheduled for twelve rounds at the Golden City Arena in Canarsie tonight. Al Liebowitz and Willie Suess, rival bantamweights, will meet in another twelve. There also will be a six and a four.

A program of three ten-round bouts has been arranged by Matchmaker Tom McArdle for the Ocean View A. A. in Long Branch tonight. In the feature bout, Alf Lewis, Australian featherweight, will meet Sailor Sam of Elizabeth. In another ten, Vincent Sanchez, Spanish boxer, will tackle Moe Ginsberg of New York, while the third ten will be between Johnny Breslin of the west side and Bobby Walker of Staten Island.

HAGENLACHER RUNS 333; GAINS ON HOPPE

Wins 7th Block, 668-300, and, Though Beaten in 8th, Now Trails by Only 2,400-2,123.

Although they divided the honors in the day's two blocks, Erich Hagenlacher, German billiard champion, made serious inroads yesterday in Willie Hoppe's lead in their 3,600-point 18.2 balkline match at the Hoppe Billiard Academy yesterday, and at the end of the eighth block last night was leading 2,400 to 2,123. Hagenlacher had gained 319 on the former world's champion during the day. Play will be resumed at the Fourteenth Street Academy this afternoon.

Hagenlacher won the afternoon block, 668 to 300, a high run of 333 featuring his play. Hoppe's best was a 146, the session lasting 10 innings. In the night block, Hoppe won 300 to 251 in 5 innings, his best run being 150 and Hagenlacher's a 169. Hagenlacher, for two blocks, totaled 919 points in 13 innings, giving him an average of 70 9-13. Hoppe averaged 40 for the day.

The score by innings:

By ALLISON DANZIG.

The triumphant return of Miss Elizabeth Ryan to her native courts was marred yesterday by the player over whom she established her supremacy in England before coming back to the United States. In the fourth round of the women's national tennis championship at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, Miss Kathleen McKane, winner at Wimbledon last year and No. 1 player on the English Wightman Cup team, defeated the Californian, 3—6, 7—5, 6—2.

So passed from the play the woman who defeated Miss Helen Wills at Seabright and who had been regarded as the Berkeley girl's most dangerous rival for the crown. The match was probably the most skillful exhibition of women's singles ever played in this country.

For a while yesterday it appeared possible that not only would Miss Wills not play Miss Ryan in the final but that she also might not reach the title round. Miss Joan Fry of England, who defeated Miss Mary K. Browne on Wednesday, took the first set from the champion, playing the same sort of inspired tennis that overwhelmed Miss Wills in the four first games of the second set of their match in the international series on Saturday.

As on the former occasion, Miss Fry shot her bolt with this one magnificent effort and was not the same player thereafter. Miss Wills took the second set without the loss of a game and won the third by a comfortable margin The score was 4—6, 6—0, 6—3.

Three Americans Survive.

Three American players and Miss McKane stand as the survivors in the singles of the thirty-eighth annual tournament. In the semi-finals of the upper half with the English girl is Mrs. Molla Mallory, former titleholder, while Miss Eleanor Goss of New York is in the lower division with Miss Wills.

Miss Goss brought about the downfall of Mrs. Lambert Chambers of England but not until the former Wimbledon titleholder had made a great rally in the second set and both players had been worn almost to the point of exhaustion. Playing with more aggressiveness and courage than she has probably ever shown before, Miss Goss resisted the consummate strategy and driving power of England's most famous woman player and reversed the result of their meeting in the Wightman Cup matches on Saturday, 6—2, 11—9.

Mrs. Mallory won with little difficulty from Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va. The Southern girl, whose progress through the tournament has been a big surprise, was unable to cope with the sturdy forehanders of the former champion and yielded, 6—2, 6—1.

Play at 3 P. M. Today.

The match between Mrs. Mallory and Miss McKane will be played at 3 o'clock this afternoon on Court No. 1. On Friday the English girl defeated the New York woman in the international series in three sets. Miss Wills and Miss Goss will meet in the lower semi-final at 2 o'clock on Court No. 2.

A big upset was furnished in the doubles. This was the defeat of Miss McKane and Miss Colyer by Miss Goss and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup. The English pair overwhelmed Miss Wills and Miss Browne in the Wightman play and were looked upon as practically invincible. Miss Goss played the same grade of tennis that she showed in the singles, and her cannonading from the net, supplemented by Mrs. Jessup's clever driving and net work, overpowered Miss Colyer and Miss McKane. The English team took the first set, 6—2, and then dropped the next two sets at the same scores.

This victory put Miss Goss and Mrs. Jessup in the semi-finals, where today they will meet Miss Ryan and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy. The other semi-finalists are Miss Wills and Miss Mary K. Browne and Mrs. Chambers and Miss E. H. Harvey.

Reverses Previous Meeting.

Miss McKane's victory over Miss Ryan was the first that the English girl has scored over the other in a year and a half. Their last championship meeting was staged at Surbiton, England, in May, when Miss Ryan defeated Miss McKane in the challenge round of the Surrey championship. On that occasion Miss Ryan won after dropping the first set, and yesterday the reverse happened, Miss McKane triumphing after losing the opening chapter.

Miss Ryan's play in the first set was of the same high calibre that has marked her work since she arrived here in July. She was much the keener of the two, was far more active, and her relentless chop strokes skimmed across the net with stinging pace the full length of the court. The Californian looked like a certain winner. There was only one thing impressive about Miss McKane's work at this stage and that was her volleying.

Playing quietly and on the defensive, Miss McKane aroused the gallery off and on with her beautiful work within the service court. Working her way forward at the right moment with forcing shots that drew Miss Ryan off to the side, the English star won her points in the cleanest fashion with crisp volleys and overhead shots.

In the second set Miss McKane capitalized her net game to the utmost, and thereafter Miss Ryan was helpless. America boasts of Miss Browne, Miss Wills and Mrs. Jessup as capable volleyers, but none of them has given an exhibition that matched Miss McKane's yesterday.

Miss McKane's court covering and anticipation were other factors in her victory. She was always a shot ahead of the play, and it was seldom that Miss Ryan could put the ball where she could not reach it, whether she lobbed or resorted to a trap shot. Her trap shots, which caught Miss Wills at her baseline at Seabright, won points for her yesterday only at long intervals. Most often they cost her the point, for they succeeded only in drawing Miss McKane up to the net, where she was most to be feared. Miss Ryan, after the severe struggle of the second set, in which there were many long deuce games, had little left in reserve in the final chapter and dropped five games in a row. She rallied to take the next two and then lost the eighth for the set and match.

Miss Wills Starts Mildly.

Miss Wills played too soft a game to stand up against the smashing strokes of Miss Fry in the first set. The English girl killed everything, keeping her shots close to the base line and giving her opponent few opportunities to get set for her strokes. She broke through in the third game, after winning the second at love on three tremendous drives, and held her own service until she had won six games.

In the second set Miss Fry was still hitting the ball hard but her control was poor. Miss Wills, speeding up her strokes, hammered her backcourt and the English girl did not have strength enough left to handle her shots safely. The champion took the first game at love, broke through in the second, 4—25 on four outs by Miss Fry, and won the third easily.

Miss Fry made a bitter fight for the fourth, running to all corners of the court, but she was not steady enough and weakened at the end of the long rallies. Miss Wills won the fifth at love and broke through in the sixth.

Champion Relaxes at End.

In the third set the champion played easily. Stroking with exceptional control, she won her points by her clever placing. Miss Fry did all of the work, rushing from one corner of the court to the other, while Miss Wills directed the ball to the corners. She tired badly and erred continually, hitting out of court by wide margins.

Miss Wills broke through in the fourth after a long deuce game, and took the fifth at 6—4. Miss Fry gave a great exhibition of driving to win the seventh and that was her last big effort.

Tilden, Johnston, Richards and Williams Named on United States Davis Cup Team

William T. Tilden 2d of Philadelphia, William Johnston of San Francisco, Vincent Richards of New York and R. Norris Williams 2d of Philadelphia, were named as the United States team to defend the Davis Cup in the challenge round at Philadelphia, beginning Sept. 10, at a meeting of the Davis Cup Selection Committee held yesterday. These four players engaged in the Davis Cup doubles trials at Forest Hills two weeks ago and the selection of all of them was looked upon as a foregone conclusion. Howard Kinsey of San Francisco was named as first substitute.

The nominations of the Davis Cup Committee were made public in accordance with the resolution adopted at the last annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, instructing the committee to name the team twenty-one days in advance of the challenge round. The designation of who will play the singles matches and the doubles will not be made until ten days before the play starts.

Tilden is certain to play in the singles. Johnston defeated Richards in both of the singles trials between them, and Tilden and Johnston won two out of the three doubles trials from Richards and Williams. These results did not necessarily decide who will be selected as the other singles player or the make-up of the doubles combination. It is generally believed that if Johnston is picked for the singles he will not play in the doubles.

Williams was named captain of the team and Holcombe Ward, Karl Behr and Dean Mathey were designated as a committee on playing strategy to represent the Davis Cup Committee. Kinsey was named as substitute because of his victories over George Lott, John Hennessey and Cranston Holman in the round robin cup trials among the four players.

EAST IS ELIMINATED IN NEWPORT TENNIS

Johnston, Griffin, M. Alonso and Norton Reach Semi-Finals of Singles.

KINSEYS LOSE IN DOUBLES

Voshell and Chapin Cause Only Upset of the Day by Defeating California Pair, 6-3, 3-6, 9-7.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—The East was vanquished in the round before the semi-finals of the Newport Casino invitation tennis singles today and when, tomorrow morning, the famous turf courts are the stages for the semi-final battles, William M. Johnston of California, former national champion, will oppose Manuel Alonso of Spain, and the other surviving Californian, Clarence M. Griffin, will meet the dashing Brian I. C. Norton, erstwhile South African and now of St. Louis.

Not until late this afternoon was there an upset, and that came when the sun was sinking behind the big grand stand and shadows were lengthening at the clubhouse court, where Robert and Howard Kinsey fought a losing fight against S. Howard Voshell of Kew Gardens and A. H. Chapin Jr. of Springfield in the doubles. The Californian pair fell before the spirited attack of the Easterners in the third round, 6—3, 3—6, 9—7. Robert Kinsey was the target for the Easterners' attack and although Howard played sensationally he could not stop the offensive alone.

This rift in the California tennis ranks leaves Johnston and Griffin far ahead of other pairs in class and takes some of the interest out of the doubles.

Johnston Beats Mercur.

Little Bill Johnston advanced in singles by defeating Fred Mercur 6—0, 6—4. Mercur's steadiness of previous days availed him nothing. Johnston was playing superb tennis and Mercur had not a chance before the aggressive attack featured by stinging drives.

Manuel Alonso had a fight on his hands with the Yale captain, Arnold Jones. The Spaniard, who has been at top form all week and will surely give Johnston a battle tomorrow, had to exert all of his tennis subtleties to defeat the youngster. He forced the attack throughout and caused Jones to flub many back-hand shots in the first set. Alonso won at 6—4, 7—9, 6—2. Jones's exertions in the second set caused his play to drop in the third, which Alonso ran out after leading at 3—2.

Displaying the same brand of tennis with which he beat R. Norris Williams the day before, Lucien E. Williams, another Yale player, forced B. I. C. Norton to exertions to win at 6—3, 3—6, 6—4. He cut, spun and twisted the ball to Norton who was equal to it all and just a little ahead of Williams throughout.

Peck Griffin, the other surviving Westerner, had an easy time with José Alonso, winning 6—2, 6—0, to complete the fifth round play.

Aside from the rout of the Kinseys, there was little of the spectacular in the doubles, but some mighty good tennis was seen in the third round.

Johnston and Griffin lost their first set to J. Alonso and Satrustequi, the Spaniards. The Californians were ragged but they climbed the hill to win at 1—6, 7—5, 6—3. Casey and Norton had an uphill climb too, being hard put in their first set by the new national junior champions, Hill and Johnston, but winning out 2—6, 6—4, 8—6.

Spanish Pair Wins.

M. Alonso and Flaquer, the other Spanish pair, dropped their first set to the veteran Clothier playing with Hugh G. M. Kelleher but won, 3—6, 6—3, 6—1.

The summaries:

Singles, Fifth Round—William M. Johnston defeated Fred Mercur, 6—0, 6—4; Manuel Alonso defeated Arnold W. Jones, 6—4, 7—9, 6—2; Brian I. C. Norton defeated Lucien E. Williams, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4; Clarence J. Griffin defeated José Alonso, 6—2, 6—0.

NABHOLTZ LEADING IN WESTERN OPEN

Cleveland Golfer's 67, Four Under Par, Tops Field of 261 at Youngstown.

TWO ARE TIED WITH 69

Carrick, Young Canadian Star, and French of Home Club Next in First Elimination Round.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Aug. 20 (AP).—Remarkable scoring, largely by young players, today marked the first elimination round of the Western open golf championship at the Youngstown Country Club, and when the 261 entrants had finished the round, Larry Nabholtz of Cleveland stood at the head of the class with a 67, four better than par.

Just as noteworthy was the score of 69 made by Donald Carrick of Toronto, Canadian amateur champion at the age of 18. The only other player to break 70 was Emmet French, veteran professional of the local club, who tied Carrick. A half dozen players shot 70, which is one better than perfect figures for the 6,500-yard links and another half dozen, including Walter Hagen, formerly British and American open titleholder, shot 71.

So many players scored from 72 to 75 that it looked as though the 64 who remain after tomorrow's second qualifying round for Saturday's final 36 holes would have to return 150 or better for the two elimination circuits of the course.

There were few upsets today, but many who thought that the Youngstown links could be played without effort awoke to find that the previous good scores as those of today were due to sharp shooting, for traps engulfed stray shots and the rough played havoc with wild drives. Others were really victims of hard luck, such as Jock Robertson of Chicago, who took nine on the 170-yard seventh because his tee shot landed in a foot print in a bunker, robbing him of a likely par score.

Carrick, considering his youth and the fact that he is an amateur, was really the brightest star of a large constellation. He started with two birdies, got a third on the fourth and went out in 34, one under par. He bagged his fourth birdie at the fourteenth and then evened up a misadventurous six he got at the 355-yard eleventh by shooting an eagle three on the 455-yard sixteenth where his long second was dead to the hole. He left a good taste in his golfing maw by sinking a 25-foot putt for a birdie 2 on the 140-yard eighteenth, which made him one under par for the second nine also.

French, bothered by the gallery, took three putts from 25 feet on the eighteenth or he might have scored a 68.

Macdonald Smith of New York, who had been picked by many to win the title, did not materially disappoint his supporters for he scored a good 70, taking two strokes off par on the second nine with a 34.

In the group of those who turned in cards of 75 was Gene Sarazen, whose brilliant playing brought him the Metropolitan open championship this Summer. Sarazen negotiated the first nine holes in 39 and then carved out a 36 on the homeward journey.

Richards and Williams Pair For Title Doubles Tourney

Vincent Richards and R. Norris Williams 2d, one of the two teams considered for the Davis Cup challenge round doubles match, will pair in the national doubles tennis championship at Boston next week. Richards announced yesterday at Forest Hills that Williams, for the first time in years, will not play with Watson Washburn, with whom he won the challenge round match from Japan in 1921. Williams and Richards stand out as probably the strongest contenders for the title held by the Kinseys. Other teams are Tilden and Sandy Wiener, Johnston and Griffin, Patterson and Hawkes of Australia and Lacoste and Borotra of France.

AUSTRALIANS LEAD IN DAVIS CUP FINAL

Capture First Two Singles Matches Against Japanese in American Zone Play.

ANDERSON BEATS HARADA

Antipodean Captain Is Erratic and Requires Four Sets to Win—Patterson Overwhelms Shimizu.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 20 (AP).—Japan's Davis Cup tennis team trembled on the serve of elimination from competition for the famous trophy as play ended late today in the American zone final against Australia. In the two opening singles matches Australia twice inflicted defeat so decisively on the sons of Nippon that already observers hail the Antipodeans as the winners.

The Japanese must now capture all the three remaining matches to win, while the Australians have only to take the one match of doubles tomorrow or one of the two singles matches Saturday to gain the victory which will pit them against France, European zone winners.

It was the sterling play of Gerald Patterson, at top form, and the somewhat spotty but still effective performance of Captain James O. Anderson that shattered the hopes of the Nipponese today. The giant Patterson smashed his way to a straight-set victory over Zenzo Shimizu, veteran captain of the Japanese team, 6—1, 6—4, 6—2.

Anderson, erratic at times but more than capable of holding his own in the pinches, disposed of Takeichi Harada, singles champion of Japan, in four sets, 6—4, 3—6, 6—3, 6—1.

Patterson, playing in the first match, was overwhelming. His cannonball service all but swept the little Shimizu from his feet. His placing of his drives sent Shimizu scurrying to and fro across the court for three sets in more or less fruitless efforts to get his racquet on the ball. Twenty-nine placements were scored by the Antipodean, making his total of earned points 33, in contrast to 10 for the Japanese.

The superiority of Patterson is indicated in some measure by the fact that only four of the twenty-five games were carried to deuce.

It was different in the Harada-Anderson match. The Japanese champion stroked the ball surprisingly hard and his service not infrequently gave Anderson trouble. The tall Australian was by turns brilliant and mediocre.

But in the end he had ample reserve to outpoint his rival. Early in the first set Anderson was spectacular. His drives flickered along the lines and Harada was driven into error or clean misses. After the third game, however, Anderson's play was more irregular but he rallied to pull out the set at 6—4.

His play was rather ragged in the second set, while Harada forced a hard pace. Anderson was often caught by the astute Japanese far to the left of the court in an impossible position. Harada earned seven points against six for Anderson in this set and had 23 errors as compared with Anderson's 29.

Anderson was sure of himself in the third and fourth sets. His passing shots and drives sometimes caught Harada awkwardly at the net. He piled up twice as many earned points as the Japanese in the third set and erred far less frequently. In the final set he literally overpowered Harada, winning the last five games with the loss of only seven points. Except in the first game he had his smaller opponent literally in rout.

$5,000 TROT GOES TO PETER BUSKIRK

Entrant in 2:12 Event at Orange County Track Triumphs in Straight Heats.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The largest crowd of the week witnessed the third day's races on the Harry Clay track at the Orange County Fair here this afternoon.

The first and second of the three races were won in straight heats, the former, a 2:12 trot for a purse of $5,000, by Peter Buskirk and the latter by Judge Leyburn. The first heat of the third race was won by Guesswork, but Grace Direct captured the second and third heats, winning the race. Lady Sybil which came in second in the first heat of the second race became lame in the second heat and was distanced.

JILES, CHAMPION, IS SIXTH

Miss Dorothy D. Smith Wins American Round—Dr. Crouch Makes Most Golds in One End.

Special to The New York Times.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Combating a stiff west wind, Dr. Paul W. Crouch of Boston, champion of the Eastern Archery Association, forged to the fore in the annual tournament of the National Archery Association here today, winning the national championship. James S. Jiles of Pittsburgh, the titleholder, who, with 2,110 for the entire tournament, stood sixth. Those who led Jiles finished in the following order: Crouch, 2,496; Dr. R. P. Elmer, Wayne, Pa., 2,474; Rudolph Lagai, Rome, N. Y., 2,220; A. W. Brush, Cos Cob, Conn., 2,216; W. H. Palmer Jr., St. Davids, Pa., 2,166.

Crouch and Elmer fought at close quarters during the entire second American round. When the round opened, Elmer had a ten-point advantage. In the first end of six arrows, however, Crouch made this up. From then until the third end from the last the two bowmen fought evenly, first one and then the other gaining a lead of a few points.

In the third round from the last, shooting at 40 yards, Crouch drove five arrows into the gold, one into the red. A circle, four and seven-eighths inches in diameter, on the centre of the target, would have encompassed the five golds. For this end Crouch scored 52 out of a possible 54. When Elmer made only 42 and missed the target with one of his arrows in the next end, his chances waned. The last end gave the championship definitely to Crouch.

In the women's team shoot four representatives of the Newton Archers of Boston defeated a team from Rome, 323 hits, 1,549 score against 132 hits, 526 score. Other teams shot, but these were the only two entered officially under the rules of the association. Shooting with the Newton archers was Miss Dorothy D. Smith of Newton Center, Mass., women's national and Eastern champion. Her score, 91—483, was high.

Rome archers won the men's team round with 1,584. The Keystone team of Pittsburgh and Wayne, Pa., stood second, with 1,575, the Newton Archers of Boston being third, with 1,475.

Crouch won the Weston Cup for making the most golds in one end, his record being five. Miss Dorothy D. Smith of Newton Center, Mass., won the women's American round, 81—437.

Mohawk Claiming Stakes at Saratoga Won by Titan

TITAN TAKES FIRST IN MOHAWK STAKES

Brown 3-Year-Old Gets Home Length Ahead of Gnome Girl at Saratoga.

RICHARDS ON THE WINNER

Also Scores With Green Blazes and Laplander—Kummer Victor on Chance Play and Deviner.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Titan, bay son of Jim Gaffney and Fair Louise, owned and saddled by F. E. Brown, this afternoon captured the twenty-third running of the Mohawk Claiming Stakes, a dash of a mile restricted to the three-year-olds. Under top weight of 110 pounds, and with little Richards up, Titan ran the distance in 1:40 over a track that was good but not fast. Titan had to be best to come home a length in front of J. L. Holland's Gnome Girl, as Richards gave him a poor ride. The victory brought in $2,800 to the owner of the winner. Titan was the 4 to 5 choice.

Richards and Clarence Kummer monopolized the card, winning five of the races between them, leaving the other for Earl Sande. Richards had three winning mounts, taking the opener with Green Blazes, the stake with Titan and the handicap with Laplander. Kummer won the third with Chance Play and the final number with Deviner. Louis Feustel saddled two of the winners for the Log Cabin Stud—Chance Play and Deviner—while Frank Brown sent out two in his own silks, these being Titan and Laplander. Sande brought home Zephyretta for J. E. Widener in the second.

Five three-year-olds paraded for the Mohawk Stakes, with Titan the favorite and R. T. Wilson Jr.'s Faddist the second choice at 3 to 1, backed from a point higher. They were off to a good start, Titan breaking in the lead, but being taken back. Gnome Girl, with McAtee up then went out to force a fast pace, going to the quarter in 0:23 4-5 and to the half in 0:47 3-5.

Titan in Close Quarters.

On the far turn Richards sent Titan right upon the filly's heels and had to take up, losing ground. In the stretch drive Titan came around Gnome Girl and went away to head her by a length at the wire. George D. Widener's Killashandra trailed in fourth place to the stretch, when she easily beat Faddist for the show money.

The Bennington Handicap at a mile for three-year-olds and upward was a two-horse affair, but it gave a kick to the big throng which saw the second choice come from behind to beat the odds-on favorite in a driving finish. The Lilane Stable declined the issue with Sunsini, leaving the Belair Stud's four-year-old filly Priscilla Ruley to fight it out with Brown's Laplander. The filly took up 126 pounds, but could not give away fourteen pounds to the younger horse.

Chance Play, chestnut son of Fair Play and Quellechance, considered by the late Major Belmont his best two-year-old prospect, showed some of his former promise in the Warrensburg Purse, a dash of five and a half furlongs for two-year-olds. After his two straight victories at Jamaica, Chance Play went wrong, coming back to the races here to finish fourth in the Flash Stakes. This afternoon he met nine others of his age and under top weight of 125 pounds beat them easily.

Chance Play Off Well.

Kummer broke the colt well from No. 2 post position and raced out with the Idle Hour Farm Stable's Barcolo, taking the lead at the far turn and opening a lead of five lengths. At the end Kummer had to ride hard to land his mount three lengths in front of the fast closing Macaw.

'Dempsey in 1926 Suits Me,' Says Wills; to Sail Aug. 29

PARIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—Harry Wills, American negro heavyweight, arrived in Paris today looking trim and fit after three weeks at Carlsbad and declared that he was ready to take on any opponent with four weeks' training after he reaches America. He stated he weighed 225 pounds in street clothes. Wills said that he would sail for New York Aug. 29 on the Aquitania, and that he had been called home by a cable from his manager, Paddy Mullins. This message said that his presence was necessary in New York before Sept. 5, but added no further particulars. Concerning a Dempsey bout Wills said the 1926 date proposed by the champion suited him perfectly.

"I am certain that Jack has no personal ill feelings toward me," Wills said, "and would not stand in the way of my making a few hundred thousand dollars. I have been in the fighting game for eleven years and never got any money out of it until the past two years. I fought Sam Langford twenty-two times and received about $20,000 for the twenty-two fights."

BOWLING WINS JUMP IN MONMOUTH SHOW

Performance of Miss Sally Lanier's Seasoned Campaigner Features Opening at Rumson.

Special to The New York Times.

RUMSON, N. J., Aug. 20.—Horse lovers of New Jersey gathered today at the Rumson Country Club for the opening of the annual Monmouth County Horse Show. Jumpers and hunters featured the card and the exhibitions were unusually brilliant, due to the spacious ring which has been constructed on part of the No. 2 polo field, affording perfect going.

The open jumping class, to be judged for performance only, brought out a record field. The ring conditions resulted in numerous ties for first place, and several jump-offs were necessary before the judges were able to award the blue. Miss Sally Lanier won first place with her seasoned campaigner. Bolling, a chestnut gelding that has won numerous ribbons at many shows. Harry C. Cortright won second place with his white mare, Lady Jane Grey.

The local saddle class brought out a field of well-matched horses and was won by Miss Clara S. Peck with Wanakena.

Charles F. Hobbs won the blue in the saddle class for horses over 14.2 and below 15 hands with Star Blossom after a spirited contest with Mortimer B. Fuller's Kitty Fisher. Mr. Fuller's horse previously had won the novice saddle horse class.

The awards:

Model Hunters (shown in hand)—Won by Rufus C. Finch's Fernbrook; Miss Michelle S. Newborg's Woodcock, second; Mrs. Luther L. Blake's Meadowbrook, third.

Jumping (open and performance only)—Won by Miss Sally Lanier's Bolling; Harry C. Cortright's Lady Jane Grey, second; Lawridge Stable's Little Canada, third.

VAGRANT CAPTURES ASTOR YACHT CUP

Harold S. Vanderbilt's Schooner Ahead of Advance by 23 Seconds on Corrected Time.

SPARTAN LEADS SLOOPS

Barbara Second, One Minute 46 Seconds Behind, in N. Y. Y. C. Cruise Over Ocean Course.

By SEABURY LAWRENCE.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I. Aug. 20.—Sailing in a fresh racing breeze from the southwest hauling to northwest, the schooner Vagrant, owned by former Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt, won the Astor Cup for schooners today on the ocean course off Brentons Reef. The race was sailed over a triangular cours of 38¾ which took th eleven schooners and seven sloops that started on a beat to the Block Island north buoy, then a broad reach to a mark off Seaconnet Point and, with the wind hauling to westward, another beat to the finish line.

Vagrant led over the course after the schooners had covered about five miles of the fourteen-mile beat to the Block Island buoy, and finished at 5:19:57 with a long lead over Wildfire, the second of the schooners to reach the lightship.

As the race was on time allowance, it was not certain that Vagrant had captured the cup until the Advance, the third boat, had crossed the line. The Advance received about fourteen minutes from Vagrant and lost out by just twenty-three seconds when the result was figured out. As the Boston schooner was finishing, the wind suddenly dropped light and puffy, and this undoubtedly cost Advance the cup.

Spartan Winner Among Sloops.

The cup for sloops was won by H. Wilmer Hanan's 50-footer Spartan, which repeated her victory of last year, after sailing a great race with I. B. Merriman's Barbara. These sloops sailed, it might be said, like a team over the entire course, with Spartan always having a slight advantage and finishing 1 minute 46 seconds ahead of the black sloop at the lightship. Five of the 40-footers sailed against the 50s, and Banshee was first of the 40s to finish, but was well outside of her time allowance.

When the racing fleet sailed out of the harbor to start the race at about 11 o'clock, a good sailing breeze from the southwest was blowing and clouds of sea fog were rolling in from seaward that sometimes made the yachts seem like white shadows in the haze. The fog siren was sounding on the old yellow lightship and things did not look any too good. The sun finally burned the fog away so that visibility was good for all hands.

There was quite a little color in the fleet, in addition to the sparkling sapphire of the sea. On board Amory Coolidge's forty-footer Cockatoo, for instance, the captain and crew were wearing very decorative blue jackets. These fantastic garments were coolie coats, brought from Japan by the owner of the yacht. On Vice Commodore Lawrence's new schooner Advance were Commodore Johan Anker of the Royal Norwegian Yacht Club; Sterling Burgess, the designer of the yacht; George Ratsey, the sailmaker, and Miss Eloise Lawrence, the daughter of the owner.

The warning signal was made at 11:30, with the schooners being sent away ten minutes later. Across the starting-line, between the committee boat Nourmahal and the Brentons Reef light vessel, there was quite a roll to the sea, and with a fresh breeze filling their sails the start of the eleven schooners was a magnificent one.

The seven larger yachts in the class were almost in line as they went across on the starboard tack. It was hard to tell which boat had her bow in front, but Vagrant had the weather position near the lightship, with Irolita, Taormina, Flying Cloud, Wild Fire, Advance and Queen Mab lined up in that order to leeward.

Wildfire Takes Port Tack.

The four smaller schooners starting, Venture, Fei Seen, Seven Seas and Nokomis, kept out of the jam of bigger boats and crossed after them. After crossing Wildfire almost immediately went on the port tack, standing in toward the Narragansett shore. One after another the big fellows all wore ship except Advance, which stood seaward for some time. Wildfire went in close to the beach and when she turned she weathered Queen Mab, Irolita, Flying Cloud and later Advance.

The start for the sloops was also spirited. Spartan, hugging the stern of the lightship, was timed a little too finely, bore away from the line and crowded Banshee and Mistral off the line. Cockatoo got across first, with Sally Ann, Spartan, Mistral, Banshee, Barbara and Rowdy all lined up to windward. Rowdy went about soon after crossing, heading for the beach, but the others held the off-shore tack for a time.

After crossing the others Wildfire tacked right on top of the Advance, but this did not get the Harding schooner anywhere, as she lost her way, and Vagrant, under a cloud of sail, went into the lead for a time.

Advance, holding in to the beach, soon worked out to weather of the Vanderbilt schooner and, going on the starboard tack, crossed her bows. As they worked down past the old lighthouse at Point Judith the weather had cleared, but the fog siren was still sounding at intervals. The breeze had freshened and with white caps cresting the waves Vagrant went into lead again as Advance held the tack toward the beach too long.

When they reached the Block Island north buoy at the end of the fourteen-mile beat Vagrant had worked out into a good lead and was timed at this mark at 2:05:21, with Advance coming along at 2:09:29. Wildfire, which had made a very long board out to sea, emerged out of the haze to take third place, jibing around the buoy at 2:13:34. Flying Cloud was only a short distance astern, being timed seventeen seconds later.

The two fifty footers had been sailing close, tack for tack, down the windward leg and Spartan rounded fifty-eight seconds ahead of Barbara. The Banshee, was eleven minutes astern of Barbara at this mark.

Big Schooners Tack Leeward.

The large schooners elected to tack to leeward on the long leg northeastward to the Seaconnet mark. Vagrant and Advance stood in for Point Judith once more but Wildfire went steadily seaward again. Queen Mab, Flying Cloud and Irolita decided to steer what might be described as a middle course, Queen Mab setting a spinnaker after rounding and laying a direct course for Seaconnet.

Advance held the inshore course all through this long leg but Vagrant, with the wind hauling northwest, came off shore and set a spinnaker. Irolita and Flying Cloud quickly followed this manoeuver.

From the Seaconnet mark Vagrant had plain sailing and in a freshening breeze made several short hitches along shore and then went seaward to lay a course for the finish line. She finished at 5:19:57 with a long lead over Wildfire and with Advance just far enough astern to be outside her time allowance, slowed up by a softening breeze.

The King's Cup Race, the blue ribbon event of American yacht racing, will be sailed tomorrow on the ocean course but over a triangle of approximately thirty nautical miles. Special races will be sailed for yachts too small to try for the King's Cup.

Post and Paddock

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Senator Frederick M. Kavanaugh of Saratoga County, a good friend of thoroughbred sport, has donated a cup which will be added to the money in the Senator Kavanaugh Handicap, which will be the secondary feature of tomorrow's card. It is at a mile and a furlong and has five entries.

With the wealth of racing material on hand it is remarkable that only three could be mustered for the Saratoga Sales Stakes, limited to the three-year-old, at a mile.

Quelle Chance, the dame of Chance Play, winner of the Warrensburg, was the mare that caused sensational bidding between J. E. Widener and J. C. Brady at the Nursery Stud disposal, the former winning at $45,000. She has been bred to Epinard in France.

When Earle Sande returned from the scales after his victory on Zephyretta he was followed through the paddock by a group of idolizing youngsters who asked no more than to be able to touch his jacket. The stands gave the jockey a fine reception.

The going was again tough. Only two favorites scored.

Among today's visitors was former United States Senator Johnson N. Camden, President of the Kentucky Jockey Club, who will remain for the week.

Another was Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, who delivered a short lecture on the horse in the Fasig-Tipton Company paddock before the opening of the yearling sale.

Butler, Washington, Accepts Post as Crew Coach at Navy

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 20 (AP).—Robert S. Butler of this city, freshman crew coach at the University of Washington, announced today that he had accepted an offer to become crew coach at the United States Naval Academy and would report Oct. 1.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 20.—The statement of Robert H. Butler, former member of the University of Washington crew, was confirmed by academy officials today to the extent that negotiations had reached a favorable stage. It was pointed out that action of the Navy Department is necessary before a definite contract could be made. However, there appears little doubt that Butler will assume charge of rowing, succeeding Richard J. Glendon Jr., who resigned.

ISELIN'S ACE WINS TEST IN STAR CLASS

Gains Honor of Defending International Title by Victory in Long Island Series.

Adrien Iselin 2d, sailing his boat Ace, won the Western Long Island fleet's elimination contest in the star class and will defend the International Star Class trophy in the international championship series on Sept. 1 to 5, inclusive, it was announced yesterday by G. W. Elder, Secretary-in-Chief of the Star Class Association. Although the elimination series was completed last Saturday, the competition was so close that results required time to figure out.

Mr. Iselin's percentage was 909. He was followed by Duncan Sterling, sailing Vega, with 888 per cent.; E. V. Willis, sailing Altair, with 870 per cent.; B. L. Linkfield, sailing Maia II, with 776 per cent.; R. G. Smith, sailing Nereid, with 578 per cent., and J. R. Robinson, sailing Little Bear, with 491 per cent. Little Bear was the winner of the race last year, but finished only sixth this year.

In the Western Long Island fleet there are fifty-four boats, and this year's elimination series was one of the closest on record. Mr. Iselin held the lead all through the early stages but in the seventh race Duncan Sterling and his brother passed him with Vega. The performance of the Sterling boys thrilled all yachtsmen on Long Island Sound, as they are both still in their teens.

Mr. Iselin, the winner, is one of the best-known and most successful sailors on the Sound. He flies the colors of the Port Washington Yacht Club.

AILEEN GUY VICTOR OF STALLION STAKES

Beats Sam Williams in Three-Year-Old Championship Trot at North Randall.

BEN WHITE DRIVES WINNER

Repeats Last Year's Feat of Capturing Both the Three and Two-Year-Old Honors.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20 (AP).—Aileen tables on Sam Williams by winning the sixteenth renewal of the Championship Stallion Stake for three-year-old trotters, with a value of $9,035. The event was the feature of today's Grand Circuit card at North Randall, and was worth $4,267 to the filly's owner, the Ellis Estate, Philadelphia.

Sam Williams, winner of the Matron Stakes at Toledo, was second and Worthy Harvester third.

Ben White, Lexington, Ky., who drove the winner today, also won the Rainy Day Stake for two-year-old trotters last week with Stallion Belle, and drove the winner of the two events last year. He is the first to accomplish the feat. Aileen Guy is a half-sister to Mr. McElwyn, last year's Stallion Stake winner.

Aileen Guy was much the best of the field of seven which started. She was nominated to the event by the Walnut Hall Farm, Donerail, Ky., also nominator of Hot Toddy, another Guy Axworthy filly, which finished fourth. Hot Toddy destroyed his chances in the first heat by making a break at the first turn. He finished third in the final heat after leading most of the way.

The junior drivers' race, for relatives of Grand Circuit drivers, was won by Winnie O'Wynn, driven by George McDonald. He is a son of Lon McDonald, Indianapolis reinsman.

Kentucky Toddy Jr. and Tarzan Grattan made it a double win from the meeting by capturing the 2:20 trot and the 2:04 pace, respectively.

CAMPAIGN WHIMSIES.

Politicians are a credulous folk. They cherish their little superstitions about what will affect public opinion and give a political campaign a good start. Just now in this city they are busily engaged in pointing to, or inventing, sighs of the times, veritable portents of the municipal election, which they insist show conclusively how popular sentiment is flowing. Chief among these alleged indications, during the last few days, has been the action of local party associations, or clubs, in pronouncing for this or that candidate. It is gravely reported that the Spoofenkill Democratic Association of Staten Island had a meeting and endorsed Senator Walker for Mayor. Consternation at the City Hall. Indignation in the breast of the Mayor's political manager, Judge Cohalan. Something must be done. It is. Two nights later another session of the devoted Spoofenkillians is held. The Chairman refuses to put the motion to rescind the former action; he is violently ejected; the revolters run off with the meeting, and it is triumphantly announced that Staten Island is absolutely solid for Mayor Hylan.

These amusing preliminaries of the campaign will probably be with us for some days to come. Anybody with a club or society or fraternity to deliver will feel that he has a splendid chance to "sell" it to the political managers on either side. They are not really deceived about what is offered to them or what they may decide to buy. They know perfectly well that these sealed proposals for blocks of votes, or for the swaying of a powerful local interest, amount to little or nothing on election day; but it is thought desirable or necessary to have a fine collection of these straws showing which way the political wind blows, these storm signals for the other fellow, these rainbows of promise for your own side, all in order to impress simple-minded people with what is advanced as sure evidence of the way the campaign is going. This is sometimes called manoeuvring for position. It too often looks like humbugging for position.

However, it would be foolish to look for any great elevation of method or of effort in this city election. The lowest arts and artifices of the politician's trade will freely be used. As for logic and consistency, they will be regarded by party leaders as entirely uncalled for and out of place. We get a plain hint of this in Mayor Hylan's first reply to Senator Walker. The Mayor's original position was that the organization leaders who had nominated the Senator, Olvany of Manhattan and Flynn of the Bronx, had "sold their souls" to the traction interests; but the moment that Senator Walker swore solemn allegiance to the five-cent fare, the Mayor turned square about, declared that the Senator professed the same lovely principles that he himself had always maintained, and asked why one Mayor should be displaced merely in order to make room for another who had the same convictions and would cleave to the same policies. This may seem a bit confusing, but it is nothing to the verbal contradictions and the moral contortions to which New Yorkers will be treated before this campaign is over.

INTERNATIONALIZING EMERGENCY RELIEF.

At first glance, the proposal submitted to the League of Nations for the formation of an International Relief Union through elaborating the machinery of the International Red Cross smacks of carrying coals to Newcastle. The project provides a somewhat elaborate structure, including a General Council, an Executive Committee and an Advisory Committee. Each nation is to be represented, and the rights and duties of the various members and committees are set forth in great detail in a comprehensive statute. The object is to use and coordinate the Red Cross and other relief organizations within each nation, and to facilitate the rapid mobilization of relief for the people of any one region in the event of some natural calamity or "act of God." A special study is to be made of all possible mishaps that may strike the world—flood, famine, earthquake, fire—with a view to determining the best manner in which emergency help can be brought with the least possible delay. In this work Government representatives as well as delegates of the various national Red Cross organizations would participate.

The plan, fathered by Senator Ciraolo, head of the Italian Red Cross, has met with the general approval of the International Red Cross governing body. Otherwise fears that the new organization might bring about needless duplication would carry more weight. It is felt, however, that an organization backed by the prestige of the League of Nations, and having a treasury supported by contributions from the respective Governments, would have greater actual and potential power to render assistance in emergencies than has the present Red Cross organization. There is no desire to curtail or interfere with the work of national units, but rather to render cooperation easier in the event of some calamity.

Within recent years the occasions for broadly organized international relief outside of war emergencies have been many. The Japanese earthquake still stands out as the worst natural disaster. By studying the relief needs then brought to light, it should be possible to form an accurate idea of what is most important in the event of another great earthquake. Thorough organization in advance should enable an organization like the proposed International Relief Union to mobilize large resources within twenty-four hours and to proceed at once with the task of sending to a stricken area those supplies which are of the most importance.

The old saying about peace and war might be paraphrased: to insure relief prepare for a calamity. In other words, foresight and forethought can eliminate most of the delays which so often neutralize the benefits of emergency aid. If the International Relief Union can foster this measure of preparedness, it will find a warm welcome in the world.

AN IRREPRESSIBLE PROGRESSIVE.

Wisconsin has long been free from that ancient enormity, the State party convention. The gathering of stalwart or regular or conservative Republicans at Oshkosh the other day was not a convention but a conference. It named Mr. Roy P. Wilcox as its nominee for United States Senator; but none of the other candidates is bound by its action unless he chooses to be. Governor Blaine has called a primary election to be held on Sept. 15. Candidates for Senator will hand in their nomination petitions Aug. 28. The chance that the conservatives will have in a free-for-all primary against young Mr. La Follette looks pretty tenuous. Former Governor McGovern, one of the aspirants beaten at Oshkosh, waves away Coolidge Republicanism. He appears as the true, unwavering and "just right" progressive. He says that Wisconsin admires Mr. Coolidge for the simplicity of his life and his policy of economy; but "a candidate of the Coolidge label cannot win in Wisconsin."

According to him, the Oshkosh conference was arranged by two "volunteer kingmakers." The cards were stacked for the nomination of Wilcox. Mr. McGovern refused to have anything to do with the conference. He had been asked to enter it and accept its decision. "Two candidates who "seemed certain of selection were "withdrawn when they came too close "to selection." If this testimony can be accepted, the two "kingmakers" were rather clumsy than subtle. Anyway, Mr. McGovern has been traveling over the State, proclaiming his purpose. He stands on his record as a progressive; he prefers himself to "young Bob" on account of the latter's youth and inexperience; but his main purpose is to baffle the dark designs of "the Madison crowd." That consists of Attorney General Ekern and Governor Blaine, who with "young Bob" form the "triumvirate" deplored by the faithful of Oshkosh. Mr. Blaine is to run against Senator Lenroot next year. Mr. Ekern is to succeed Mr. Blaine as Governor.

In his peregrinations Mr. McGovern thinks he has found "more people in "terested in the defeat of the Madison "crowd than in the selection of a "candidate for the Senate." He got his first laurels twenty years ago as District Attorney in Milwaukee, prosecuting officials and business men accused of grafting. Adopted by Senator La Follette in 1910, he was elected Governor and re-elected two years afterward; but his "specialty" is "candidating" for the Senate. In 1908 he tried to get Uncle Isaac Stephenson's shoes. In 1914, when Paul Husting, the first Democratic Senator from Wisconsin, was elected, Mr. McGovern still insists that he was elected and that a recount would have shown it. He attributes his defeat to Mr. Blaine, who ran as an independent candidate for Governor and is accused by him of trading votes. "I "was beaten by trickery and treach "ery, and I have been after the Blaine "outfit ever since." On the death of Senator Husting, Mr. McGovern was once more a candidate, but withdrew in favor of Mr. Lenroot.

He is a diligent seeker, a good hater. He can be depended upon to make the fur fly. Perhaps he talks too much of his grievances; but he has the romantic imagination to be expected of a true Wisconsin progressive. He says that if he had been elected Temporary Chairman of the National Republican Convention of 1912, the progressives would have controlled it and "La Fol "lette would have been nominated "and elected." So sweet a dream, lasting so many years, should be some consolation even for a fourth disappointment of his Senatorial hopes.

VICTOR F. LAWSON.

For more than a generation Mr. Victor F. Lawson, whose death The New York Times deeply regrets to record, had been an outstanding figure in the newspaper world and in the civic and philanthropic life of Chicago. Doubtless his success in building up The Daily News, which has held so remarkable and, in later years, unrivalled a position in the city of its publication, will be thought of there as his greatest achievement. The sagacity and energy with which through many years he applied himself to his newspaper work certainly merited the reward which came to him so amply, not only in the material sense but in appreciation of the good influence which he wielded. He made his paper absolutely independent at a time when journalism found it much less easy than it has since become to enjoy entire and fearless freedom from party ties. This enabled Mr. Lawson on more than one occasion to do valiant service in Chicago municipal elections, as well as in political contests that were vital for the State of Illinois.

To people outside he was perhaps better known through his long official connection with The Associated Press. One of its founders and steadily for more than twenty-five years a director, he had the satisfaction of seeing this cooperative news agency, conducted simply for the benefit of its supporting newspapers and not at all for profit, grow from its humble beginnings to its present strength. It was through The Associated Press that Mr. Lawson came into contact with so many members of his profession, all of whom came to have a great admiration for his sound judgment and perfect integrity, and many of whom were drawn to him in the closest friendship. To them his loss will seem something keenly personal as well as public.

In private life Mr. Lawson was one of the most unassuming of men. He avoided publicity with as much care as many others seek it. His charities were discriminating and are believed to have been on a large scale, but he sedulously kept them secret, so far as possible. Recognition came to him in many forms. Doubtless he took satisfaction in it, but he always remained modest, retiring and almost self-effacing. Never sparing himself labor, he was considerate of others, and will long be remembered in Chicago by thousands who knew him for his many nameless acts of friendship and of love. Shrewd, humorous, loyal to his friends, without a touch of posing or a taint of self-advertising, he was a man to tie to through his life and to mourn now that he has gone.

COUNTER-REVOLUTIONARY DINOSAURS.

Roy Chapman Andrews, at the head of the American Museum of Natural History's expedition, has been ordered by the Mongolian Government at Urga to discontinue his scientific work and to leave the country. He is accused of illegally extending his activities beyond the domains of geology, zoology and paleontology into the field of topography, of having in his employ a number of persons held suspicious "in a military sense," and of engaging in political propaganda for the purpose of stirring up the Mongolians against the "Red Bolsheviks." In itself, it must be assumed that topography is not prohibited by the Soviet Constitution as a bourgeois and counter-revolutionary occupation. Possibly it may turn out that in the prosecution of his work Mr. Andrews has engaged the services of former opponents of the Soviet Government. Mongolia was for a time a rallying place for the forces of General Semenoff, and Eastern Asia is in general a refuge for Russians formerly not wanted at Moscow. With former Russian Generals working as porters in New York restaurants and enlisted as privates in the American Army, it is conceivable that a few anti-Soviet Russians may have tried to avert starvation by acting as gang foremen and motor-truck drivers for the American scientists. That Mr. Andrews should have turned his attention from his first love, which is dinosaur eggs and paleozoic skulls, to anti-Soviet propaganda is inconceivable.

The incident makes no happy impression at the very moment when Soviet Russia is inviting the scientists and scholars of the world to participate in the celebration of the second centennial anniversary of the Russian Academy of Sciences. To that invitation some of the chosen guests have replied brusquely that they cannot forget the persecution of Russian scientists and men of learning by the present Government and the starvation of the country's intellectual life as part of the campaign against "counter-revolution." Americans, always choosing to think of the Russian people despite the Government, have accepted the invitation, and three of Secretary Hoover's former associates are now on their way to Moscow. It will come to them with something of a shock that Mr. Andrews, working with a spirit-level in the Desert of Gobi for the purpose presumably of determining altitudes and strata, is guilty of counter-revolutionary topography. Moscow rains invitations on foreign capitalists to come into Russia and cooperate. But what chance will a foreign investor have to work in peace at Moscow or on the Volga if an American scientist cannot hunt for dinosaur eggs 6,000 miles from Moscow without being guilty of anti-Soviet propaganda?

Unfortunately, the specific charges reported from Urga do not permit the gentler explanation that Mr. Andrews's interest in things anywhere from twenty thousand to ten million years old stamps him in Soviet circles as ipso facto a reactionary.

A BABE AND TWO GIANTS.

Last year's baseball season had its triple thrill: Babe Ruth's magnificent but unsuccessful effort to regain the pinnacle of his own home-run record; the neck-and-neck race in the National League among three teams in which the genius of John McGraw beat off the threat from Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, and the rush of humble Washington to League and world championship glory. The present season is one for thrill combined with philosophy and reminiscence. Time and illness seem to have had their way with the unprecedented "Babe." Time is gradually having its way with John McGraw, giant and Giant. Time, on the other hand, seems to be in for a repulse at the hands of that other titan of major baseball, Connie Mack.

Twenty-three years ago he won his first League pennant, two years before McGraw attained the same distinction. By 1904 McGraw was finding his stride. The following year the Giants and Athletics met in the first of the three great clashes that are still the fond memory of the middleaged. McGraw had to wait six years for his next League pennant, Connie Mack five years. But the come-back of the Philadelphian was the more emphatic. It was not until 1921 that John McGraw resumed winning world championships and persisted in the habit for three consecutive years. The Athletics turned the trick ten years earlier, winning the blue ribbon in 1910, 1911 and 1913. But whereas the Giants in the following year sagged and recovered, the Athletics fell. That was a fall, my countrymen! They were world champions in 1913 and League champions in 1914. The following year they were number eight and last in the American League; and in that sad eminence they remained undisturbed for seven years. Three years ago the patient began to show the first faint fluttering signs of life. Convalescence set in. By contrast with the Washington team, which leaped to the summits last year from a level ranging between third and seventh place in the course of ten years, the progress of the Athletics was glacially upward; seventh place in 1922, sixth place in 1923, fifth place last year.

For some time the former irresistible march of the Giant phalanx has been faltering. The old tradition and the old leadership met the challenge in their own League last year but failed in the supreme test with Washington. Just now the same spirit and skill are being displayed. Their greatest test will come in the five games with Pittsburgh, beginning today. After that contest is over it is thought that the League pennant will be virtually a certainty for one of these two teams.

LAND ECONOMICS.

Professor Richard T. Ely has for several years been studying with the aid of a small group of specialists the relation of man to the land. "Land economics" is the all-embracing term given to these studies, which range from the history of land policies and taxation of farm lands to city planning and zoning. The manifest need of scientific research in this broad field and in the related one of public utilities has led to the organization of an Institute under Dr. Ely's direction for continuing the work which this eminent pioneer, with the young economists about him, has projected. He has carried the financial burden of these investigations, securing from the Foundations and other private donors the funds with which to make the beginnings. "It is a gratifying circumstance," he says in a recent announcement, "that the progressive, forward-"looking spirit of Wisconsin enabled "the work to develop with such prom-"ise of service for human welfare."

While he hopes that his efforts will retain Wisconsin's cooperation, now that the headquarters of the organization are to be transferred to Chicago, where it is to be affiliated with Northwestern University, the change is fortunate for the Institute if the University of Wisconsin is to persist in the attitude which the Regents recently took toward the acceptance of money for the carrying forward even of research work. The Institute was not an organic part of the University of Wisconsin, but was so intimately associated with it that the gifts which have made possible its existence in the past few years would undoubtedly be viewed in the future with the same hostility as has been shown by the Regents toward contributions from like sources. The transfer to Chicago was made before the Regents acted, though probably in anticipation of their decision. This loss to Wisconsin is undoubtedly due, in part at least, to the policy which denies its professors hope of help, especially for research work, from outside sources. And unless the State is ready to supply the needed funds which other institutions are free to accept, it is obvious that Wisconsin, which has done so much pioneering work in various fields of inquiry, can no longer maintain its prestige in that particular.

The chief reason given for the transfer of the Institute to Chicago is not alone the welcome of Northwestern University, but the fact that Chicago offers outstanding advantages as a centre for the study of the problems of land utilization and public utility development—a great urban laboratory—and also for the convenient study of agricultural economics, being the greatest farm products market in the world, together with railroad economics, railways being "the most vital public utility of agriculture." Chicago is also the national headquarters for leading associations in the fields of real estate, public utilities and farm-mortgage banking.

It is clear that the findings of this research institution will be of national and international concern. Though located for convenience in Chicago, its studies cannot be limited by State or even national boundaries. It has ultimately to do with the world's natural resources. It is no "wild guess," says Dr. Ely, that 200 years or 500 years from now, when the earth has multiplied its population, the Institute may be rendering more far-reaching service to mankind than it is possible now to foresee. They are fortunate who are privileged to lay its foundations.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Explorers and Captains.

For years past—ever since the cable came into general use by shipowners—one or another sea captain has been making moan that the glories of his profession were passing fast. No longer did they, the moment they were off soundings, become of all human beings, except a few Oriental monarchs, the most powerful and unfettered. No longer were they merchants on their own account as well as for the men in the offices at home, and no longer, when they reached a port on the other side of the world, did they dispose of their cargo and take aboard a new one on their own authority. Slaves at the end of a long wire were they, and they didn't like it.

Then came wireless, and the captain's powers were still more decreased. He could be stopped and turned, even when out on the open ocean; sent to unexpected places on new orders, and his own preferences and judgment were not consulted at all. Worse than that, several times a day he now gets an ethereal signal that corrects his chronometers for him and, as he approaches a dangerous coast, like signals tell him exactly where he is and which way to steer. Almost anybody can run a ship with all that help from the shore, and disastrous effects on salaries and dignities are inevitable if things go on this way much further.

A somewhat like fate threatens explorers—already has come upon one of them. In better days, when a man started for the Arctic, he passed out of all control or criticism as soon as he was out of hailing distance from his point of departure. How different is the case of MacMillan! Every day he has to make a minute report of what he and his men are doing, and from the Navy Department and his backers he receives as often unsolicited advice as to what he should and should not do.

Of course, this relieves the loneliness of the frozen North and has several other advantages that could be mentioned, some of them quite important; but it wholly changes the nature of exploration, for it makes the leader of an expedition rather an agent than a principal.

Useful, but With Limitations.

Another lesson is to be learned from MacMillan's recent experiences. The people who have been talking so glibly about the great things to be done in the Arctic by means of the airplane and the dirigible must have been taught by now that their expectations were much exaggerated.

That something can be done there with these implements is true, for something has been done with them; but their utility is strictly limited, and there frequently are weather conditions and conditions of snow and ice on ground and sea that set the Arctic traveler to thinking regretfully of the old-time dog sledges. So Amundsen and his companions found out when they so narrowly escaped with their lives and one of their two trusted planes, and so MacMillan has discovered. With good weather his planes would have been noble coverers of tiresome miles, but with Winter hastening a little, snow falling heavily and ice forming rapidly it has been decided that the risks are too great for the navy fliers, and so the main object of the expedition has been abandoned for the season.

There will be no hunting for the unknown land that may or may not exist in the untraversed area of the Arctic Ocean, and the explorers turn into simply a body of humdrum scientists, interested in magnetic phenomena and Arctic wild life, plants and animals.

Explanation at Least Is Demanded.

It would seem to be desirable that the artillery officers at Fort Fisher, at the entrance of Long Island Sound, should make both an explanation and a defense in reply to the charges contained in the letter of Lenwith J. Brennan, printed on this page yesterday.

He said that he had been under gunfire for some time while on the way from Watch Hill to Greenport in his sloop Alouette with a party of five friends. They had noticed in the earlier part of the little cruise that target practice was going on at the fort and that a Government tug was warning such craft as his to keep at a safe distance from the falling shells. That was all right, and they did so. But, going on later, after the target had been towed out of sight and the protective tug had disappeared, the shells began to come again, and some of them dropped in such close proximity to the sloop that its escape was a mere matter of luck.

For that there is no obvious excuse, but as the artillery officers are well-intentioned persons, with no desire to slaughter innocent or even careless civilians, there must have been some reason for what happened and a firm determination on the part of those officers that it shall not happen again.

Much Worse Than a Nuisance.

From all near-by suburbs, as well as in Manhattan in the neighborhood of the parks, are coming bitter complaints of mosquitos, numerous and ferocious. New Jersey, Westchester County and Long Island are alike afflicted by the dangerous pests.

Everybody knows how they can be exterminated and abolished, or, at any rate, everybody should know, and the presence of the insects is clear proof that the health authorities first, and the general population second, have been more than negligent in the performance of their duties.

The offenses of this sort that evidently have been committed are palliated a little by the fact that the frequent heavy rains all through this region have left behind innumerable little puddles of water in which mosquitos can complete their brief cycle from eggs through wigglers to the full-fledged and well-armed adult. But though the task thus has been made more difficult than usual, it by no means has been made impossible. Everybody should help, first by holding the sanitation officials with which every town is provided to a stern responsibility for every mosquito, and then by looking carefully about his own house and grounds and making sure that no sagging gutter, no tin can or flower pot, no little depression behind the tall plants in the border bed is holding water to serve as mosquito nurseries. One such place will supply thousands of stingers in a fortnight, and some such place there certainly is near every house that now is troubled.

The oiling of water, by the way, is only a makeshift—something good to do till something better can be done. Marshes should be ditched, pools and puddles drained and small ponds equipped with the right sort of little fish to consume the larvae before they can put on wings.

SERBIA'S AID TO GREECE.

She Showed Consideration Even When Losing an Ally.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A tendency in recent dispatches from Europe to assume that Yugoslavia has been attempting to drive an over-severe bargain with Greece regarding the use of the port of Saloniki by Yugoslav commerce makes it worth while, perhaps, to put into print in this country certain important revelations made recently to a representative of the Greek newspaper Elefterios Tipos, by Dr. Ninchitch, the Yugoslav Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Dr. Ninchitch stated that when Greece made it plain she would not enter the World War on the side of the Allies, Serbia notified her that she considered their treaty of alliance, concluded in 1913, as definitely abrogated. This was in 1915.

"But we never announced the fact publicly," said Dr. Ninchitch, "so as not to weaken the international situation of Greece at critical moments—of which moments she, like the rest of the world, was having quite enough. And not only did we refrain from announcing the abrogation for the reason I have given above, but we acted as though the treaty of alliance were in full force."

This seems to dispose of the statement that Yugoslavia abrogated the treaty last year in order to drive a hard bargain with Greece before renewing it. We now see that through all the time when Greece was worst pressed—at the time of the Asia Minor débâcle and at the Lausanne conference—Yugoslavia was acting the part of a discreet friend, concealing from the world in general and from the Turks in particular that no treaty obligations bound Belgrade to Athens. If Yugoslavia had wanted to capitalize an unfair hold over Greece, that was her moment. Instead, she waited until Greece had passed her crisis before announcing the abrogation and opening negotiations for a new treaty.

As Dr. Ninchitch says, the problem at the present time is to reach a solution "so that the port of Saloniki shall not become—I wouldn't say a bone of contention between us, because Saloniki belongs to Greece and is definitely Greek territory—but a source of misunderstanding and mistrust." The dispute must really be regarded as being in the nature of haggling over a bargain. Both sides have advantages to offer the other. I have never heard that the Greeks were unable to hold up their end in negotiations of that sort.

HAMILTON FISH ARMSTRONG.
New York, Aug. 19, 1925.

LOVE AT SIXTEEN.

I am very, very sad—
Love has wrecked my life.
Solemnly I swear, indeed,
Not to be a wife!

Honey-cake is nothing much.
Ice cream is absurd.
He is never coming back—
So today I heard!

I have learned to swim so well,
I will swim away
Till I simply die and sink
In the ocean's spray.

But I have a pinkish frock
With a bluish sash,
So I'll wear it in my car,
Then I'll have a crash.

Or perhaps I'll pine away—
Thin and ghostly white,
So he'll weep his sorrow out
In the dead of night!

Father says to take the veil.
Mother smiles and looks.
Life is empty! Love is pain!
(So they say in books!)

Why is this to be my lot?
Still, it's very nice.
Hearts are funny things to have.
Mine's been broken twice!

SONIA RUTHELE NOVAK.

THE NEW PSYCHIATRY.

Writer Defends Methods at the New Jersey State Hospital.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Because of the publicity afforded through your columns to the criticisms recently levelled at the administration of the New Jersey State Hospital, and on account of my opinion as a former newspaperman that your journal is essentially fair minded, I am venturing to submit for publication this letter, with the hope that in some measure the damage done to the reputation of this most excellent institution and its medical director, Dr. Henry A. Cotton, may be counteracted.

First and foremost as to operations, cause and effect, that being the psychiatrically pioneering feature of our work here (as well as the point of attack by some uninformed persons):

From October, 1918, when the antiquated psychogenic and newer though none the less ineffective psychoanalysis gave place to surgery, until July, 1925, some 232 persons (suffering from manic depressive insanity, dementia praecox, alcoholic hallucinosis, various psychoneuroses and epileptiform diseases) who have been operated on intestinally have gone out on visit, tantamount to discharge in most cases, for they have not returned. This is 30 per cent. of 650 who went under the knife.

One hundred and eighty, or 27 per cent. have died. Many of these deaths have been due to the impossibility of keeping the patients in the quiet state essential to ultimate recovery with the force of attendants available (192 attendants and 30 nurses for 2,274 patients in the whole hospital). The remaining 43 per cent., or 238 patients, are still undergoing treatment in the hospital.

These operations on the gastro-intestinal tract were undertaken after careful fluoroscope examination and X-ray plates on the passage of a barium shadowed meal of liquid diet from stomach to rectum, but not until for several months the progress of the patient had been daily observed after the extraction of infected and impacted teeth, cleansing of sinus and submucous membranes, &c.

When patients do not respond to these preliminary treatments, the Lane operation for first and last kinks (coupled with appedectomy) secures the removal of adhesions in the intestines, thus permitting that system of human sewage disposal to resume normal practice and clear the otherwise sluggishly progressing residuum, which formerly fostered the increase of streptococci. It is these bacteria of a harmful nature in the colon that give rise to autointoxication and myriad ills of constipation, which react so profoundly on the nervous system.

No impression is more incorrect than that the State Hospital at Trenton is a place where unfortunates are experimented upon by surgeons. This method of treating mania and melancholia has gone far beyond the stage of trial balance, its worth having been demonstrated by a remarkable increase of cures from the old spontaneous system of rest and wait, at 35 per cent., to upward of 75 per cent. at the present time.

If the Lane operation does not work, reconstruction of the colon or total colectomy is resorted to. The proportion during these seven years is as follows: Lane operation, total 297; recovered and improved 104, unimproved 3, dead 36, death percentage 12.

Reconstructed colons, total 166; recovered and improved 39, unimproved 13, dead 68, 40 per cent. fatalities.

Total colectomy 187, recovered and improved 54, unimproved 19, dead 76, or 40 per cent.

Of these 180 dead it should be borne in mind that, with the written consent of parents, wives, husbands, children, brothers and sisters previously secured in every case, nevertheless one nurse or attendant cannot be set to keep constant watch on every patient. After coming out of the ether many persons are still manic, and have been known to tear open their wounds, insufficient time having elapsed for the focussed infection to be eliminated and the nerves freed from their poisoned and abnormal condition.

Rich and poor, private patients and indigents are given the same care and go through the same régime, except that private patients can sometimes afford special nurses or attendants.

The medical staff includes besides Dr. Cotton, Dr. E. B. Funkhouser, twenty years a neurologist at the institution; Dr. F. J. Fisher, a surgeon dentist of ten years' active practice; Dr. Joseph L. Gariss, a roentgenologist; Dr. Herbert A. Judson, a resident urologist, who operates for infected vesicles and administers the Carroll (horse serum) and general paresis treatments, besides taking the blood and spinal fluid for Wassermann tests; Dr. William A. Clark, forty years in practice, in charge of the 800 senile cases in the annex; Dr. Paul B. Means, in charge of the 350 cases of criminal insane and also director of the Psychiatric Clinic, which examines men and women, boys and girls at the prisons and reformatories, feeble minded colonies, &c; Dr. John A. Holland, Assistant Surgeon, in charge of Paton Building (the men's psychiatric wards); Dr. Lila Ridout, in charge of women's wards; Dr. Stone, Chief Assistant Surgeon and also in charge of the Dix Building (women's psychopathic wards), besides some younger men and women, Drs. Pierson, Parsons, Haluska and Sher. Dr. Draper of New York City is a visiting surgeon, and from Trenton come an ophthamologist and others to correct eye, ear, nose and throat troubles.

As a former patient (operated on by Dr. Cotton for the Lane operation, assisted by Dr. Holland), two weeks later discharged from the operating ward and four months after the operation discharged from the hospital (although six weeks on vacation during this interim) and later an assistant in the medical office, I feel that some publicity ought to be given to readers of the quality of those who peruse The New York Times.

About 800 new patients are received at this hospital each year and a few old ones return, keeping the family under treatment about 2,300. It is a big work, a promising field, a successful demonstration of new therapeutics. Under Commissioner Lewis of the Department of Institutions and Agencies—who has also been unjustly censured for needed and proved worthy expenditures, in order that the Chairman of the legislative committee conducting the investigation may succeed the incumbent as State Controller—a most excellent corps of officials have been placed in charge of all of the New Jersey State agencies; but politicians do not like the reforms (frills they call them) and long for the good old days that will never return.

NEW QUEENS BRIDGE ASKED BY CONNOLLY

Requests Action by Board of Estimate on $50,000 Appropriation for Boring.

WANTS FERRY RESTORED

Abandonment of the 34th Street Route a Hardship to the Borough, He Says.

Maurice Connolly, Borough President of Queens, asked the Board of Estimate yesterday to build a new bridge over the East River between Manhattan and Queens. He also asked that the Thirty-fourth Street ferry service be resumed.

He made his requests in two letters to the board. He pointed out that the ferry service had been discontinued two months ago by the Long Island Railroad Company and that the city already owned the ferry slips on the Manhattan side. He urged that the abandonment of the line had caused hardship to residents of Queens and had added to the volume of traffic of the Queensboro Bridge.

In his first letter to the board President Connolly remarked that at the last meeting of the board he had introduced a resolution for an appropriation of $50,000 for boring and other work in connection with a new East River bridge. His letter yesterday put the resolution on the calendar of the next board meeting, and he asked that it be adopted as soon as the board meets.

"The Queensboro Bridge," he wrote, "is seriously overcrowded. Rarely does one today cross the bridge without seeing the results of various accidents, and it is fair to assume that the loss of life occasioned on the Queensboro Bridge is greater than the loss of life occasioned on any other similar highway or bridge anywhere. We should begin to save lives as well as to relieve this congestion at once."

In discussing the need for reopening the Thirty-fourth Street ferry the Borough President said that another resolution, which he offered at the last board meeting, sought authority for the Department of Plant and Structures to take over the ferry. He pointed out that the ferry slips on the Queens end of the line were being used for railroad purposes by the Long Island, but said that suitable other sites could be obtained without any great difficulty. He said that such site was at the foot of Seventh Street, where condemnation proceedings are under way for the Department of Street Cleaning.

William Wirt Mills, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, added Mr. Connolly, had reported at the last meeting of the Board of Estimate that for slightly more than $200,000 the city could reopen the ferry line. Mr. Connolly asked that the board at the next meeting provide the $200,000.

With the completion of the Alley Creek Viaduct, a span of 1,100 feet over the lowland on both sides of Alley Creek, between Bayside and Douglaston, Queens County will have one of the most beautiful bridge structures in the United States, Andrew K. Johnson, Assistant Highway Engineer in charge of Queens, announced yesterday. The viaduct, which will cost approximately $1,000,000, will be a part of the Nassau Boulevard, one of Borough President Maurice E. Connolly's highway projects, which will run from Queens Boulevard, starting at Woodhaven Boulevard and Ireland Mill Road, to the Nassau County line. The viaduct and highway will be completed in 1927.

SUBWAY BID FAVORED.

Offer of $4,298,833 the Lowest for Part of St. Nicholas Avenue Route.

The Board of Transportation asked the Board of Estimate yesterday to award to the firm of Rodgers & Hagerty the contract for construction of Section 11 of the new subway along St. Nicholas Avenue. The firm's bid of $4,298,833 was the lowest offered. Section 11 extends along St. Nicholas Avenue from 149th Street to 160th Street.

"Bids for the twelfth section of the city's new subway system," said the board's announcement, "will be received by the board on Sept. 8. Advertisement of the invitations to the contractors was authorized by the board at its meeting today. The section extends along Eighth Avenue and Central Park West from Fifty-eighth Street to Sixty-eighth Street.

"The board held a meeting today on the draft form of contract for the construction of the Greenwich Avenue, Eighth Avenue, Central Park West, Fort Washington Avenue and Broadway, 156th Street, Harlem River, Jerome Avenue, 162d Street and Grand Concourse routes of the new subway system."

PLEA FOR SOUTH QUEENS.

South Side Allied Association Seeks Subway Spur.

Morris L. Blum, President of the Queens South Side Allied Association, announced yesterday that his association and others would appeal to the Board of Transportation for additional subway facilities for the South Queens section. Mr. Blum said there was urgent need of more subways in his neighborhood.

"What South Queens wants," he said, "is a subway spur running from Queens Boulevard and Hillside Avenue in a semicircle to the Liberty Avenue elevated line. This line, which would branch off from the proposed line to 178th Street, would go southwest to Sutphin Boulevard, then west to Liberty Avenue, then turn again back to Van Wyck Avenue, thence to Lincoln Avenue and to the Liberty Avenue elevated line by way of Rockaway Boulevard. At present the commuters and the shoppers of this section have to depend almost entirely on an inadequate and altogether unsatisfactory bus service."

$16,000 GIFTS FOR HOSPITAL

Ruth Draper Endows Bed in Presbyterian Institution.

Gifts totaling $16,000 for beds in the United States Base Hospital 2 Memorial Ward of the Presbyterian Hospital were announced yesterday.

The gifts were $5,000 from Miss Ruth Draper, monologist, and sister of Dr. George Draper of the Presbyterian Hospital, for a bed in memory of her brother, Paul Draper, who was with Base Hospital 2 in France and who died last year; $5,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Bliss and $6,000 for a one-bed room from the Imperial Lodge of Elks, colored, 160 West 129th Street. The last contribution raises the total subscriptions from colored persons to $22,358 in cash and pledges.

5,000 FIREMEN PARADE.

March at Mamaroneck Is Biggest Event of Volunteers' Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Almost every section of the State was represented in the parade of the New York State Volunteer Firemen in Mamaroneck this afternoon. More than 20,000 persons lined the sidewalks and cheered them as they marched through the principal streets in the biggest event of the convention, which will close on Saturday.

The parade started at the high school and proceeded along Mamaroneck Avenue, to Palmer Avenue, to Prospect Avenue and thence to the East Boston Post Road, where they passed the reviewing stand in front of Police Headquarters and opposite the Mamaroneck Elks Club. There were about ninety companies and thirty bands in line.

Displays of fireworks are held every night on Harbor Island, Mamaroneck, as a part of the entertainment for the delegates and their wives.

Fire Damages Hoboken Records.

Records of the Hoboken Chamber of Commerce, the North Jersey Transit Commission and the Hoboken Land and Improvement Company were damaged by water in a fire yesterday which slightly damaged the three-story brick building occupied by the organizations at 1 Newark Street, Hoboken. Firemen had to cut through the roof to get at the fire, the cause of which was not determined. The property damage was estimated at $5,000.

K. P. WALKER REWED DAY WIFE GOT DIVORCE

Barred in This State, He Married Miss Martha Irving at Sound Beach on July 25.

Mrs. Julia G. Walker of Babylon, L. I., and 150 East Seventy-third Street was divorced from Keitt Pinckney Walker, a real estate operator and broker, on July 25, it became known yesterday. Mr. Walker was ordered by the Court not to remarry in this State. He was married the day the decree was made final to Miss Martha P. Irving at Sound Beach, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker had been separated for ten years. She has lived with her daughters, the Misses Olivia and Eleanor Walker. Before her marriage she was Miss Julia Irving Graham, and her mother was a daughter of General Richard L. Schieffelin. Her oldest daughter, Julia, is the wife of Walter Rysam Jones of 225 East Sixtieth Street.

Mrs. Walker brought suit against her former husband last Spring. The case was heard in Nyack before Judge Arthur S. Tompkins, who on April 25 granted an interlocutory decree, which was made final on July 25. The suit was not contested, and Mr. Walker was ordered not to remarry without special permission of the Court.

The day the decree was made final Mr. Walker and Miss Irving were married by the Rev. Lewis Barney at Sound Beach. When Mr. Walker was asked if he had told Mr. Barney that he had been ordered not to remarry he said:

"No. Why should I? There was no reason why I should not get married in some other State."

The present Mrs. Walker is a descendant of Washington Irving, who wrote "Knickerbocker's History of New York." Her father, the late Washington Irving, was a great-grandnephew of the author, a graduate of Annapolis and for a time an officer in the navy. He resigned to enter business, although at the time of the Spanish-American War and the last war he re-entered the service as Commander. Admiral and Mrs. Charles Sumner Williams of New York are also relatives of Mrs. Walker.

College Romance at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP).—A college romance dating back three years or more will end here some time this week in the marriage of Professor Raymond J. Hoyle of the State College of Forestry at Syracuse University to Miss Margaret Carolyn Kotz, a graduate of the university in the class of 1923. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Evans A. Worthley, now a student at the university. Miss Kotz is a resident of this city, while Professor Hoyle comes from Saranac Lake.

J. B. MARSH HEADS THE COUNTY LEGION

Elected Commander at Closing Session of Seventh Annual Convention.

NO ACTION ON WORLD COURT

Resolution Favoring It Is Rejected Because Organization Disavows "Politics."

John B. Marsh of the 306th Machine Gun Battalion Post was elected Commander of the New York County organization of the American Legion at the concluding session of the seventh annual convention of that body held last night at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Marsh defeated Charles Hann Jr. of the Navy Post by sixteen votes.

The session was enlivened by a determined stand against meddling in politics. One delegate introduced a resolution favoring the World Court. Speakers made it plain that the right or wrong of the plan was not at stake as far the county organization was concerned. Instead, they said, it would not be wise to plunge the Legion into politics. The resolution was defeated by a large majority.

Four hundred delegates of ninety posts representing 10,000 members, attended the meetings yesterday and last night.

The convention unanimously adopted the report of Miss Margaret C. Kell, Chairman of the Hospital Visiting Committee, who asked for the appointment of a social service worker to act as liaison officer between the hospitals, posts, welfare bureau and county and veterans' bureaus.

Harold L. Downey, Chairman of the Employment, Welfare and Insurance Committee, reported that 526 of 788 registered disabled men had been placed in jobs during the past year, and that 612 of 799 welfare cases had been given help, amounting to $41,601.78.

Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, speaking at the night session, which was concluded by balloting for officers for the ensuing year, congratulated the organization on its work and promised his cooperation.

Pledging real New York City hospitality at the forthcoming State American Legion convention to be held here Sept. 10, 11 and 12, Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright felicitated the Legionnaires in behalf of Mayor Hylan. He said he was proud of the 900 members of the New York Police Department who had seen service in the World War.

Resolutions were adopted on the following subjects: Opposing a reduction in army and navy appropriations; favoring retirement on half pay for Spanish-American and World War veterans after twenty years in a hazardous occupation or twenty-five years in non-hazardous occupation for city and county employes; favoring the development of a merchant marine; favoring the anniversary of our entry into the World War, as National Defense Test Day, and favoring preference for American ex-service men for employment as officers on ships operated under the American flag.

Retiring Commander Robert G. Paterson and Charles Hann Jr. were unanimously elected delegates and Miss Kelly a delegate-at-large to the State convention, for which forty-one persons were chosen.

Other officers elected were First Vice Commander, Lewis H. Hunt of General Lafayette Police Post; Second Vice Commander, William A. Bollinger of Western Electric Post; Adjutant, Fred B. Walker of Greenwich Village Post; Treasurer, William H. Woolverton of Squadron A, 105th Machine Gun Battalion Post; Historian, Andrew Scott Jr. of Nylic Post.

The Executive Committee consists of Edward Behman, Robert R. Gerstner, Charles Horowitz, Edla Malgrem, Birge W. Kinne, Norman C. Marks and Arthur Proctor.

I. Ticktin was named Chairman of the Grievance Committee. The following were elected members: Dr. M. B. Boutte, Sidney W. Brewster, John F. Connors, Frederick S. Crowell, Edward A. Simmons and E. J. Skemoules.

The marriage of Miss Irene Anna Schuyler, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Mooney of the Bronx, to James O'Gorman Stanton, son of Mrs. Ella O'Gorman Stanton of this city, took place yesterday afternoon at the Church of St. Anthony in the Bronx. The Rev. Dr. Daniel J. Quinn, former President of Fordham university performed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's grandparents.

SIR CHARLES HIGHAM WEDS AN AMERICAN

English Advertising Exponent and Mrs. Eloise Rowe Ellis Are Married at Slough.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The marriage of Sir Charles Frederick Higham, famous English exponent of American advertising methods, scheduled secretly for "somewhere in London" today, was discovered to have taken place quietly at Slough, in the Registry Office. The bride was a New York woman, Mrs. Eloise Rowe Ellis, 29 years old, daughter of the late John Charles Rowe of New York.

Only two witnesses and Sir Charles's 10-year-old daughter, May Higham, were present.

Sir Charles was one of the first men to introduce American advertising methods in Britain. He is 49 years old and was Coalition member of Parliament from South Islington from December, 1918, to October, 1922. He is well known in this country, having made several trips here. His most recent visit was last Winter, when he came to persuade Americans to drink more tea.

SALE OF IDLEHOUR HELD UP IN COURT

Closing of Title on W. K. Vanderbilt Estate at Oakdale, L. I., Protested as Illegal.

An order postponing for one week the closing of the tile for Idle Hour, the William K. Vanderbilt estate at Oakdale, L. I., sold on July 21 for $528,000, was signed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice William B. Carswell in Brooklyn. The property was to have changed hands yesterday, but Edward Potter, representing the Davon Realty Corporation, maintained that the sale was illegal and asked for the postponement pending decision as to whether the sale shall be set aside. The Davon Corporation holds a second mortgage of $25,000 on the property.

Mr. Potter told how the estate was first sold on July 21 by Referee Rowland Miles shortly before 1 o'clock to Sigmund Werner at an auction for $553,000. Werner, however, was unable to furnish the 10 per cent. deposit to bind the sale. "After being told by Mr. Werner," says Referee Miles in an affidavit filed yesterday, "that he could not comply with his bid at that time, I again offered the property for sale, but before doing so Mr. Werner stated that he could get the 10 per cent. the following day and would be able to deposit it if he could get adjournment to that time.

"Your deponent was called upon to exercise his judgment as to what to do." Mr. Miles then states that as Werner was a total stranger to him, and since Werner must have known the conditions of sale, he deemed it his duty to proceed with the sale. The property was therefore put up again, around 3 o'clock, and was bought by a representative of a Detroit group, including David Davis and Andrew Geller, for $528,000.

The plaintiffs allege that at the time of the sale neither Davis nor Geller was present, and that moreover the representatives of the Davon concern were likewise absent, having gone for lunch, thinking the sale completed.

Davis and Geller declare that they proceeded in good faith and desire to have the purchase completed. They have already spent considerable sums, they say, in the renovation and decoration of the premises. They have formed a corporation with 2,500 shares of stock, and each, it is alleged, has contributed $125,600 to the corporation, while $328,000 has been borrowed on which a first mortgage is to be issued on the property.

MARRY ON THE BRIDGE OF LEVIATHAN TODAY

Cornell Graduates Will Wed Between Cherbourg and Southampton to Save Time.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Miss Eleanor Fay Bayuk of Philadelphia and Leonard Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel green of New Rochelle, N. Y., will be married on the bridge of the Leviathan by Captain Hartley as the ship steams from Cherbourg to Southampton tomorrow morning.

The couple are graduates of Cornell University. Following a brief visit to London they will fly to Paris and then proceed to Biarritz on their honeymoon.

Miss Bayuk is the ward of Samuel Bayuk of Philadelphia and has been traveling in Europe with her sister since February.

Miss Bayuk and Mr. Green hit upon the scheme of being married on the Leviathan as a means of saving time, Mr. Green's father, Samuel S. Green, of 111 Lockwood Avenue, New Rochelle, said last night. They at first thought of being married in England or France, but since a necessary preliminary to marriage in either of these countries, according to Mr. Green, is a residence of at least three weeks, they determined to be married on the Leviathan, which is legally American territory.

All arrangements for the wedding were made before the Leviathan sailed from New York, Mr. Green said. Miss Bayuk, who has been traveling in Europe, will board the ship at Cherbourg. Mr. Green said that his son, now 24 years old, was graduated from Cornell in 1922 and that he rowed on the crew for three years. Since graduation he has been employed as a bond salesman. Miss Bayuk was graduated from Cornell last year.

REPORTS ATTEMPT TO KILL ALFONSO

Traveler's Story of Arrest of Man With Revolver Is Officially Denied.

HENDAYE, France, Aug. 20 (AP).—A traveler who has just returned from Santander told a circumstantial story today of an alleged attempt to assassinate King Alfonso of Spain at that place on Saturday night. Later the Spanish Embassy made a formal denial that there had been any attempt against the life of the King.

The King's assailant, according to the traveler's tale, was arrested as he was drawing a revolver of large calibre from his pocket, just as the King was approaching in the royal automobile. He was described as a tall, well-dressed man, wearing unusually large, dark glasses, as he stood among the spectators along the street. These he replaced with clear glasses, and this action attracted the attention of a Secret Service man, who threw his arms around him as he put his hand in his coat pocket seeking a weapon.

Soon after the arrest rumors were current that the King had been wounded in the shoulder, that the Duke of Miranda, who was created a Grandee of Spain in 1920, had been killed and that the King's chauffeur was also wounded.

As the traveler left Madrid it was reported that former Radical Deputy Company of Barcelona had been seized by the authorities.

Circles in touch with the General Directorate of Security do not hide the existence of a plot against King Alfonso, with ramifications in several cities and the participation of foreigners. The police are taking special measures to protect the King.

MOSES T. PYNE LEFT $11,309,977 ESTATE

WIFE IS CHIEF BENEFICIARY

His New York Real Estate Valued at $861,800, Stocks at $2,838,140—Debts Were $335,775.

An appraisal, filed yesterday, of the estate of Moses Taylor Pyne, lawyer, financier and trustee and benefactor of Princeton University, who died April 22, 1921, shows that he left a total estate of $11,309,977, of which $10,237,119 was in personal property. Because Mr. Pyne was a resident of Princeton, N. J., only $4,036,235 of his estate is taxable in New York. The bulk of his property consisted of securities.

Mr. Pyne left to his widow, Margaretta S. Pyne, a life interest in the town house at 263-265 Madison Avenue, valued at $225,000, and the contents of the house, appraised at $23,756. He also gave her a life interest in his residence, Drumthwacket, at Princeton, with its contents, and one-half the income from the residuary estate for life. Upon her death this property, with the residuary estate, goes to her two sons, Percy R. Pyne 2d and Moses Taylor Pyne Jr.

Princeton University received land in that city valued at $53,425, and the stock of the Prospect Company, owner of the tract of land in Princeton known as Broadmede, valued at $214,570, and the sums due Mr. Pyne from the Prospect Company, amounting to $13,900.

The property in New York included real estate worth $861,800, of which the following were the largest parcels: 17 East Sixtieth Street, $100,000; 30 East Fortieth Street, $65,000; third interest in 1,613-1,623 Broadway, $320,000, and a third interest in property at Riverdale, which share was valued at $93,600. The securities taxable in New York included the following stocks: 2,000 shares American International Corporation, $86,250; 1,200 Consolidated Gas, $85,500; 1,280 Farmers Loan and Trust Company, $448,000; 6,360 National City Bank, $1,996,485; 508 National Bank of Commerce, $109,982, and 1,588 Steel Equipment Corporation, $111,923.

The list of stocks owned by Mr. Pyne which were not taxable in New York included 12,000 shares Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic Railroad; 150,000 British-American Petroleum Company; 2,884 Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Coal Company; 8,250 Lackawanna Railroad; 3,845 Lehigh Valley Railroad; 3,017 New Jersey Zinc Company, and 1,115 shares Michigan Central.

Mr. Pyne had debts amounting to $335,775, of which he owed $190,915 to the Stock Exchange firm of Pyne, Kendall & Hollister on two speculative accounts. His will gave $50,000 in cash to his friend, William D. Seaman, and a codicil left $10,000 cash to his friend, A. Eugene Pattison.

LADY DUNSFORD SEEKS GOULD FUND INCOME

Financier's Second Wife Offers $140,000 Bond to Indemnify Trustees—$89,726 Involved.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—Lady Dunsford, the former Guinevere Sinclair, second wife of the late George J. Gould, petitioned the New Jersey Court of Chancery today to approve a $140,000 bond to indemnify trustees of a million dollar trust fund from possible court action by other heirs of the Gould estate. Lady Dunsford is seeking to obtain $69,726 income from the fund which was created by Mr. Gould.

By a decree of July 14 the Chancery Court held Lady Dunsford to be entitled to the income from the fund and ordered the Commercial Trust Company of Jersey City and S. Neilson Rice of New Brunswick, trustees, to pay her the accumulated interest from October, 1922, when the fund was created. The findings of the court, however, required the former Mrs. Gould first to furnish a bond indemnifying the trustees because of the payments. The Equitable Trust Company of New York furnished the security.

Subsequent to the decree, Mrs. Gould in her petition said she married George Broderick Viscount Dunsford. The Gould fortune has figured a number of times in chancery suits since the death of the financier about two years ago as efforts were made to settle differences between his children, his executors, his second wife and the executors of his first wife, the late Mrs. Edith Kingdon Gould.

Harry P. Hanaford.

Harry Prescott Hanaford, who died Wednesday in South Sudbury, Mass., for twenty-five years published in New York and Brooklyn editions of The Cast, a weekly periodical of information for theatregoers. He formerly published the programs of the vaudeville theatres in Manhattan and Brooklyn controlled by the late Percy G. Williams. Mr. Hanaford was born at New London, N. H. After learning the publishing business in the West he came here in the '90s. His wife, who died a year ago, was Jeffie Forbush-Hanaford, author. He leaves a son, Roy F. Hanaford of Brooklyn, and a sister, Mrs. Albert G. Rollins of Cape Elizabeth, Me. Services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street.

COTTON FACTOR DIES HERE.

Heart Attack Kills Egbert Rand of Shreveport in Broker's Office.

Egbert Rand, 65 years old, a cotton factor of Shreveport, La., who came to New York Wednesday on a business trip, died suddenly late yesterday afternoon in the offices of J. K. McFarland & Co., insurance brokers, of 111 Broadway, where he had an appointment.

Mr. Rand found Mr. McFarland absent and walked past the waiting room telephone operator and into a private office. The young woman at the switchboard heard him gasping, she said, and ran into the office, where she found him dead.

Mr. McFarland, when he was notified, called an ambulance from the Broad Street Hospital. A physician from the hospital pronounced Mr. Rand dead of heart disease. The insurance broker said the dead man had a wife and two children in Shreveport.

Mr. Rand was said to have been a vestryman of St. Mark's Church in Shreveport.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20.—Egbert Rand was President of E. B. Rand & Co., Vice President of the Shreveport Mutual Building Association and head of the Natchitoches Compress Company. He was Chairman of the Finance Committee, and for years closely associated in the parish government.

J. BRADLEY, BUILDER, DEAD

Helped to Dig First Subway Here—Headed Other Big Projects.

James Bradley, for many years a contractor and builder here, died yesterday morning of heart disease at the age of 67. Services will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at his late residence, 316 West 105th Street. He leaves a widow, two daughters and a son.

Mr. Bradley had been associated with his brother, the late William Bradley, in the Bradley Contracting Company, which built part of the city's first subway. Other large construction projects in which Mr. Bradley was interested were the Jerome Park Reservoir, the Pennsylvania Railroad Tunnel under Bergen Hill from the Hudson River to the Hackensack Meadows, the Fourth Avenue Subway, Brooklyn, and the Croton syphons. He also built several large apartment houses. At one time the brothers were regarded as wealthy but the company went into receivership in October, 1918. William Bradley filed a bankruptcy petition in September, 1923, five months before his death, and James Bradley went into bankruptcy last February. Mr. Bradley was a 32d degree Mason, a Knight Templar and a member of the Masonic Club.

SIMEON J. DRAKE IS DEAD.

Former Stock Exchange Member Had Been Ailing Three Years.

Simeon Joseph Drake of 145 East Fifty-second Street, former member of the New York Stock Exchange and at the time of his death a partner in the brokerage firm of Drake Brothers, 66 Broadway, died yesterday at the age of forty-six, after a three years' illness, at Southampton, L. I., where he was spending the Summer. He was a son of the late Simeon J. and Kate Hays Drake. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Mabel Swift and a sister, Mrs. Alice Robinson of Paris.

Mr. Drake resigned his membership in the Stock Exchange about three years ago on account of his failing health. Since then he had not been active in business. He was a member of the Racquet and Tennis Club, Brook Club and the St. Nicholas Society. Services will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in St. Thomas's Chapel, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street.

WESTMINSTER DEAN DIES.

The Right Rev. H. E. Ryle Had Served as Chaplain to the Queen.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Right Rev. Herbert Edward Ryle, Dean of Westminster since 1911, died here today.

Dean Ryle was born in 1856, son of the late Bishop of Liverpool. He was closely identified with Cambridge College as professor and lecturer and held the post of Chaplain to the Queen in 1898-1901. He assisted the Archbishop of Canterbury at the wedding of Princess Mary to Viscount Lascelles. In 1923 he presided over the committee which proposed drastic revision of the Psalter.

SCOUT INSTRUCTOR DIES.

Miss Drabble Infantile Paralysis Victim—Girls' Camp Closed.

KINGSTON, R. I., Aug. 20 (AP).—Miss Dorothy Drabble of Woonsocket, instructor in music and dramatics in the Girl Scout camp at Larkin's Pond, near here, died today from infantile paralysis.

After Miss Drabble was taken ill the 130 girls vacationing there left upon the advice of physicians, and the camp, where Miss Drabble remained, was closed and quarantined by the order of the State Board of Health.

Captain John Upcraft.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP).—Captain John Upcraft, 95 years old, one of the oldest residents of Oswego County, died at Southwest Oswego today. In the early days of the Oswego Canal he was an owner of a line of boats engaged in the forwarding business and later helped construct railroad lines through the north country. He was one of the oldest members of the Grange in this State and helped organize the Patrons of Husbandry in the early '70s.

ZIONISTS PROTEST PALESTINE POLICY

President Weizman Is Blamed by Conservatives for Change of British Commissioner.

FEAR RENEWED VIOLENCE

Anti-Semitic Forces Said to Be Ready to Test Strength Through Saturday's Meeting.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 20.—The first real business meeting of the Zionist Congress today brought a preliminary skirmish between the right and left wings. The main issue of today's debate was the colonization policy of President Weizmann and the Palestine Government. This was denounced by M. Soskin, who demanded intensive cultivation of the Palestine lands through small holders.

The demand implies an attack on Weizmann and the Government policy favoring extensive cultivation by the cooperatives. It initiated an onslaught by the conservative forces on Dr. Weizmann, who, though standing with the Centre himself, is supported mainly by the Left. A speech by a member of the Polish Diet, M. Farbstein, called forth a regular storm, as he denounced Dr. Weizmann "for failing to do his utmost to induce Sir Herbert Samuel to continue in office as High Commissioner of Palestine for the sixth year." The conservative wing, whose main strength comes from the Polish delegation, maintain that the High Commissioner shall always be a Jew and are dissatisfied with the appointment of the British General, Lord Plumer, to the post.

M. Farbstein further attacked President Weizmann for not furthering the educational program demanded by the Orthodox Jews. M. Farbstein's speech was frequently interrupted by the Left Wingers acclaiming the Weizmann report.

With the conflict between conservatives and liberals coming grarually to the fore, it becomes apparent that the balance of power is held by the American delegation, whose joint declaration, delivered this afternoon by President Louis Lipsky of the Zionist Organization of America, brought a climax to the session. President Lipsky declared that American Zionists have full confidence in Dr. Weizmann and support his demand for extension of the Jewish Agency. Speaking of the problem of colonization President Lipsky expressed the disappointment of American Zionists over the attitude of the British Government, conceiving its office as that of the neutral arbitrator between two quarreling parties, meaning the Arabs and the Jews, instead of furthering the creation of the Jewish National Home as pledged.

The American declaration continued: "We feel especially aggrieved that the implication of Article IX of the mandate—that the British Government would aid in the settlement of land by allocating waste or unused lands for that purpose—has not been met."

The American declaration supports the movement for middle-class immigration to Palestine, and adds that this should be furthered without detriment to other plans. President Lipsky also said that the American Zionists regard the project of Jewish colonization in the Crimea as a hostile scheme, but hope the difficulties created thereby may be amicably settled.

Propose $50,000,000 Loan.

VIENNA, Aug. 20 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—A proposal to float an international loan of $50,000,000 to develop Jewish agricultural and industrial colonization in Palestine was submitted to the Zionist Congress today by Dr. Arthur Ruppin, agricultural expert for the Zionist Organization in Palestine, in the course of a report on recent developments there. He expressed the belief that the greater part of the loan would find a ready market in the United States.

Dr. Ruppin proposed that the loan be issued with the support of the League of Nations and under guarantees of Jewish possessions in Palestine and of the large Jewish organizations.

A severe attack on the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, of which Felix M. Warburg and Louis Marshall are the leaders, was made at the Congress by Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress and vice-president of the Fourteenth Zionist Congress. Dr. Wise attacked the forthcoming campaign of the Joint Distribution Committee for $15,000,000 for the purpose of aiding the Jewish back-to-the-land movement in Russia. "There cannot be any competition between a Russian colonization plan and Palestine. The Zionist Congress cannot remain silent on this question. It must tell American Jewry to consider Palestine first because the funds spent in Palestine will be more useful to the Jewish cause than in any other country," Dr. Wise stated.

The decision of the Government to allow the Hakenkreuzler, an anti-Semitic organization, to stage a huge mass meeting on Saturday afternoon has aroused much criticism and comment. The authorities have not been able to prevent demonstrations by the members of this organization for the past several days, and it is feared that Saturday's meeting may lead to serious outbreaks.

When the delegates left their hotels this morning to attend the session of the fourteenth Zionist congress they found on many of the walls placards reading:

"Eighty thousand Jews came to Vienna, while 30,000 Viennese must emigrate to America. The Zionist congress wishes to realize the plan of the Elders of Zion to gain world domination."

Rumors are afloat in Vienna that the Hakenkreuzlers are determined to test their forces and to use the Zionist Congress to sway the masses against the present Government and to bring about a monarchist putsch. The fact that the Reichspost, organ of the Christian Socialists, who are an important part of the present Government majority, has joined the Hakenkreuzler press in denouncing the Government for having permitted the Zionist Congress to be held in Vienna is considered as an indication that the propaganda is assuming serious proportions.

Kellogg Replies to Protest.

Louis N. Jaffe, an attorney at 317 Broadway, associated with the Zionist Organization of America, made public yesterday a letter he said he had received from the office of Secretary of State Kellogg in answer to a telegram of protest to both President Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg, against the reported anti-Semitic outbreaks in Vienna. The letter reads:

"You are informed that the American Minister to Austria understands that he is to report to the department all incidents of this kind. He has already informed the department that the Austrian Government is fully alive to the situation, that people involved in a riot some weeks ago were punished and that the Government has issued a statement through the President of Police, Dr. Schober, that any persons taking part in such disturbances of the peace will be severely punished. The agitation appears to emanate from a very small portion of the population and from a certain number of strangers who apparently have come to Vienna for the purpose of making trouble. The department has no doubt that the Austrian Government is making every effort to prevent serious incidents."

Declare Violence Exaggerated.

The Associated Banks of Vienna have sent to their banking associates in New York their version of the recent rioting in Vienna as follows:

"Correspondents' reports greatly exaggerate street riots on the occasion of the Zionistic Congress. On Aug. 17 a small number of Nationalistic Extremists, reinforced by 'hooligans,' caused some disturbance, but were promptly put down by energetic police measures. Order was fully maintained on Aug. 18, the Congress opened and was cordially welcomed on behalf of the Cabinet by the Minister of Social Affairs. The activities of the Congress are undisturbed, with the work in hand. The meeting is arousing the keenest sympathetic interest here."

PROPHECY OF MANY ILLS AND EVEN WAR IN 1926

Divine Intervention Alone Will Prevent World's Destruction, Says British 'Almanack.'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Old World is in for a hard time next year, not the least of it being the grave danger of another European war and Red revolutions in many countries, according to the gloomy prediction of "Old Moore's Almanack," just issued for all the world to see and read.

In the words of this pessimistic seer, the heavens show that the year 1926 appears destined to test the temper and patience of myriads of human souls.

"Wonderment and amazement will hold you as in a spell when the possibilities of the year 1926 are laid bare," it says, and then agony is piled upon agony with lavish hand when it says:

"License, lawlessness, self-indulgence, rioting, debauchery, improvidence, murder, theft and violence will attend the loosing of the unbridled passions of a perverted and godless generation.

"The sickle is put into reaping and the world generally will become so decimated during the ensuing four years that nothing short of divine intervention will save it from self-destruction."

PLAN TO HONOR FULTON.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—A monument to Robert Fulton, American inventor of the steamboat, will be erected in the little town of Ptombiers, Eastern France, with funds a committee fostering the plan hopes to get through subscriptions in France and the United States. The town chosen for the monument is the place where Fulton conducted tests with a miniature steamboat on the Augronne River in 1802.

Fulton was seeking to get Napoleon interested in his invention and displayed the model to Josephine de Beauharnais and the latter to the First Consul himself, without success.

It has often been told by historians that had Napoleon listened to Fulton he would have been able to build a fleet that could have smashed "the wooden walls of England" and avoided Trafalgar, Waterloo and St. Helena.

TRY PARIS-NEW YORK PLANE

Maimed French Veterans Make First Flight in New Machine.

PARIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—Lieutenants François Soll and Paul Tarasoon, maimed French veterans, have made a successful first trial flight in the airplane in which they plan to attempt a non-stop flight from Paris to New York this Summer. The test was made with a reduced load at Villacoublay Field.

Their machine is of the same model as that used by Captain Arrachart and his mechanician Carol in their recent three-day aerial tour of Europe, except for the slight diference that the lower wings are a little modified and the body is broader.

The machine intended for the transatlantic attempt contains gasoline tanks of large capacity. The engine is of 420-horse power, has nine cylinders and is air cooled. The plane contains places for two men and has duplicate controls.

Ancient Offender Makes 116th Appearance in London Court.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Another world's record was probably established today, when George Padmore, 71 years old, made his 116th appearance in a police court for being drunk and disorderly.

"This seems like a hopeless case," said Alderman Knill, addressing the offender, "Look here, Padmore, is it too late in life for you to reform?"

"Certainly not," promptly replied Padmore, and when Alderman Knill remarked that the day after he was released from prison, each time he was back in court again, Padmore interjected with some heat, "Not the next day, your Worship; sometimes I go several days before the police pounce on me." The Magistrate gave him another chance.

FLIES 300 MILES IN 3 HOURS.

New Loehning Amphibian Plane Makes Quick Trip to Langley Field

Piloted by Lieutenant George C. McDonald of the Langley Field (Va.) station of the Army Air Service, a Loening Amphibian was flown yesterday from the East River to Longlay Field, a distance of a little more than 300 miles in three hours.

The amphibian is one of the group of twelve planes recently ordered by the Army Air Service for use at flying fields, on the water and in the island possessions. It is the same type of machine as that now being used by the Navy Department on MacMillan's Arctic expedition. The planes were turned over to the Army Air Service and lent by them to the navy for use on the expedition.

These planes were designed by Grover C. Loening, who accompanied Lieutenant McDonald on his flight.

Stores Close When Governor Signs Sales Tax Measure.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 20 (AP).—Practically all retail stores, except the drug and grocery stores, were closed throughout Porto Rico today in protest against a 2 per cent. sales tax passed by the Legislature which closed its session yesterday. Governor Towner signed the bill today.

The merchants had hoped the Governor would not sign, but have continued their protest in spite of his action. They propose to hold a parade tomorrow, in which black flags will be carried.

The Wanamaker Budget Service helps you budget, whether you buy furniture or not; whether you buy ANYTHING or not. Read this letter and see how it works:

DEAR DIRECTOR:

"This note is just to thank you for the help you gave me at the beginning of the year in arranging a budget.

"My income was pretty small then, and I greatly appreciated your taking so much trouble in budgeting it for me, especially as there was nothing in the budget for furniture.

"Since you helped me, my income has more than doubled. However, we are staying practically to the plan you laid out for the smaller sum.

"And because of your kind cooperation we have bought many things such as dinnerware, clothes and drapes at Wanamaker's. Your service seems to me to form a very strong, though intangible, bond between store and prospective customer.

"I hope you go on helping people who, like myself, think highly of budgets, but do not do anything about them until they meet some one like you or a service like yours."

DEBATE OUR POLICY ON FOREIGN LOANS

A. N. Young and J. W. Jenks Uphold the Course Pursued by President Coolidge.

A. S. JOHNSON DISAGREES

Editor Urges Before the Politics Institute a World Economic Organization.

CORFU INCIDENT UP AGAIN

Maurice Denies Lord Robert Cecil at League Meeting Threatened Italy With a Blockade.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 20.—The question whether the United States should continue its present policy with respect to foreign loans and investments or should join an international organization for the development of backward countries and for making foreign loans was the subject of a debate on "Economic Imperialism" at the open conference on the foreign policy of the United States at the Institute of Politics today.

Dr. Arthur N. Young, economic adviser of the Department of State, and Dr. Jeremiah W. Jenks, Research Professor of Government and Public Administration at New York University, defended the policy of the Coolidge Administration, while Dr. Alvin S. Johnson, editor of The New Republic, argued on behalf of international action.

It is understood that Dr. Jenks was summoned here as an "added starter" by Dr. George H. Blakeslee of New York University, the conference leader, because of the protest made last week by Rear Admiral Harry M. P. Huse, retired, that the strictly American viewpoint had not received as much emphasis as the international viewpoint in the institute discussions of our foreign policy.

Dr. Young, the first speaker, conceded at the outset that the United States could not isolate itself economically from the other peoples or ignore the problems of economic world interdependence.

Outlining the Department of State policy with regard to economic problems arising from American trade and investment abroad, and denying that its policy was one of economic imperialism, Dr. Young said:

"One of the most fundamental of the American policies in relation to trade and investment abroad is the well-known policy of the 'open door.'

Opposes a Policy of Paternalism.

"It is one thing for the Government to endeavor to open the door, if it is not already open, and to try to keep it open; it is another thing to push American interests through that door. The department endeavors to provide the opportunity, 'a fair field and no favor.' It is for American interests to decide whether, with the opportunity before them, they wish to avail themselves of it.

"Much has been said on the subject of so-called economic or financial imperialism. Without endeavoring to define these terms, which have often been loosely used, it is clear that there is a wide distinction between the policy of endeavoring to open or keep open the door of opportunity, and the policy of sponsoring private interests, of urging them to enter into particular countries to engage in particular enterprises, and of seeking to negotiate for them the arrangements under which they shall carry on their undertakings.

"The Department of State is not paternalistic. American business men and investors have before them the domestic and the foreign field. If they choose the foreign field in whole or in part it is because they consider it more advantageous. The point I wish to emphasize is that it is for them to decide whether to engage in the foreign field, and if so where and how.

"It cannot, therefore, be said that the United States Government pursues a policy of economic or financial imperialism, when the foreign trade and investment of American citizens are voluntary and are not a means whereby the Government seeks to exploit or extend control over other nations.

"Many foreign countries desiring foreign capital are particularly desirous that such capital come from the United States, because they realize that American business enterprise abroad is not a cloak for political intrigue. They know that what the Government of the United States seeks is fair opportunity, fair treatment and due regard for valid and just rights acquired in good faith.

Says Government Is Impartial.

"Where American interests abroad are seeking to enter into contracts, the Department of State, when the proposal in question is fair and reasonable and if the circumstances warrant, may be in a position to instruct its representatives to give proper assistance, but, of course, is not a party to the negotiations. It should be emphasized that the department is entirely impartial as between responsible American interests that may be in competition. This is, of course, a logical and necessary requirement of a democratic Government in its conduct of foreign affairs. There is no favoritism to the rich or strong, nor to any particular interest.

"The Department of State aims to assist and promote legitimate American enterprise abroad not by seeking for it special and exclusive privileges, but by seeking equality of opportunity; not by discriminating for the sake of discriminating, but rather reserving discrimination for defense against unequal treatment; not by urging particular American business men to engage in particular enterprises or marking out the exact channels in which they shall go, but by seeking to create conditions in which legitimate American enterprises can be carried on; not by sponsoring them or assuming governmental responsibilities for their acts, but by having confidence that what the American business man primarily needs abroad is a fair chance."

Johnson Hits "Indirect Control."

Dr. Johnson said he dissented from the Government's policy, which he characterized as extending our own domestic system of "a fair field and no favor" into the foreign field. Pointing out that American investments abroad are now about $10,000,000,000 and increasing at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year, he predicted that they will increase $25,000,000,000 or $30,000,000,000 by 1935, and $50,000,000,000 by 1950.

"When we have $50,000,000,000 invested abroad, exposed to the weather," he said, "we are going to think more about foreign affairs than when we had our money invested at home."

With respect to loans by private American bankers to foreign Governments, Dr. Johnson criticized the "indirect control" exercised by the State Department over these loans. Asserting that this control was based on the solvency of the borrowing country, he said that it was condemned by the argument that if loans were denied to militaristic nations as a bad risk, they also ought logically to be denied to nations threatened with war and not sufffficiently armed.

Dr. Johnson predicted that within five or ten years an attempt will be made to fund the German reparations debt by private international bankers. An operation of this kind, involving perhaps $10,000,000,000, he said, would be too colossal to handle except by collective action of the United States and the other money lending nations. He cited the international loan for Germany under the Dawes plan as a precedent, saying that the Dawes plan was "working for peace," and urged that the same sort of international organization be adopted in funding the reparation debt.

Without some sort of international organization, he said, America will be unable to carry out her enormous world trade and finance of the future without getting into trouble.

"So far as contiguous borrowing States are concerned," he went on, "we might be able to protect our interests in the old-fashioned way of threats of force and more or less disguised economic imperialism, but the current flow of investments is setting away from States subject to imperialistic control.

"It is time for America to recognize economic internationalism as a fact, and to join formally or informally with the other nations in working out politically institutions under which international economic interests may be secure."

Jenks Says America Cooperates.

Taking issue with many of Dr. Johnson's statements, Dr. Jenks declared there was no such thing as economic imperialism in the policy of the United States Government or international bankers. He said that charges of American imperialism by backward countries in South America which borrow money in this country should be taken with a grain of salt, as the charges were usually made in the opposition press of those countries for internal political purposes. Dr. Jenks asserted that the word "isolation" was a misnomer in describing American policy. While this country was following a policy of "non-interfering political cooperation," he went on, it was ready to cooperate fully in all economic questions.

Denying any economic imperialism in our attitude towards Europe, he continued:

"Was it imperialism when we offered every support necessary to help Great Britain return to her gold standard? Was it imperialism to try to help Germany, France and Italy to their feet? Remember that a rich customer is a better customer than a poor one. The policy of our Government in giving financial assistance without political interference is a sound one and is a guarantee of world peace."

Dr. Jenks urged that there should be no change in the present system of allowing American business to be conducted by business men, without undue interference by the Government, because, he said, there would be less friction abroad.

Maurice Differs With Cippico.

Major General Sir Frederick Maurice of London took issue with a statement made by Count Antonio Cippico, Italian spokesman at the institute, in last night's lecture, when Count Cippico charged that a delegate to the League of Nations had threatened Italy with blockade over the Corfu incident. General Maurice said that Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain was the delegate referred to by Count Cippico, and denied that Lord Robert had threatened Italy with war.

"What actually happened," said General Maurice, "was that at the meeting of the Council, Signor Salandra, representative of Italy, was disposed to question the competence of the Council to deal with the dispute between Italy and Greece, and Lord Robert, who was acting as the official British representative on the Council, then asked that the articles of the Covenant of the League of Nations bearing upon the action to be taken in the case of threat of a rupture between nations should be read to the Council. Those clauses were read, and, of course, there was included in those clauses Article XVI of the Covenant, which deals with what are known as the Economic Sanctions, which imply but do not say a blockade. This is the only possible suggestion of a threat which occurred.

"The Covenant was a document which was signed by Italy as well as Great Britain. Lord Robert Cecil in having those read was merely reminding Signor Salandra as to what the obligations of the members of the League were in relation to the particular matter under consideration at that time."

Robert Masson, French banker, in his final lecture at the institute tonight said that "there can be no question of a repudiation of debts by France."

Arguing for lenient terms for France in the settlement, he went on:

"I, for one, prefer to look on you not as bank customers, but as friends who helped a friend by lending him the money he needed, in order to avert a terrible catastrophe that threatened him. It is a sacred debt. It is not one that a friend enforces at any time, irrespective of circumstances.

"I have no authority to speak for my country and hold no brief, but I believe I can say that there is a general and earnest wish to see the question settled on a fair basis in the nearest future."

Oser Baby in $7,500,000 Suit Wins Point Over Grandmother

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 20.—Anita Oser, the year-old daughter of Mathilde McCormick Oser, of Berne, Switzerland, won a victory today over her grandmother, Edith Rockefeller McCormick, in a suit in the Federal Court in which the baby is claimed to be presumptive heir to $7,500,000.

Judge Robert C. Baltzell overruled motions filed by the grandmother and the Equitable Trust Company of New York, trustees of the fortune, contesting the court's jurisdiction.

The suit was brought for Anita Oser by Harold F. McCormick, her grandfather, as her "next friend," to prevent the trust company from allocating the $7,500,000 to the baby's grandmother as income derived from 12,000 shares of stock of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, set aside as a trust fund in 1917 by John D. Rockefeller.

BUYS DELBARTON ESTATE.

St. Benedict's College of Newark Gets Home of Luther Kountze.

It was announced at Newark, N. J., yesterday that an agreement had been reached whereby St. Benedict's College of Newark would purchase the Delbarton Estate of 400 acres, which is located between Morristown and Mendham, N. J. The estate was formerly the home of the late Luther Kountze of New York.

After alterations have been made the priests of the Benedictine Order will conduct a boarding college on the estate. They will take possession in September. The price was not announced but it is believed to be about $200,000.

SOVIET FORECASTS BIG ECONOMIC GAIN

Budget Estimates Put Production Next Year at Near the Level of 1913.

EXPORTS ARE ABOUT HALF

Budget Balance Calls for 3,560,000,000 Gold Rubles—Circulation to Rise to 2,000,000,000 Rubles.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 20.—The economic progress of the Soviet Union shown by the program of the State Planning Commitee (called the Gosplan) for the coming fiscal year which begins Oct. 1 leads Economic Life to state editorially: "It can now be said we have successfully emerged from the reconstruction period." The Gosplan, which is a sort of universal budget commission, is perhaps the most important factor in the economic life of the Soviet Union. While having no direct executive power it coordinates and lays down directives for the whole year in industry, commerce, finance and agriculture.

The program, or report, just approved by a full session of the Gosplan Administration begins by admitting frankly that its statistics cannot yet be absolutely accurate and that in particular there has been great difficulty in achieving an index coefficient of prices between prewar and present times.

On the other hand, it is to be remembered the report is not primarily intended for foreign consumption but as a basis of national economy for 1926, and therefore has every reason to be as nearly accurate as can be made.

For purposes of comparison the report takes the production, &c., of the coming year, this year and 1913, when, by the way, Russia had an exceptionally large crop. Incidentally it is not stated but can be taken for granted that when comparing with 1913 there have been deducted products of countries like Poland, Finland and the Baltic States, now no longer part of the Soviet Union.

To give figures—reckoned in pre-war rubles, that is, at the pre-war index coefficient:

The total agricultural production, including timber, cattle, fish, is 9,150,000,000 this year, 11,436,000,000 next year and 12,826,000,000 in 1913. The coming year is 89 per cent. of 1913.

Industrial production is 5,000,000,000 this year, 6,650,000,000 the coming year and 7,000,000,000 in 1913. The coming year is 95 per cent. of 1913.

Exports to Europe and the Near East only are 270,000,000 this year, 680,000,000 the coming year, 1,305,000,000 in 1913, or just over 50 per cent.

Imports are 339,000,000 this year, 518,000,000 the coming year and 1,000,000,000 in 1913—about 50 per cent. The number of industrial workers is planned to rise from 85 per cent. of pre-war this year to 98 per cent. the coming year. The average monthly pay is to increase from 41.5 Soviet gold rubles this year to 48 the coming year. This is calculated to represent about 80 per cent. of pre-war, though any accurate figure is extremely hard to reach.

The general economic expenditure for the coming year is fixed at 880,000,000 Soviet rubles gold for industry, 236,000,000 for transportation, 365,000,000 for building, 301,000,000 for agriculture, or a total of 1,782,000,000 which is to be met by 40 per cent. from resources of each branch and 59 per cent. by the State budget and credits of 1 per cent. from the emergency fund.

The budget will total 3,460,000,000 Soviet rubles gold, which will be entirely balanced from Soviet Union sources.

Finally, it is stated the total amount of money in circulation will reach 2,000,000,000 Soviet rubles gold at the end of the coming year, as compared with 1,157,000,000 at the end of this year and 2,076,000,000 at the end of 1913.

These figures form the basis of the budget to be presented by the Treasury Department before Oct. 1. It is understood there will be minor variations, but experience of the past three years has shown the Gosplan estimates are strictly adhered to.

TROTSKY TO DIRECT FINANCE

Is Named Chief of Economic Council After Soviet Probation.

WARSAW, Aug. 20 (AP).—Advices from Moscow report the return to power of Leon Trotsky, with the appointemnt of the former War Minister as Chief of the Economic Council.

His restoration to a position of influence had been expected in Polish circles, where it was considered that his strength and popularity were too great to permit of keeping him long under probation because of the possibility of his becoming the head of some anti-Soviet movement.

His new post, it is believed here, will direct his energy and ability to the task of improving Russia's economic condition without directly increasing his political influence to any great extent.

Trotsky returned to Moscow last May, after virtual exile in the Causasus because of his insurgency against the dictates of strict Bolshevism. A minor post in the Government was assigned to him for what was termed a period of probation. The dispatch from Warsaw indicates that this period has ended and that the former Red army leader again is to have a directing voice in at least one branch of the Soviet Government.

SEEKS TO REGAIN CHILD.

Pharmacist Says Dead Wife's Parents Won't Give Up Daughter.

Max P. Gordon, owner of a pharmacy at Eighty-third Street and Broadway, started proceedings in the Supreme Court yesterday for the custody of his five-year-old daughter. Evelyn Maxine Gordon, who has been in the care of her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Reisberg, since her mother died on July 7, 1921. Mr. Gordon said he gave his infant daughter to her grandparents to be cared for after the death of his wife, and that they have since refused to return the child to him, although an application made by them in the Surrogate Court in 1923 for permission to adopt the child was denied.

Mr. Gordon said that he has remarried, and that he and his wife, Mrs. Pauline Gordon, live in the Hotel Lucerne, and are amply able to care for his daughter, whereas the child's grandparents are not well-to-do.

Mother of Anthony Pantano Dies.

Mrs. Louisa Pantano, 67 years old, of 8,788 Twenty-second Avenue, Brooklyn, mother of Anthony Pantano, who is in the death house at Sing Sing awaiting execution for the murder of two Brooklyn bank messengers, died yesterday after a long illness, which was aggravated by her son's sentence. Friends of the family said she began to fail rapidly after her son was denied a stay of execution by the Supreme Court last week on the confession of John Farina, who has been executed, that he and Morris and Joseph Diamond forced Pantano at the point of a pistol to tell them when the messengers of the bank, where he was formerly an employe, would carry money.

Rotarians Strike Back at Sinclair Lewis; "Off His Trolley," Says Officer Over Radio

The Rotarians struck back yesterday at Sinclair Lewis, author of "Babbitt." Charles E. Keck, President of the New York Rotary Club, addressed a radio audience from Station WFBH, on the Hotel Majestic. He characterized Lewis as "a writer," who, having written two or three books that resemble some sort of movie picture without a plot, thinks he knows everything in the world."

The purpose of his radio speech, Mr. Keck declared, was to counteract a popular misunderstanding of Rotary, which, he said, had been spread abroad by Mr. Lewis, H. L. Mencken of The American Mercury, and some other writers "who don't take into account the actual facts, but who are so darned clever that they can settle any question they are of a mind to off-hand."

"I'm going to take a fall out of Sinclair Lewis," he went on. "He's due for it. If he were a big enough man to tell the story straight, it would be all right. But he fixes up a little city of Zenith, or whatever you call it, and has a little Rotary Club, and tells everybody that a Rotary Club is a bunch of great, big, bumptious small-town boosters.

"Of course there is in every Rotary Club a spirit of good fellowship and a lively interest in any proposition that is for the common good. But that is distinctly not the basis of Rotary. The basis is the need of something to bring business men in a big city together in a way that no other organization can, to enable them to work for the good of the community."

Rotarians were not annoyed by Sinclair Lewis, Mr. Keck asserted. They merely laughed at him, he declared. "Lewis is just a little bit off his trolley," he concluded.

Commemorating the sixty-seventh anniversary of the completion of the first transatlantic cable by Cyrus W. Field, Rotarians lunching at the McAlpin received messages yesterday from affiliated clubs in seven foreign cities by direct wire through 195 Broadway. The communications were flashed in the form of a wavy line moving rapidly across a screen, and were interpreted by Harry J. Forbes, divisional cable agent of the Western Union.

FINED FOR KISSING GIRL HUNTING A JOB

WAS EXONERATED ONCE

Plaintiff's Mother Applied to Hylan and Case Was Reopened—Defense Calls It Double Jeopardy.

Although he had been exonerated on the same charge on Aug. 12, Charles Wix, 33 years old, of 16 Crawford Street, Forest Hills, Queens, was found guilty yesterday of disorderly conduct on the complaint of Miss Myrtle Diamond, 16 years old, of 123 East 112th Street. Wix paid a fine of $50.

Wix, who has a wife and two children, is the secretary of a printer's ink supply firm at 45 Vesey Street. The girl charged that on Aug. 10, when she answered his advertisement for a typist, Wix insulted her. Accompanied by her mother, Miss Diamond obtained a summons for his appearance in the Tombs Court, two days after the offense, from Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman.

The young woman testified at that time that Wix kissed her against her protest, and that she rushed to a washstand in another room and "washed off the kiss." Wix admitted at that hearing that he had given the girl $5 in compensation for her services in giving a test of her skill as a typist, but he denied he had kissed her.

Magistrate Goodman dismissed the charge against Wix, however, on the ground that the evidence of the girl, unsupported by corroboration, was insufficient. Mrs. Diamond, escorted by the girl's uncle, then hurried to Mayor Hylan's office with Miss Diamond and protested against the Magistrate's decision. She was advised to return to the District Attorney's office and explain the case there.

Following a conference with Assistant William McKenna the girl obtained another summons for Wix last week from Magistrate Goodman, charging simple assault in the third degree. The summons was returnable last Monday, but Wix did not appear. When the case came up before Magistrate Edward Weil yesterday the prosecutor asked that a disorderly conduct charge be substituted for the original charge, and the Court acquiesced.

The accused man was represented at yesterday's proceeding by Hyman Bushel who, after entering a plea of not guilty and listening to the testimony of Miss Diamond and her mother, asked that the complaint be dismissed on the ground that his client was being placed in double jeopardy for the same offense and declared that, since Wix had been discharged by Magistrate Goodman, his constitutional rights were being invaded.

In finding Wax guilty, however, Magistrate Weil said: "This is the most despicable piece of conduct by a business man that ever has come to my attention. Young girls applying for jobs must be protected. Wix, in view of the fact that you are a married man with a wife and two children, I will spare you a prison sentence. I'll fine you $50, in default of payment of which you shall be confined to jail for ten days."

Wix immediately paid the fine, but as he was leaving court his lawyer announced that he would file an appeal to the higher court from the conviction on the ground he had stated to Magistrate Weil.

MADRID, Aug. 20.—Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the United States Department of Commerce, arrived here today for the purpose of studying methods looking to a better organization of the American commercial attachés in Europe.

Dr. Klein also is going to Seville to start plans for American participation in the Hispano-American World Fair in 1927, for which Congress is expected to appropriate $750,000.

Darrow Only Considering Debate.

GREELEY, Col., Aug. 20 (AP).—Denial that he had accepted a challenge to debate the evolution question with the Rev. John Roach Straton, in Chicago, was made today by Clarence Darrow, defense counsel in the Scopes trial. "I will not make a definite decision until after I return to Chicago," he said.

REPORT CONFESSION OF JAIL POISONING

Miami (Fla.) Officers Say Gobel Admitted Giving Fatal Potion to Mrs. Hunt.

AND HE IS HELD FOR MURDER

After Coroner's Jury Acts, Prosecutor Tells of $500 Bribe Offer by Accused Man.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 20 (AP).—John Gobel, a wealthy Florida real estate operator, was held tonight under charges of administering poison to Mrs. H. D. Hunt, who died yesterday. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict accusing Gobel of the crime after Deputy Sheriff H. C. Latham had testified that the realtor had confessed administering the poison.

Gobel visited Mrs. Hunt Tuesday night at the jail where she was being detained on charges of theft of a ring preferred by him. While they were together Mrs. Hunt ran from the cell, asserting Gobel had forced her to drink poison. She became violently ill and was removed to a hospital.

After naming the poison which killed the woman the verdict of the coroner's jury read:

"We further say upon our oaths that said poison was given her either forcibly or by inducement at the hands of one John Gobel, and we therefore commend that said John Gobel be held to await action of the Grand Jury."

County Solicitor Robert Taylor testified that while examining Gobel, the latter offered him a $500 bribe to "fix things up."

Gobel, he said, denied giving Mrs. Hunt poison, but admitted he had been on friendly terms with her previous to her arrest.

Deputy Sheriff L. A. Short also said Gobel had offered him a bribe. The deputy obtained a blank note, he said, and the wealthy real estate man, who came here from Daytona, Fla., filled it in for $700.

Two other men, Frank Gobel, brother of John, and W. S. Henley, are being held on suspicion. They were found back of the jail soon after the incident and tried to escape, but were captured by the jailer. All three men had registered at the same hotel.

An autopsy yesterday disclosed evidence that a powerful corrosive poison caused Mrs. Hunt's death.

Mrs. Hunt, who was 30 years old, came to Florida as a nurse, her sister, Mrs. Alice White of Lexington, Ky., said. She has been married three times, the first time at the age of 16, and has divorced all her husbands.

Gobel is said to have come here several years ago from the West, and to have made a fortune in real estate. He is married and has children, reports say.

BROADCASTS ATTACK ON GREAT BRITAIN

Queensland Statement From Unidentified Source Says Arms Treaty Is Ignored.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 20.—What may rank as the greatest diplomatic indiscretion yet committed by use of wireless transmission was a bitter attack upon the British Government broadcast yesterday to all parts of the world from a high-powered official Government wireless station of Queensland, one of the Australian States.

The attack charges, among other things, that the Washington Arms Treaty has not been put into effect by the signatories and that the present attitude of the British Government would soon nullify it entirely. This amazing onslaught caused considerable comment in official quarters in London and prompted an immediate inquiry in Australia.

"The Conservative British Government," the wireless attack continued, "is determined to play a lone hand in the Far East, and it is evident that the British Government has decided to resort to arms to uphold the British financial interests in the Orient, all available troops and warships being rapidly mobilized."

Live Wire Kills a Lineman.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 20.—John C. Smith, 35 years old, of 441 Joline Avenue, a lineman, was shocked to death when his body came in contact with an electric wire at the plant of the Jersey Central Power and Light Company. He was working on a pole and fell thirty feet. He died as he was being taken to the Monmouth Memorial Hospital.

TAX RULING HITS STOCK EXCHANGES

Treasury Announces They Are Not Within the Exemption Granted Business Leagues.

SUBJECT UNDER TWO ACTS

Revenue Board Refuses to Guess What the Outcome of New Interpretation Will Be.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Two important decisions announced by the Treasury today may affect stock exchanges throughout the country to a great extent by laying heavy taxes against them, according to officials of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. A statement issued from the bureau said:

"Two Treasury decisions (3745 and 3746) were issued today with reference to the capital stock tax and income tax as related to stock exchanges. The decisions amend Regulations 64 (the capital stock tax regulations) and Regulations 65 (the income tax regulations) by adding to each the following:

"'A stock exchange is not a business league, chamber of commerce or board of trade within the meaning of the law and is not exempt from tax.'

"The Treasury decisions are based on an opinion of the Attorney General that stock exchanges and their subsidiaries are not 'business leagues,' 'chambers of commerce,' or 'boards of trade' within the contemplation of Section 231 (7) of the Revenue act of 1921 and similar provisions of the acts of 1916 and 1918, granting exemption to organizations of those general classes, and that such exchanges and their subsidiaries are therefore subject to both income and capital stock taxes under each one of these acts.

"The conclusion reached by the Attorney General has a direct bearing upon the taxability of stock exchanges and also of produce and similar exchanges throughout the country."

The capital stock tax is $1 per $1,000 on everything in excess of $5,000 fair valuation, but officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau would not hazard guesses whether additional taxes would be laid against the exchanges under the decision or if such additional taxes were levied what the approximate sum would reach.

BROOKLYN SOLDIER DIVORCED IN PARIS

Decree Ends War Romance of Lieut. Col. Stehlen and Daughter of Gen. Ewart of British Army.

PARIS, Aug. 20 (AP).—The end of a romance has come with the award by the Paris courts of a divorce to Mrs. Joseph Stehlen, wife of Lieut. Col. Stehlen, a Brooklyn soldier of fortunt, who has fought in many armies and met the woman who was to be his bride in a hospital in France, where he lay wounded.

At the outbreak of the World War, Stehlen served with the French Army. With the entry of the United States, he enlisted in the aviation forces. After the armistice, he joined the Polish Army, and subsequently was an officer in the Lettish Army.

Mrs. Stehlen was formerly Miss Carmine Ewart, the granddaughter of General Ewart of the British Army. The couple were married in Pau, France, March 30, 1921.

The divorce was granted on grounds of brutality, the charge being made that Stehlen had forced his wife to leave her home and live in a hotel.

BANK CLERKS TIE UP MARSEILLES BY STRIKE

All Unions in the City Quit Work for Twenty-four Hours to Support Their Demands.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The strike of bank clerks which has been going on for several weeks assumed a more serious character today in the declaration of a twenty-four-hour general strike at the city of Marseilles. The action taken by the trade unions at Marseilles in support of the bank clerks necessarily creates a feeling of nervousness at Paris and other large cities, it being quite generally feared labor might decide to adopt the Marseilles tactics as a method of procedure for the whole country unless the bank clerks are satisfied.

At Marseilles the twenty-four-hour general strike which went into effect this morning practically caused a complete shut down of industry. French and foreign banks had to close their doors and employes in every field of industry stayed away from work. Transportation systems of the city were completely at a standstill, not an autobus, tram or taxi moving out of its depot during the day. Truck and camion drivers struck also, and all day long practically nothing moved over the streets of Marseilles but an occasional funeral procession, drivers of funeral coaches being excepted from the obligation to strike. Firemen and employes of the gas and electricity companies also exempted themselves from the strike, having decided their absention would work too much harm to the city. Not a letter, however, was delivered during the day, the postal employes obeying the strike order en masse.

Never in its history has Marseilles known a day when it could be called a dead city. But today no other name would suit it. Musicians being on strike, most of the cinemas had to close, and owing to lack of waiters many cafés had to do likewise.

Some banks have given in to the clerks, but the strike on the whole is still widespread. Clerks receiving from 500 to 600 francs a month, on which many of them must support families, demand an increase of 100 francs.

PICKS FLIERS TO HAWAII.

Boeing plane, Lieut. Commander J. H. Strong, Chief Pilot; Lieutenant R. E. Davidson, Assistant Pilot; Lieutenant Rice Botta, Squadron Engineer Officer; E. D. Thornton Chief Radio Man; L. C. Sullivan, Aviation Pilot.

Obey 100-Year-Old Request Not to Let Church Be Dark

One hundred years ago when Thomas Leggett, a Quaker, built the community meeting house which is now the Methodist Episcopal Church of Whitestone, L. I., he asked the church folk of the town never to permit the building to be dark on Sunday nights. Throughout the century, as each denomination used the structure, building one of their own when they had the means, the request of Thomas Leggett has been observed, and now the present congregation plans to observe it, although their minister, the Rev. Henry D. Trinhaus, is away on a month's vacation.

The Whitestone Methodists will hold Sunday night services led by lay members of the church. Henry Gregory has been appointed to preach next Sunday night. A Mr. Marsden of Philadelphia will preach on the Sunday evening following. Some one is yet to be chosen to preach on the third Sunday, and then on the fourth Sunday Mr. Trinhaus is expected to return to his pulpit.

COURT DENOUNCES HARRIS'S 'MY LIFE'

Book Is "Neither Literature Nor Art," Says Justice Levy, Upholding Police Seizure.

DENIES WRIT TO PRINTERS

Copies Will Be Used as Evidence Against Men From Whom They Were Taken.

Supreme Court Justice Levy, who in several recent cases has criticized the police in connection with raids on alleged social clubs and has granted injunctions restraining them from interfering with such clubs, praised the police yesterday in refusing an injunction applied for by the Up-to-Date Printing Company to restrain the police and the District Attorney from using copies of Frank Harris's book "My Life," seized in the printing establishment of the plaintiff, as evidence in proceedings pending in the Magistrates' Court in which the printers are charged with having indecent books in their possession.

Justice Levy heard the case a month ago and at that time denied the injunction and also an application to suppress any evidence the authorities may have obtained when they raided the printing company's place without a warrant. At that time he based his ruling on a recent decision of the Appellate Division, in which the Court held that the police were justified in seizing a blackjack without having legal authority to do so and using it as evidence against the person who had it. Counsel for the printing company asked for a reargument on the ground that the cases were not similar, because a blackjack is contraband and books are not until they have been declared legally to be improper.

The decision yesterday reaffirmed Justice Levy's previous ruling and set forth that he was convinced that the decision of the Appellate Division did apply. He said that "as a matter of conscience" he had obtained a copy of the book to satisfy himself concerning its nature and "found it necessary to read but a few passages to arrive at the inevitable conclusion that it is neither literature nor art." Justice Levy's opinion continued:

"It is not only obviously and unquestionably obscene, lewd, lascivious and indecent, but it is filthy, disgusting and utterly revolting. I purposely refrain from naming it, as I am averse to enhancing its sale even if its circulation be accomplished clandestinely. To return the books, therefore, to the publishers and to suppress the evidence would be a twofold wrong, not alone in leaving a very grievous criminal offense unredressed, but what is of far greater and more vital public importance, in allowing the wrongdoers to dispose of their vile and vicious wares and scatter corruption and perversity before the law could effectively intervene.

"The police in this instance do not merit the criticism and censure leveled at them. Quite to the contrary, they are to be commended for what the Court regards as a wholesome and proper vigilance leading to the detection of these culprits and the suppression of the rot wickedly and wantonly sought to be disseminated."

Magistrate Edward Weil in the Tombs Court announced yesterday that he would hold a hearing in Essex Market Court on Aug. 28 on the complaint of Charles S. Sumner, Superintendent of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, against Jacob Sidowsky and Harry J. Lebovit, employes of the Craftsman Bindery Corporation, 81 Reade Street, that they participated in the printing of an alleged obscene book, the second volume of "My Life."

On Aug. 18 Sumner and a detective raided the bindery on a search warrant and seized 680 copies of the book. Sidowsky and Lebovit were in the place at the time and although it was admitted that they in no way collaborated in writing the book they were arrested. A large array of counsel had appeared before Magistrate Weil yesterday when he postponed the hearing.

STINNES PUTS OFF AGA BID OF $200,000

Will Consider It if He Cannot Raise Amount He Needs, He Cables Dr. Fasola.

Edmund Stinnes, who is endeavoring to save the Aga Motor Company from the hands of creditors, cabled yesterday to Dr. Ferdinand B. Fasola of Weehawken, N. J., expressing thanks for the offer of $200,000 for 51 per cent. of the capital stock of the company, but adding that he "hoped to get aid from other sources." Fasola is said to represent an unnamed client, described as an Italian industrial magnate, who desires to acquire the Aga works. Incidentally, engineers who have examined the German automobile properties owned by Edmund Stinnes place the valuation at upward of $5,000,000.

The cablegram received yesterday was as follows:

"I acknowledge with thanks the cablegram offering $200,000 for the Aga Works. The amount is insufficient. I hope to get the full amount necessary from other sources. If not I will be more than willing to consider the offer. Once more, thanks and greetings.

"EDMUND STINNES."

There was no light thrown yesterday on the identity of the Italian industrial financier for whom Dr. Fasola said he was acting. The financier is said by Dr. Fasola to have come to America to carry on the negotiations and desired to shield his identity for business reasons. Dr. Fasola left last night for Atlantic City to confer with his principal and said that he anticipated a definite acceptance or refusal of his offer by Saturday.

COAL REGION MOVES TO AVERT A STRIKE

Leaders in Anthracite Territory Seek Means to Renew Wage Parleys.

'HANDS OFF,' LEWIS ADVISES

Miners' Union President Warns Mass Meeting Against "Ill-Advised Action."

SAYS STRIKE IS CERTAIN

Workers Will Quit Sept. 1 Unless Operators Accede to Demands, He Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 20.—Business interests in the anthracite field, aroused by a threatened strike on Sept. 1 and the possible loss of a large part of the hard coal market, met here today and named a committee of sixteen men from the three districts of the anthracite field, who started work at once on a plan to bring miners and operators together and break the existing deadlock.

Civic clubs, fraternal orders and business men's associations sent delegates to the meeting from Scranton, Carbondale, Pittston, Exeter, Hazleton, Plymouth, Luzerne, Tamaqua, Mauch Chunk, Shenandoah, Mount Carmel, Allentown and Punxsutawney. More than 100 men were present. John H. Uhl of this city presided.

While the general plan of the Committee of Sixteen has not been divulged, it is understood that an immediate effort will be made to hold a conference with District Presidents Cappellini, Matey and Golden of Districts 1, 7 and 9 of the United Mine Workers of America. Following this meeting it is planned to hold separate conferences with John L. Lewis and the anthracite operators, the hope being that negotiations will be reopened and the mines continued in operation.

It was made plain at the meeting that the business interests of the anthracite region are not partisan. Not a thing was said for or against the miners or the operators. The keynote of the session was that the interests of the public are above those of either side of the hard coal controversy.

William N. Reynolds Jr., a lawyer of this city, made the opening address and pointed out that the real purpose of the meeting was to bring both sides together and keep the mines open. He declared that substitutes for anthracite were threatening a great industry and that if a strike comes the hard coal industry was certain to lose much of its market and bring about poor times.

"Hands Off," Lewis Advises.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20 (AP).—John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers, in a telegram to the Chairman of the Wilkes-Barre mass meeting today advised the business interests of the anthracite region to "keep their hands off the situation."

"The business interests of the anthracite region," said the telegram, "can best help in this matter by not confusing the situation through any ill-advised action."

Mr. Lewis, who has been holding conferences here for several days with Philip Murray, International Vice President of the miners' union, and Thomas Kennedy, Secretary-Treasurer, reiterated his statement that the miners would quit work Sept. 1 unless a new wage agreement is signed.

"Unless the anthracite operators agree to the wage increase demands of the miners and the adoption of the check-off," he said, "a suspension of mining in the hard coal region Sept. 1 is inevitable."

Sees Higher Coal Prices.

William W. Inglis, Chairman of the Anthracite Operators' Negotiating Committee, in a letter from Scranton, Pa., to Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, made public here, reviewed the steps leading up to the break in the coal parleys on Aug. 4 and said the operators were ready at any time to submit the case to arbitration.

Mr. Inglis wrote Governor Fuller, whose conference of New England Governors to consider the anthracite situation takes place today, that he hoped the conference would consider the problem in the light of the necessities of the industry as well as of the public. He reiterated a former statement that granting the miners' demands would add from $2 to $3 a ton to the price of anthracite this Winter.

That the operators have not been unmindful in the past of their responsibility for continuous production was shown, according to Mr. Inglis, by the fact that their differences with the miners were submitted to arbitration in 1920, and that in 1922 and 1923 the operators offered arbitration which was refused. In 19322 and 1923, as now, the miners refused to continue production pending the full negotiation of a new contract, he said.

Call Non-Union Move Failure.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20.—The initial attempt of the Pittsburgh Coal Company to establish the 1917 wage scale in its forty mines of the Pittsburgh district is reported to have failed when the Banning No. 2 mine at Whitsett Junction, near Connellsville, was thrown open today. According to reports received by President P. T. Fagan of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, only thirty-six men, not members of the union, reported at the shaft for work. Of these, according to Fagan, only seven entered the shaft after the situation was explained to them. The mine normally employs between 400 and 500 men.

Sixteen deputies under Sheriff John Adams of Fayette County, with five State troopers, were on hand today when the attempt was made to reopen the mine. The troopers remained entirely neutral, according to reports to President Fagan, but Sheriff Adams and his deputies attempted to stop the mine workers from picketing the mine. No disorder was reported, however.

Michael Halapy of Finleyville, onetime candidate for district president, was expelled from his local union No. 4,090, of Finleyville, and from membership in the United Mine Workers for activities which the local union satisfied itself were in behalf of the Pittsburgh Coal Company's efforts to reopen its mines under the 1917 wage scale, it was disclosed today.

MISS EDERLE TO TRY CHANNEL ONCE MORE

New Trainer Is Engaged and the Date Is Tentatively Set for Aug. 31 or Sept. 1.

MISS HARRISON MAY GO, TOO

Helmy, Egyptian Swimmer, Announces He Will Make His Effort on Saturday or Sunday.

BOULOGNE, Aug. 20 (AP).—Undeterred by her recent failure to swim the English Channel, Gertrude Ederle will make another attempt to win over the tempestuous waters of the twenty-mile stretch between Cap Gris-Nez and Dover. She has tentatively fixed the date as Aug. 31 or Sept. 1, but must be governed to some extent by weather and water conditions.

Jabez Wolfe, who was her trainer for the first test of endurance and who asserted prior to her attempt on Tuesday that she had not followed his instructions closely enough, has been succeeded by "Old Bill" Burgess, one of the men who has successfully negotiated the Channel, the trainer of Miss Lillian Harrison. During the next ten days or more he will take Miss Ederle under his guidance in the full belief that if conditions are favorable she will this time successfully swim the Channel and gain the crown that other women champions have been seeking.

Miss Harrison may take the water along with Miss Ederle, for she has made up her mind to have a fifth try at the Channel, and as these two sturdy representatives of the United States and Argentina have formed a close friendship, it is calculated that in this way they could cheer each other on the long, hard journey through fog or turbulent seas. And if the sea is calm and the wind fair, these girls think that their chances of the great achievement will be so much the more augmented.

Ishak Helmy, the brawny Egyptian, whose strong arm supported the American swimmer when she had reached the end of her endurance, and before had performed the same service for Miss Harrison, will make his trial on Saturday or Sunday, and he has the fervent wishes of the two he saved for his success.

Radio Amateur in Surrey, England, Talks With U. S. S. Seattle, Now in Wellington, N. Z.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—There were two developments in the wireless field today of interest to millions of radio fans, both in Great Britain and America. The first was the official announcement that preparations now had reached a conclusive stage for definitely linking up the millions of radio enthusiasts in the two English-speaking nations. The second, of less importance, was the news that a well-known amateur wireless experimenter in Surrey had spoken directly to the wireless operator aboard the United States steamship Seattle, now in Wellington Harbor, New Zealand. This achievement, so far as known, eclipses all previous amateur transmitting performances.

News that British wireless fans would soon be able to receive the best American programs during a special "American period" to be set aside each evening was hailed with delight. The likelihood of such an inspiring development was indicated by the statement made more than a month ago by David Sarnoff, Vice President of the Radio Corporation of America, who came here to see if the scheme was feasible. The British Broadcasting Company today announced that the superreceiving station at Hayes, Kent, will be completed Sept. 1, and the company is now convinced a regular exchange of programs is practicable, beginning October next. A high-powered transmitting station will broadcast British programs to America.

Each morning between 6 and 8 o'clock Gerlad Marcuse, at Caterham Hill, Surrey, has been speaking to F. H. Schnell, Traffic Manager of the American Radio Relay League, who is a wireless operator aboard the Seattle, having received a temporary commission in the United States Navy to explore possibilities of short-wave communication during the fleet manoeuvres. Schnell also was clearly received here, and sent a message saying it marked a tremendous stride in wireless progress.

SONG MEN SUE WGY.

Gene Buck and Feist Say General Electric Infringed Copyright.

Suit for infringement of copyright was begun yesterday in United States District Court by Gene Buck, President of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and Leo Feist, Inc., against the General Electric Company, which operates WGY, the radio broadcasting station at Schenectady, N. Y.

It was charged that the songs "I'll See You in My Dreams" and "Honest and Truly" were broadcast from WGY in violation of copyright held by Feist, Inc., and some rights held by the society of which Mr. Buck is the head. Injunctions restraining WGY from future violations were asked for.

RADIO TEAS FOR MRS. CATT.

Westchester Women Voters to Celebrate Suffrage Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The Westchester County League of Women Voters is planning to hold "Radio Teas" at the homes of members next Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will deliver an address in commemoration of the fifth anniversary of the ratification of the Suffrage amendment. Her speech will be broadcast.

Mrs. Robert S. Shope of Thornwood, Chairman of the Westchester County Branch, is in charge of the arrangements.

DISAGREES WITH NAVY ON CHANGES IN RADIO

Dr. Goldsmith of Radio Corporation Says Big Long Wave Stations Won't Be Scrapped.

Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chief broadcast engineer of the Radio Coporation of America and Past President of the Institute of Radio Engineers, said yesterday that he differed entirely with the report issued by the Naval Research Laboratory, through Secretary Wilbur, that inexpensive low wave stations will replace the present high-power transatlantic stations.

Dr. Goldsmith agreed that short wave stations require much less power to cover a given distance and that they can be built much cheaper, but he was not in accord with the navy's conclusions that the big commercial stations talking to and from Europe on high wave lengths are doomed to be scrapped.

"It is not possible to replace the present stations with short wave transmitters," he said. "Between America and Europe we must establish reliable service, and the only way to do this during every hour of the day and night, combating atmospheric conditions, is to use high wave lengths and high power.

"The Radio Corporation of America has thoroughly investigated the possibilities of short waves for long distance commercial traffic, and every Radio Corporation has an auxiliary short wave installation, which we find very useful for auxiliary purposes, but the low waves are not reliable at all hours of the day and night. America is in the lead as far as short wave investigations and stations are concerned, and the low wave stations are used during hours when most appropriate."

It is pointed out that Germany is also using short wave stations, but only at certain hours. Daily at 4 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, the German transmittter AGA is heard at THE NEW YORK TIMES radio station on 26 meters, talking with LPZ, Buenos Aires, and as the darkness approaches and the sunset band is west of New York the signal intensity increases to such an extent that AGA uses high speed transmission.

It is understood that this low power station radiates from 10 to 25 kilowatts, while at other hours of the day, when the air is not favorable for short waves, the big transmitter is employed on 12,600 meters, with a power output of over 200 kilowatts.

Guaranteed First Mortgages Are Safest

First mortgages are often regarded as if there were no possibility of loss in them.

Everything depends upon the quality of the mortgages, but most people are not experienced enough to select them wisely.

This situation has been met by the Guaranteed Mortgage as offered for sale by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company and GUARANTEED by the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company.

Require this guarantee in every mortgage investment you make and you will secure one carefully selected by experienced people strong enough to make good.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company has a Capital & Surplus of $24,000,000. The Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company has a Capital and Surplus of $14,000,000.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Very Irregularly, but Many Speculative Industrials Are Bid Up.

A few speculative industrial stocks were bid up 3 to 13 points on the Stock Exchange yesterday, a smaller number declined 2 to 13 points, and that was the story of the market. On the whole, advances predominated, although most of the day's changes were only fractional and fairly divided between gains and losses. Movement of prices had no relation to anything except the whim of the manipulators. If news had been an influence, the railway shares might not unreasonably have shown strength on the indication of highly favorable earnings in the initial reports for July; but that group of shares stood practically motionless.

The bond market was in its way more interesting than stocks. It was distinctly firm, notably in United States Government securities, of which the fourth Liberty 4¼s and the Treasury 4s rose nearly ½ point. This movement manifestly voiced the market's expectation of continued easy money, and the weekly Federal Reserve statement gave no evidence to the contrary, the system's reserve ratio remaining practically unchanged around 75½ per cent. and the New York bank's ratio rising. Rediscounts at the twelve reserve banks increased $21,300,000, but that was mostly offset, so far as concerned the credit market, by reduction of $16,300,000 in bills bought from the open market. These open-market loans have in fact fallen this week to the smallest total since last October; they have been reduced $194,000,000 from their maximum figure of Dec. 24, rediscounts having within the same interval risen $163,000,000.

This has hardly represented an inflation of credit by the Federal Reserve, during 1925 at any rate. Even in the matter of holdings of Government securities, the twelve banks have $214,000,000 less than in the last weeks of December, and have to that extent reduced the lending facilities of the private banks to which the Government obligations were sold. Such expansion of reserve bank credit facilities as actually occurred was effected in the Autumn of 1924, when the increase was admittedly very large. As to the actual source of the credits which have been used this season for the infatuated performances on the Stock Exchange, it is hardly open to doubt that they have been made accessible through the lightness of the requirements of commercial creditors. Whether the facilities, thus obligingly placed in a midsummer market at the service of professional speculators, will be left with them when Autumn trade expands, is another question.

The Bank of England did not reduce its discount rate, notwithstanding Lombard Street's cock-sure opinion of the day before that it would reduce it. The fact seems to be that the London market is getting into the habit of reading the thoughts of the Bank beforehand with which Wall Street was obsessed in regard to the Federal Reserve a few weeks ago. There was no good reason to expect a change at the Bank of England. Yesterday's weekly statement was favorable on the whole, with a rise in the reserve ratio of the banking department to a figure only fractionally below the season's highest. But the Bank has been losing gold; its holdings have decreased half a million sterling since they reached their high-record point on Aug. 5. The London money market seemed to lose faith in the idea of early reduction, when no change in the bank rate was announced yesterday; open-market discount rates advanced ⅛ of 1 per cent.

Further reduction in the French bank-note circulation marked a cut of 548,000,000 francs in a fortnight; which, however, has followed an increase of 837,000,000 in the opening week of August. It is impossible to read the French position confidently without knowing how the Government's conversion and refunding loan has fared, and the Treasury gives no information. To the extent that Caillaux gets his maturing short-term debt converted into the new perpetual 4 per cents., he is relieved of the necessity of borrowing from the bank. As yet, however, despite the occasional reductions, the general level of bank loans to the State has been slowly rising during recent months and, unless the refunding plan makes it unnecessary, a 4,000,000,000-franc cash payment on a maturing short loan is impending for September.

MONEY.

THURSDAY, AUG. 20, 1925.

The money market was fairly active and the tone was firm, though there was no quotable change in rates. The banks are in strong position to supply all the funds needed for Autumn commercial expansion, and steadiness in rates is expected to continue. A more active demand for money was reported, marking an increase in business activity. Call money continues to be placed at 4 per cent. and sixty-ninety day money at 4¼ to 4⅜ per cent. The commercial paper market was quiet and unchanged.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Trading Continues Active, but With Stock Exchange Price Changes Mixed.

Movement of prices on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday was again mixed, but trading continued active. As a result of sharp reactions in several of the high-priced specialties the averages for the day were lower, but most of the active issues showed net gains. The decline in the averages was due chiefly to the 13-point reaction in Mack Trucks and the declines of 1 to 3 points in other high-priced shares, including United Fruit, Foundation, General Baking and National Lead. The railroad shares ended the day about unchanged. Copper stocks, under the leadership of American Smelters and Kennecott, again advanced, the former establishing a new high record for the year. Oil shares as a group again gained ground, but most of the buying in these issues was said to be for the purpose of covering short commitments. The leaders in the specialty group yesterday included Cast Iron Pipe and Universal Pipe, the advance being in conjunction with merger rumors.

Common Stock Issues in Prospect.

Wall Street is believed to be in for a program of common stock issues this Fall. Corporation officers and their bankers do not by any means overlook the fact that the time is apparently ripe for the marketing of new names, and there are numerous negotiations under way with a view to arranging the details of these offerings. The easy money market, the apparent readiness with which recent stock issues have been taken and the anxiety for new names were said by bankers yesterday to account for the fact that common stocks now find a ready sale. Some of the issues are to retire preferred stocks. In most cases, however, they are for the purpose of expansion. It was recalled by Wall Street that there are fads and fashions in stock issues, as in everything else. Last year the tendency was toward radio issues. This year electrical refrigerating machines seem to have replaced the radios in popular common stock financing. Stocks of new companies immediately in sight represent the refrigerating machinery industry, washing machines, battery manufacturers, a department store, an automobile company and a shipping company.

A Sidelight on the Market.

Writers of Stock Exchange paper known as puts and calls, who wear no medals for liberality in their options, have measurably lengthened the spread on stocks in which they deal, due to the wild fluctuations in many issues of late. Paper which could have been purchased last week at 4 points up is now generally quoted in the "New Street Exchange" at 6 and 7 points up. Puts are written freely, and fairly near the market. In such wildly fluctuating stocks as United States Cast Iron Pipe, Mack Trucks, General Electric and American Can, all offers have been withdrawn.

Railroad Results for 1925.

The prospect of an increase in July earnings of all railroads of at least $26,000,000, following the figures for the first six months of the year, which showed $45,000,000 more than the first half of last year, has created much optimism in railroad circles. Even the more conservative officials now profess to feel safe in saying that the August report will indicate $15,000,000 more than August of 1924 and that September will show at least $5,000,000 over last year. It was estimated yesterday that this should give the carriers $91,000,000 more net income for the entire calendar year and bring them more nearly a satisfactory return than they have had in any year since the war.

Copper Surplus Reduced in July.

A drop of 3,238 short tons, or 6,476,000 pounds in the amount of surplus copper metal held at the close of July was reported yesterday by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. This reduction in stocks was expected in the financial district and is in line with recent predictions, but publication of the figures was followed by further strength in the copper shares listed on the "big board." The stocks of refined copper at the close of July aggregated 88,088 short tons, against 91,326 tons according to the association's report. Detailed figures show that of the total copper shipments in July 55.5 per cent. was for domestic consumption, and 44.5 per cent. was exported. Germany continues to be the best foreign customer of the copper producers, the shipments to that country making up 31.99 per cent. of the exports last month. England ranked second with 16.84 per cent. of the shipments, France third with 16.22 per cent. and Italy fourth with 13.70 per cent. Exports in July were smaller than in June on a percentage basis, but an expansion in the movement of copper to foreign markets in the near future is predicted in the trade.

Loans for Central Europe.

The economic improvement which has become marked in several parts of Central Europe is reflected in the Wall Street banking world by discussions of loans for industrial expansion in several countries in the early Autumn. More favorable trade balances are reported by Hungary, Yugoslavia and several other countries as a result of liberal harvests and exports of foodstuffs. The Belgrade Government, in particular, is in a strong position and may decide to pay off some of its note issues maturing next month, instead of undertaking a refunding operation. It is believed that Poland will arrange a good-sized loan in the New York market, and that advances also will be made to a number of industries in Central Europe. This loan, however, will wait until the Summer dullness has ended in the bond market and until the market has fully digested some of the recent foreign issues.

Argentina's Financial Progress.

The firmness which has continued in Argentine exchange in recent weeks, in the face of unfavorable trade figures, has called Wall Street's attention to the program by which the Finance Ministry is steadily reducing the country's floating debt. The firmness of exchange is considered the result of the $45,000,000 Argentine loan floated in New York last June. Part of the proceeds were applied to refunding maturing issues, but the loan yielded about $20,000,000 in new money to Argentina, which was applied to retiring short-term internal obligations. The reduction in this class of paper has amounted to more than 100,000,000 pesos in six months and further reductions will be made shortly through internal issues of long-term bonds. A further loan will be arranged in New York, but this will wait until market conditions are just right, and may not be announced before the close of the year.

ORGANIZED INVESTING
By the simple application of a fundamental law — applying management to investment holdings — many a man has effected marked increase in both income and the stability of his estate.
It is really an easy matter to apply the fundamentals, as practiced by well-known foundations, once the method is understood.

14,400,000 Stockholders in 1923
This is the estimate made by a reliable authority of the number of corporate stockholders in America two years ago.
It is natural to assume that this number has increased since that time.
These figures are a definite indication of the ever-increasing confidence in the stability and future of American business.

Intensive Development

The electric light and power industry may be stated to be still in its infancy from the standpoint of intensive development.

There are, unquestionably, great potential markets for electrical energy in territories already served, and we believe that through the more intensive development of such territories, earnings available for bond interest, reserves, retirements and dividends of strongly entrenched companies may be expected to show substantial increases.

We should be pleased to bring to your attention preferred stocks and established dividend-paying common stocks of electric light and power companies under our executive management.

NEW CHICAGO LINE 200 MILES SHORTER

Harriman-Loree Route Would Cut the Running Time From Here Four Hours.

SURVEYS ARE COMPLETED

Backers Ready to Build All the Way if Proposed Traffic Agreements Fail.

The Harriman-Loree project for a new trunk line between New York and Chicago, which awaits the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has surveys which will reduce the distance by railroad between the two cities by some 200 miles and cut the running time by about four hours, it was disclosed yesterday.

A certificate of convenience for the construction of the stretch of the route between Pittsburgh and Easton, Pa., which would cut the present shortest distance by eighty miles, has been asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The granting of approval by the commission has been strenuously opposed by the three great Eastern trunk lines—the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio. Representatives of these lines filed a brief on Aug 3 following oral testimony taken some weeks ago by the commission. Another brief answering their objections will be filed by the proposed new railroad, the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago, on Monday next.

It is for the Commerce Commission to determine whether the question will be decided from the briefs filed and the testimony taken thus far or whether another hearing will be called.

Consolidation Is Proposed.

The construction of the 283 miles between Pittsburgh and Easton would give the new railroad a complete line from Chicago to New York if traffic agreements could be reached with the Wabash, Wheeling & Lake Erie, and Pittsburgh and West Virginia on the western side and the Lehigh Valley or Lackawanna on the east. Mr. Loree has a plan contemplating the consolidation of these railroads. If, however, such a consolidation cannot be effected or the agreements reached a new railroad may be constructed for the entire distance, or such parts of it as are necessary. The surveys have been made at a cost of between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 and have done much to convince the financial world that Mr. Loree and the sons of the late E. H. Harriman are in earnest about building the new line, and silenced rumors to the effect that it was merely a strategic gesture.

A surveyed line branching off from the proposed Pennsylvania construction at Springdale and running directly to Creston, Ohio, rather than by the circuitous route afforded by existing lines, would greatly reduce the distance and enable the new railroad to make the faster time mentioned.

In many ways the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago will have advantages over the present trunk lines. Its eastbound grade of .03 and westbound of .04 is lower than any of the others and will consequently greatly expedite the shipment of freight and carrying of passengers.

Opposed by Trunk Lines.

In objecting to its construction the trunk lines complained that there was no necessity for a new route, as they could handle the growing traffic more economically. The new railroad questions this statement, asserting that when traffic reaches a certain "point of saturation" on any railroad it costs more to take care of it than would be the case if a new avenue were provided.

The Pennsylvania, New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio also declared the cost of construction, outlined in the first application by the new road as $756,945 per mile, including equipment and general expenses, to be excessive, and stated that it would so increase the property investment of the carriers in that territory that a fair return could not be earned by any one of them.

The Harrimans deny that the revenues of the other roads would be greatly reduced, on the theory that they are now carrying more traffic than can be done profitably. They also point to the fact that each of the three trunk lines has revealed plans for providing an additional route between this city and Pittsburgh, either by the joining of existing lines or the construction of two more tracks as contemplated by the Pennsylvania, and assert that this is practical recognition of the growing congestion in traffic between the two points.

The original surveys for the construction across the State of Pennsylvania were purchased by the late E. H. Harriman from Joseph Ramsey, a former President of the Wabash, about one year before the death of the famous railroad pioneer. They were made to bring the Wabash, which George Jay Gould hoped to build into a great trunk line, into New York City. Mr. Harriman, it is thought, had a similar plan in mind, but his nervous breakdown and death forestalled it. His sons have kept their charter rights alive by renewing them every five years with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

L. F. Loree, who as one of Harriman's lieutenants advised him to buy the surveys, has since served in the same capacity to the financier's widow and two sons.

FREIGHT CAR EXCESS DROPS

238,474 Reported In Good Repair on Aug. 7—No Shortage Recorded.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Class I railroads on Aug. 7 had 238,474 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, according to reports filed today by the carriers with the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association. This was a decrease of 25,402 from the number reported on July 31.

Surplus coal cars in good repair on Aug. 7 totaled 72,054, a decrease of 8,607 within a week, while surplus box cars in good repair totaled 126,053, a decrease of 13,375 during the same period.

Reports also showed 17,997 surplus stock cars, a decrease of 1,407 cars from the number reported on July 31, while surplus refrigerator cars totaled 13,489, a decrease of 1,442 compared with July 31.

No car shortage is being reported.

Values Kanawha & West Virginia.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission has fixed a tentative valuation of $1,504,069 on the Kanawha & West Virginia Railroad as of June 30, 1918.

OFFERS $6,000,000 CHICAGO BONDS TODAY

Syndicate to Sell Sanitary District Issue—$25,000,000 Phone Bonds Taken Quickly.

A syndicate headed by Ames, Emerich & Co., and including Stevenson, Perry, Stacy & Co., William R. Compton Company, Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., Foreman Trust and Savings Bank, Mitchell Hutchins & Co., the Detroit Company, Inc., and First National Company of Detroit, is offering today a new issue of $6,000,000 4 per cent. bonds.

The issue is dated Aug. 1, 1925, and is due serially Aug. 1, 1926 to 1945, inclusive. It is being offered as follows: Nineteen twenty-six and 1927 maturities to yield 4 per cent.; 1928 and 1929 maturities to yield 4.10 per cent; 1930 to 1939 maturities to yield 4.20 per cent. and 1940 to 1945 maturities to yield 4.15 per cent.

The Chicago Sanitary District embraces all of the City of Chicago and a large amount of adjacent territory including towns and villages.

The $25,000,000 issue of International Telephone and Telegraph convertible 5½ per cent. debentures offered yesterday by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. was sold in about 15 minutes and the books closed. The bonds carry a conversion privilege entitling holders to convert into common stock from March 1, next, to Sept. 1, 1935, at the rate of $125 principal amount of bonds for $100 par value of stock. At the offering price of 99 the bonds yield 5.58 per cent. They were traded in on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday on a when-issued basis as high as 102⅝, later reacting to 101½.

Remick, Hodges & Co. are offering today $860,000 City of New Britain, Conn., 4 per cent. bonds, due 1926 to 1955, at prices to yield from 4 to 4.10 per cent. The bonds are a direct obligation of the city and are issued for the construction of subways, sewers and schools.

BANK OF ENGLAND GOLD DECREASES £224,000

But Loans Are Reduced and Ratio of Reserve to Deposits Rises.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Gold coin and bullion	decreased	£224,000
Reserve in banking dept., gold and notes	increased	845,000
Notes in circulation	decreased	1,070,000
Notes in reserve	increased	837,000
Loans on Govt. secur.	decreased	229,000
Loans on other secur.	decreased	283,000
Public deposits	increased	802,000
Other deposits	decreased	493,000

Proportion of the bank's reserve to deposit liabilities this week is 31.23 per cent.; last week it was 30.65. The percentage reached on July 29, 31.67, was the highest of the present year to date, and also the highest since June 21, 1916. The lowest thus far in 1925 has been 11.48 on Jan. 2. The lowest during or since the war was 7.20, on Dec. 30, 1920.

The statement compares as follows with the corresponding week one and two years ago:

	1925.	1924.	1923.
Total gold holdings	£164,256,000	£128,315,748	£127,648,276

Other securities	71,322,000	78,316,654	70,052,667
Ratio of reserve	31.23	18.25	19.00

The gold holdings of the Bank of England on Aug. 5, £164,500,000, were the largest in the history of the institution. Before the war the largest amount ever held was £43,634,723, on Jan. 28, 1914. Smallest during the war was £50,281,182, on Dec. 15; largest £74,585,063, in armistice week of 1918.

The Bank of England's official discount rate remains unchanged at 4½ per cent., to which it was reduced from 5 per cent. on Aug. 5.

OPTICAL MERGER NEARS.

Four Big Companies Involved in Proposed Consolidation.

The plan to consolidate four large optical companies under one management, to be known as the Continental Optical Corporation, is nearing completion, according to a statement made in behalf of the companies yesterday. The companies involved include the Onepiece Bifocal Lens Company of Indianapolis, the New Jersey Optical Company of Newark, the Simpson-Walther Lens Company, Inc., of Rochester, and the C. G. Aldrich Company of Sommerville, Massachusetts.

The combined corporation will manufacture a complete line of bifocal and single vision lenses and spectacle frames and cases. Branches will be maintained in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Indianapolis, New Orleans and San Francisco, and the main office will be in this city.

LONDON MONEY UNCHANGED

Disappointment Reigns When Discount Figure Is Not Reduced.

LONDON, Aug. 20 (AP).—Frank disappointment was expressed on the Stock Exchange this morning when the indicator marked no reduction in the discount rate of the Bank of England. Almost equal surprise was shown in the money market, where it is considered, however, that the change is only being withheld temporarily.

It is believed the authorities adopted the precautionary measure of retaining the 4½ per cent. rate because of yesterday's sale of more than £500,000 in gold, making the net efflux of this metal for the week £250,000.

Pursuant to the option and right of redemption reserved to the undersigned Company in the Certificate of Classification of the Company's capital stock, duplicate originals of which were filed in the offices of the Secretary of the State of New York and of the County Clerk of New York County on November 28th, 1919, and December 1st, 1919, respectively, under the authority of which Certificate of Classification the preferred stock of this Company held by you was issued, and as provided for in the terms of such preferred stock printed upon the certificates thereof, whereby the undersigned has the option to redeem said preferred stock as an entirety at any time after January 1st, 1925, upon any quarterly dividend payment date by payment for each share of stock so to be redeemed at 112½% of the par value thereof, that is $112.50 per share, and in addition thereto all dividends accrued and unpaid thereon.

NOW, THEREFORE, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN TO YOU that the undersigned Company hereby elects to redeem such stock on September 30th, 1925, at $112.50 per share and will on and after September 30th, 1925, and as of September 30th, 1925, redeem the same at that price on presentation and surrender of the stock certificates representing such preferred stock, at the office of the Transfer Agent of this Company, which is The Equitable Trust Company of New York, No. 37 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

The holders of such preferred stock will be entitled to the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share, which has been declared payable on and as of September 30th, 1925, to preferred stockholders of record at the close of business on September 19th, 1925, and checks for this dividend will be duly mailed on or about September 30th, 1925, to the preferred stockholders.

In accordance with the terms of the issuance of such preferred stock, and applicable in the case of its redemption as aforesaid, all dividends in such preferred stock will cease to accrue from and after September 30th, 1925, the date fixed as the date of its redemption, and all rights of the holders of record thereof as stockholders of the Corporation, except the right to receive the redemption price and to receive the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share, payable September 30th, 1925, shall cease and determine.

The books for the transfer of the preferred stock, which are kept by the said The Equitable Trust Company of New York as the transfer agent of this Corporation, will close at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, September 19th, 1925 (daylight saving time), for the purpose of payment of the quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, payable September 30th, 1925, and for the purpose of the redemption of the preferred stock and such books will not be re-opened to permit any further transfers of such stock after such closing.

It will not be necessary for the preferred stockholders of the Company to endorse their certificates of the preferred stock when such certificates are presented for redemption, but it will be necessary for them to present and surrender such certificates to the Company's transfer agent, The Equitable Trust Company of New York, at 37 Wall Street, New York City, in order to receive the redemption price of their respective holdings of such stock.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF CHESEBROUGH MANUFACTURING COMPANY, CONSOLIDATED,
THOMAS J. DOBBINS,
Secretary.

RAIL TRAFFIC ROSE IN FIRST HALF YEAR

Carriers Report Gain of 7,782,890,000 Net Ton Miles Over Same 1924 Period.

FIGURES LOWER THAN 1923

For June Alone Roads Increased Mileage by 12.2 Per Cent. Over Same Month Last Year.

Freight traffic during the first six months of this year amounted to 212,609,796,000 net ton miles, according to reports for the first half of the year which will be filed today by the carriers with the Bureau of Railway Economics.

This was an increase of 7,782,890,000 net ton miles or 3.8 per cent. over the corresponding period last year but a decrease of 12,974,000,000 net ton miles or 5.8 per cent. under the corresponding period in 1923, when the volume of freight, measured in net ton-miles, was the greatest on record for that period of the year.

Freight traffic in the Eastern District of the country showed an increase during the period of 3.6 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1924 but a decrease of 9.1 per cent. under the corresponding period of 1923. The Southern District showed an increase of 6 per cent. over 1924 but a decrease of 2 per cent under 1923, while in the Eastern District there was an increase of 3.2 per cent. compared with the same period in 1923.

For June alone freight traffic on Class I railroads amounted to 35,863,078,000 net ton miles, an increase of 3,895,580,000 net ton miles or 12.2 per cent. over June of last year but a decrease of 2,137,523,000 net ton miles or 5.6 per cent. under 1923. The Eastern District showed an increase in June of 13.2 per cent. compared with June a year ago, while the Southern District showed an increase of 16.8 per cent. and the Western District an increase of 9.1 per cent.

The daily average movement per freight car in June was 27.4 miles, an increase of 2.3 miles compared with June of last year but a decrease of nine-tenths of a mile compared with June two years ago. The average daily movement per freight car was an increase of one-tenth of a mile compared with May of this year.

The average load per freight car in June was 26.9 tons, the same as that for May, but one-fifth of a ton greater than that for June last year. Compared with two years ago the average for June this year was a decrease of 1.3 tons.

SLIGHT GAIN OF GOLD AT GERMAN REICHSBANK

Week's Increase 872,000 Marks —Note Circulation Is Reduced 99,436,000 Marks.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—The Reichsbank report as of Aug. 15 shows the following changes, in reichsmarks:

Deposits abroad	decreased	5,121,000
Res. in for. currencies	decreased	848,000
Bills of exch. and chks	decreased	88,204,000
Silver and other coins	increased	1,423,000
Notes on other banks	increased	8,386,000
Investments	increased	192,000
Other assets	increased	424,000
Notes in circulation	decreased	99,436,000
Other maturing obligs	increased	115,975,000
Loans fr. Rentenbank	decreased	129,000

Total gold holdings are now 1,114,550,000 reichsmarks.

Following is the Reichsbank's gold reserve for a series of recent weeks, compared with the two preceding years, in thousands of marks:

	1925.	1924.	1923.
Aug. 15	1,114,550	498,084	516,349
Aug. 7	1,113,678	490,694	596,351
July 31	1,104,136	484,322	596,351
July 23	1,103,001	478,052	616,351
July 15	1,068,673	469,372	656,911
	1924.	1923.	1922.

The addition to the bank's gold reserve since last year's low point of April amounts now to 672,673,000 gold marks, or $160,096,174. When the war began the bank's gold holdings were 1,253,199,000 gold marks. They were increased to 2,537,780,000 on Dec. 30, 1916, which was the high point in its history.

Following is the Reichsbank's outstanding note circulation in reichsmark denominations:

	1925.	1924.
Aug. 15	2,373,233,000	1,200,790,000
Aug. 7	2,472,669,000	1,230,487,000
July 31	2,530,828,000	1,211,038,000
July 15	2,297,861,000	1,090,862,079

The note circulation of 2,608,797,000 marks reported on May 30, reckoned in gold value, was the highest reached since the war. It stood at 2,406,580,000 marks on July 31, 1914, when the war began, and reached 5,045,899,000 at the end of 1914, when the mark was still quoted above 22 cents.

CIRCULATION OF FRENCH BANK IS AGAIN REDUCED

Cut of 120,777,000 Francs in Week—Government Repays 100,000,000 Francs to Bank.

The weekly statement of the Bank of France show the following changes, in francs:

Notes in circulation	decreased	120,777,000
Treasury deposits	decreased	6,888,000
General deposits	decreased	32,896,000
Bills discounted	increased	4,430,000
Advances	decreased	34,894,000

The State repaid the bank 100,000,000 francs. Advances to the State now stand at 28,050,000,000 francs, against 22,000,000,000 a year ago and 23,400,000,000 two years ago. Under the vote of the French Parliament on June 27 the legal limit on such advances is now 32,000,000,000 francs, against a previous 26,000,000,000 voted on April 15. The advances outstanding Aug. 5, 28,250,000,000 francs, were the largest ever reached; smallest during the last three years, 21,200,000,000 in March, 1922.

The principal items in the statement compare as follows with the same date one and two years ago, in thousands of francs:

	Gold.	Circulation.	Disc., &c.
1925	5,546,977	44,785,629	7,172,319
1924	5,543,762	40,250,926	7,136,178
1923	5,537,942	37,111,155	4,416,840

Under the vote of June 27 the legal limit on note circulation is now 51,000,000,000 francs, against a former 45,000,000,000 francs limit fixed on April 15. The note circulation of 45,333,812,000 francs on Aug 5 was the highest ever reached by the Bank of France. The lowest point reached in the concerted reduction of 1921-22 was 35,281,790,000 francs, to which it was reduced from 39,645,596,000 on Nov. 4, 1920, the highest figure ever reached until March of 1924.

The French bank's official discount rate remains unchanged at 6 per cent., to which it was reduced on July 7.

Bal. aft. tax	2,730,870	2,535,170	2,700,887

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Foreign exchange rates generally held to narrow limits. Sterling was somewhat firmer in tone, due, apparently to the fact that the Bank of England did not reduce its discount rate despite rumors that this might be done. Selling of the previous day was based in part on the idea that a reduction might be made, resulting in withdrawals of American balances from London. Sterling closed at $4.85⅝, a gain of 1-16 of a point for the day. Francs were under slight pressure and lost half a point, and Belgian currency also receded slightly, but Italian lire held firm. Norwegian and Danish currencies were in demand and each advanced 10 points. Other exchanges were steady.

The corporation is the largest holder of North American Company common stock and owns shares in other utility enterprises.

ARGENTINA PLANS A LARGE LOAN HERE

Progress in Reducing the Country's Debt Stiffens Rate of Exchange.

TRADE EXPANSION EXPECTED

Internal Bond Issues Will Reduce Floating Obligations, Which Now Total 632,338,190 Pesos.

Continued firmness in Argentine exchange, which has recovered the ground lost in a recent decline, has directed the attention of international bankers to the progress made by the Argentine Ministry of Finance in reducing the country's floating debt. It is understood that the Argentine program calls for the flotation of another large loan in the New York market, though not in the immediate future. The last Argentine loan floated here consisted of a $45,000,000 issue, underwritten early last June by J. P. Morgan & Co. and the National City Company.

The firmness in Argentine exchange is attributed almost wholly to Government actions rendered possible by the last loan, as trade figures are running decidedly against Argentina. Exports, except of cattle, are light and the good prices being obtained for grain and other products are not sufficient to offset the small volume being shipped.

The Government is about to float large internal loans bearing 5½ per cent. interest in order to retire short term obligations held mostly by the banks. This is expected to lead to trade expansion, to the extent that banks now carrying a heavy load of Government obligations are unable by this amount to devote their resources to the fomentation of general business.

Of the $45,000,000 loan floated in New York about $25,000,000 was applied to refunding or paying off previous issues and $20,000,000 represented new money sent to Argentine. A large part of this was applied to reduction in the floating debt. This floating debt, in six months, has been reduced by 112,000,000 pesos and stands now at 632,838,190 pesos. It is expected that the internal bond issue will result in a further reduction of several hundred million pesos.

It has not been decided when the new loan in New York will be undertaken. The position of Argentina is such that she can wait for the money, and the issue will not be made until it is decided that market conditions here are just right.

New Oil Well in Mexican Field.

The Cities Service Company announced yesterday that its Mexican subsidiary has brought in a new well in the Cacalilao field with an initial daily production of 10,000 barrels. The well, it is believed, opens up a new field.

ST. PAUL CASE CALLED TEST OF RAILROAD ACT

Security Holders of Northwestern Roads Are Urged to Demand Higher Rates.

Roosevelt & Son in a letter sent out yesterday to the security holders of Northwestern roads declare that the receivership of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway furnishes a test of the Transportation act of 1920.

"The appalling disaster of the St. Paul receivership," says the letter, "has focused attention on the Northwestern situation. Because of the size of the disaster and the loss of the savings of thousands of investors, the full extent of the catastrophe is now seen. A measure of the loss is found in the present market prices of the securities. In 1911 the market prices indicated a total value for all St. Paul securities of $513,000,000. Since that time $400,000,000 of new money has been spent on improving the property. The present market value of all St. Paul securities is approximately $356,000,000. In other words, there has been a shrinkage of $555,000,000 since 1911 and all the St. Paul securities, taken together, are now worth less than the new money spent on improvements."

The letter urges the security holders to organize to assert their rights at the coming rate hearing at Chicago and to insist that Northwestern roads receive higher rates.

SURPLUS FREIGHT CARS OFF

Class 1 Railroads 238,474 on Aug. 7, a Drop of 25,402 in Week.

Class 1 railroads on Aug. 7 had 238,474 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, according to reports filed today by the carriers with the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association. This was a decrease of 25,402 cars under the number reported on July 31.

Surplus coal cars in good repair on Aug. 7 totaled 72,054, a decrease of 8,607 within a week, while surplus box cars in good repair totaled 126,053, a decrease of 13,375 during the same period. Reports also showed 17,997 surplus stock cars, a decrease of 1,407 under the number reported on July 31, while surplus refrigerator cars totaled 13,489, a decrease of 1,442 under the number reported July 31.

Marlin-Rockwell Ex Rights Aug. 28.

The Committee on Securities of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday ruled that the common stock of the Marlin-Rockwell Corporation be quoted ex rights on Aug. 28; that the rights may be dealt in on a when issued basis, beginning yesterday, and that the rights must be settled on Sept. 8. The right to subscribe to the new stock expires on Sept. 14.

GENERAL PROSPERITY FORECAST FOR YEAR

Review of Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company Points Out Many Promising Factors.

The present volume of trade and industry is very satisfactory compared with the figures of a year ago and the outlook is excellent for well-sustained prosperity in numerous lines for the balance of the year, according to The Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company's Mid-Month Review. The Review says that the old-time theory that big crops are necessary to general welfare seems to have been discarded, probably on the theory that a repetition of the occasional burdensome surpluses of earlier years is not to be desired, inasmuch as such a surplus would have to be disposed of in the world markets to the detriment of the prices received here by domestic producers.

Wholesale commodity prices have in the main shown an upward tendency in recent months, The Review says, and have thereby contributed to the greater confidence and cheerfulness of business sentiment, both of which have been further intensified by the phenomenal upward surge of security values. Additional evidence of a very broad buying power throughout the country is found in the close-to-record production and sales of automobiles, the mounting mass of chain store and mail order sales, the lively speculation in land and the enormous volume of new building construction.

Still other important happenings of July or early August, it points out, were reports of exceptional activity in rubber manufacture, especially tires, based on repeated advances in prices of those products; a very general reduction of wages in woolen and worsted mills coincident with an opening of new Spring worsteds for men's and women's wear at reductions both from the coming Fall and last Spring levels; a spurt in production of both anthracite and bituminous coal after a six months' output barely equaled a year ago; the sale of 200 of our derelict ships and the formal abandonment of the much advertised cooperative Grain Marketing Company.

FINANCIAL NOTICES. FINANCIAL NOTICES.

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit for, and undeposited, Preferred Stock and Common Stock of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company:

A Plan and Agreement dated August 10, 1925, for the reorganization of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company has been approved and adopted by the undersigned as the Committee constituted under the Deposit Agreement dated March 3, 1924, between holders of Preferred Stock and Common Stock of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company becoming parties thereto as therein provided and the undersigned as a Committee. The Plan and Agreement has been deposited with The Equitable Trust Company of New York and The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, the depositaries respectively under said Deposit Agreement for said Preferred Stock and Common Stock, and copies thereof have been delivered to said Depositaries for distribution to the Depositors. The Committee recommends the acceptance of said Plan and Agreement by all holders of the above mentioned stocks and certificates of deposit therefor.

Holders of such stocks not now deposited under said Deposit Agreement may become parties to and participate in the benefits of said Plan and Agreement by depositing certificates for their said stock duly endorsed in blank and stamped for transfer before the close of business on September 25, 1925, with The Equitable Trust Company of New York, 37 Wall Street, New York City, in the case of Preferred Stock, and The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, 57 Broadway, New York City, in the case of Common Stock. For all stock so deposited, said respective depositaries will issue certificates of deposit under said Deposit Agreement. Holders of certificates of deposit for stock heretofore deposited under said Deposit Agreement who desire to accept said Plan and Agreement of reorganization need take no affirmative action. Any present holder of such a certificate of deposit who does not desire to accept said Plan and Agreement may, on or before September 12, 1925, withdraw from said Deposit Agreement by filing with the depositary by which his certificate of deposit was issued written notice of his dissent therefrom and of his desire to withdraw, and upon surrendering to such depositary on or before such last mentioned date such certificate of deposit properly endorsed, and by paying the said depositary at the time of such surrender of the certificate of deposit, his pro rata share of the sum fixed by the undersigned Committee for its obligations, compensation and expenses; and upon such withdrawal shall be entitled to receive certificates of stock of the class and to the amount represented by his certificate of deposit and shall cease to have any rights under said Deposit Agreement. All depositors who do not withdraw from said Deposit Agreement as aforesaid will be conclusively and finally deemed for all purposes to have irrevocably waived such right of withdrawal and said Plan and Agreement will be binding upon all depositors who do not so withdraw, all of whom will be conclusively and finally deemed to have assented to said Plan and Agreement and the terms thereof, whether they receive actual notice or not, and be irrevocably bound and concluded by the same.

CUT GASOLINE PRICE ANOTHER HALF CENT

AVERAGE NOW IS 18.008

Wholesale Figures in 30 Cities Are Still 5.272 Cents Above Last Year's Low Level.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey announced yesterday another reduction of half a cent a gallon in the tank-wagon price of gasoline throughout its territory except South Carolina, where a reduction of one cent a gallon was put into effect. This makes a total reduction of 2½ cents a gallon in the wholesale price of gasoline by this company in the last two weeks. The reductions in prices were immediately met by the Gulf Refining Company, the Texas Company and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, which operate in the same territory.

According to advices received in the financial district yesterday the Kenney Manufacturing Company of Boston announced a reduction of 2 cents a gallon in gasoline in Massachussetts, making the new tank-wagon price 16 cents and the service station price 20 cents a gallon.

As a result of the recent reductions in gasoline prices announced in practically all sections of the country in the last few weeks, the average price of gasoline quoted in thirty representative cities of the country is now 18.008 cents a gallon, a reduction of 0.867 cent from the high of 18.875 for the current year, established on July 21, and 0.730 cent below the high for last year. The present price, however, is 5.272 cents above the low level of last year.

The following table, as compiled by Dow, Jones & Co., gives the present tank-wagon price of gasoline quoted by Standard Oil companies in thirty cities compared with previous periods, all prices being exclusive of State taxes:

COMMODITY PRICES.

Irregular Movement in Grains, With Business on Moderate Scale—Metals Firmer.

The movement of prices in the local cash commodity markets yesterday was irregular. Wheat and rye advanced in price, while corn and oats were lower. Sugar was firmer, and in the metals group, copper and zinc were fractionally higher. Crude rubber also gained one cent a pound. Cotton and print cloths were easier. Business was on a moderate scale.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities, in the New York market unless otherwise noted, were:

Warren Pipe Gets 6,000-Ton Order

The Warren Pipe and Foundry Company, a subsidiary of the Replogle Steel Company, has received a contract for 6,000 tons of cast iron pipe for the city of Lynn, Mass. This is the first large contract for pipe let in recent months in which European competition was not in evidence. The company also received an order for 560 tons of pipe for Providence, R. I.

TEXAS GULF RAISES ITS DIVIDEND RATE

Sulphur Company's $1 Increase Makes New Yield $8 a Share Annually.

1ST BELDING DECLARATION

Action Places Company on a $3 Yearly Basis—Other Dividends Declared.

Directors of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company yesterday increased the regular annual dividend rate on the capital stock from $7 to $8 a share. The board declared a quarterly dividend of $2 a share, payable Sept. 15, to stockholders of record Aug. 31. Previous to the current quarter the company had been paying quarterly dividends of $1.75 a share, but extra dividends were paid from time to time.

Belding Bros. & Co. yesterday declared an initial quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the new capital stock, placing it on a $3 annual basis. The dividend is payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 21. The company announced that July sales were 21.3 per cent. larger than reported in the same month last year and that current business and the outlook are satisfactory. It was also announced that B. A. Tompkins, Vice President of the Bankers' Trust Company, had been elected a member of the Board of Directors and also a member of the Executive Committee.

Directors of the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the capital stock, placing the issue on a $4 annual dividend basis. The dividend is payable Sept. 21 to stockholders of record Sept. 4. In the previous quarter the company paid a regular dividend of 50 cents a share and an extra dividend of the same amount.

Directors of the United States Glass Company, according to advices received from Pittsburgh, suspended dividend payments on the capital stock, due to be declared at this time. The company had been paying dividends of 25 cents a share quarterly. The company's profits, it was stated, would be used for the installation of new equipment and other improvements.

The General Electric Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the common stock and the dividend of 15 cents a share quarterly on the special stock of $10 a share par value. The usual annual dividend of one share of special $10 par value stock for cash two shares of common stock held also was declared. All dividends are payable Oct. 15 to stockholders of record Sept. 3.

The Hudson Motor Car Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the capital stock payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

Directors of the International Cement Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock and $1.75 a share on the preferred stock, both payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

SEEK RATIFICATION OF UTILITY MERGER

Southeastern Power and Light Would Take in the Southern Power Securities.

The Southeastern Power & Light Company notified stockholders yesterday that a special meeting would be held Sept. 22 in the office of the corporation at Augusta, Me., to act on a proposal to amend the company's certificate of organization in order to increase the number of shares that may be issued, and to consider the merger of the company with the Southern Power Securities Corporation.

The directors of the Southeastern seek to increase the number of no par value shares that may be issued from 600,000, divided into 100,000 of preferred and 500,000 shares of common, to 3,600,000, divided into 100,000 shares of preferred and 3,500,000 shares of common.

The merger of the two companies, the notification says, is now desirable in order to vest the assets of the Southern Power Securities Corporation, which holds the securities of most of the company's subsidiaries, directly in the Southeastern Power & Light Company.

A meeting of the bondholders of the Alabama Traction Light & Power Company, a subsidiary, it was added, was being called to vote on a plan for converting $13,668,900 principal amount of its bonds into an equal amount of 6 per cent. gold debentures of the Southeastern Power & Light, due Sept. 1, 2025, following which the remaining $10,000,000 of the Alabama company's bonds now outstanding and owned by the Southeastern Power & Light will be surrendered for cancellation.

Midland Steel Half-Year Profits.

The Midland Steel Products Company for the first six months of 1925 reports net profits of $1,418,000, equal to $16 a share on the outstanding preferred stock and $6 a share on the common stock, after allowing for preferred dividends. In the full year 1924 the company reported net profits of $1,807,000, equal to $19.30 a share on the preferred and $8.11 a share on the common stock. The company reports $4,000,000 cash on hand as of June 30, 1925, and no bank loans.

Are the Rails on the Verge of a
25 Point Rise?
The Rails have broken through the March highs—to the highest level in 8 years. Still they are 15 points lower than in 1913, 20 points lower than in 1912, and 30 points lower than in 1909. Have they begun a new forward movement which will carry them to those levels?

MAY WHEAT LEADS A FALLING MARKET

Early Spurt Started by Talk of Frost in Canada Fails to Hold to the Close.

MILL BUYING KEEPS GOOD

Corn Tumbles 3 Cents Early—Oats Goes Lower in Spite of Sales and Rye Gains.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—While the greater part of the news on wheat was of a bullish character, the market developed a decidedly heavy undertone late in the day, and with Winnipeg in the lead prices declined readily, and the finish was at net losses of ⅛ to ⅞ cents, May leading. There was a sharp rally at one time on reports of frost in Canada with temperatures as low as 31 in Manitoba, but it was short-lived and Winnipeg paid little attention to the claims.

The September and December closed at the same price tonight. Kansas City, with September at ⅛ cent over Chicago, is regarded as the highest market, and as a result there has been a let-up in the milling demand for cash wheat in that market, Minneapolis getting the benefit and reporting 173,000 bushels sold to mills largely east of Chicago today.

Free buying of wheat futures at Winnipeg today was credited to a leading local operator who was presumably spreading between Chicago and that market, but Winnipeg October at the last was 15⅝ cents under Chicago, the spread widening out slightly during the day.

A circular issued by W. E. Gould, the Kewanee, Ill., banker, advising farmers to hold back their wheat on the basis that the United States has actually less bread wheat than domestic requirements and that Canadian will have to be imported at a duty of 42 cents per bushel is being widely circulated throughout the entire wheat belt, including the Northwest, according to a man who has been over the Dakotas.

The bulk of the red Winter in public elevators here has been sold to mills, with 24,000 bushels of No. 2 taken today at 7 cents over the September.

Export business at the seaboard was finally estimated at 300,000 to 400,000 bushels with some No. 1 Northern Duluth, taken on account of No. 3 Manitobas c. i. f. Buffalo, being quoted at about 3 cents per bushel premium.

Chicago.

Today's Chicago prices for the principal grains were as follows:

COTTON PRICES SAG IN NARROW MARKET

Close at Net Loss of 5 to 7 Points After Smallest Range of Season.

Cotton fluctuated within limits of seven points yesterday, the narrowest range of the season, and closed at a net loss of 5 to 7 points. Weather throughout the South continued hot and dry, heat being the most extreme in some years. Out of 200 stations sending daily telegraphic reports to the Weather Bureau from the nine principal cotton States, temperatures at 138 ranged above 100 degrees and only 63 below that figure. Nearly all stations in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia were over 100 degrees, and several points East of the Mississippi showed 104 to 107 degrees, which is unusual. Predictions of cooler weather attended by thunder showers in both eastern and western sections were issued during the day.

The average of private crop estimates has been raised several thousand bales the past two weeks and is now around fourteen and a quarter, compared with about thirteen and a half million in the last Government report. Indications from private sources show so uniform an increase that it is generally expected the department will advance its estimate on Monday.

Despite a lower range of foreign quotations than necessary to meet American markets, the purchase of a block of 5,000 October on the call served to maintain prices within a few points of previous closing levels. It was some time after the opening before the October order was finally filled, and then selling pressure proved too limited to carry the decline further. As December approached 23½, the amount of contracts wanted appeared to increase in volume, and scattering hedging operations furnished only enough cotton to prevent any price recovery. For five hours fluctuations narrowed to even more restricted limits than heretofore this week, and very little cotton changed hands.

The character of weather in the South continued an offset to the influence of large crop estimates, while uncertainty over the forthcoming bureau report reduced outside business to merely normal proportions. The narrowness of price movements furnished no opportunity for swapping operations, and trading dwindled to the smallest transactions in many years. The movement of new cotton is increasing, not only in the Southwest, but in Eastern sections. Receipts at Houston the past five days aggregated 21,000, against 11,000 last week, and at Savannah 20,000, against 4,000 last week. Port receipts so far this week amount to 82,000 bales compared with 28,000 during the corresponding week a year ago. Spot sales at Southern markets aggregated 19,000 bales at an average decline of ten points in middling quotations.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.

FINANCIAL NOTICE. FINANCIAL NOTICE. FINANCIAL NOTICE.

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit for, and undeposited, First Mortgage Twenty-five-Year Seven Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A, of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company:

A Plan and Agreement dated August 10, 1925, for the reorganization of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company has been approved and adopted by the undersigned as the Committee constituted under the Deposit Agreement dated March 3, 1924, between holders of bonds of the above issue becoming parties thereto as therein provided and the undersigned as a Committee. A copy of said Plan and Agreement has been lodged with Central Union Trust Company of New York, one of the depositaries under said Deposit Agreement. The Committee recommends the acceptance of said Plan and Agreement by all holders of the above mentioned bonds and certificates of deposit therefor.

Holders of such bonds not now deposited under said Deposit Agreement may become parties to and participate in the benefits of said Plan and Agreement by depositing their bonds in negotiable form, before the close of business on September 25, 1925, with either of the depositaries of the Committee, namely: in New York, with Central Union Trust Company of New York, 80 Broadway, New York City; and in Richmond, Virginia, with The First National Bank of Richmond. For all bonds so deposited, said depositaries will issue certificates of deposit under said Deposit Agreement. The certificates of deposit of Central Union Trust Company of New York for bonds deposited under said Deposit Agreement are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Holders of such certificates of deposit who desire to accept said Plan and Agreement of reorganization need take no affirmative action. Any present holder of such a certificate of deposit who does not desire to accept said Plan and Agreement may, on or before September 10, 1925, withdraw from said Deposit Agreement by surrendering to the depositary by which his certificate of deposit was issued, on or before such last mentioned date, such certificate of deposit with a properly executed transfer thereof, if registered, and by paying to such depositary at the time of such surrender of his certificate of deposit his pro rata share of the sum fixed by the undersigned Committee for its compensation and expenses, together with the amount, if any, advanced on account of the June 1, 1924, instalment of interest, with interest thereon at six per cent. per annum from June 3, 1924, (if the amount of such advance has not already been repaid); and, upon such withdrawal, shall be entitled to receive bonds to the amount represented by his certificate of deposit and shall cease to have any rights under said Deposit Agreement. All depositors who do not withdraw from said Deposit Agreement as aforesaid will be conclusively and finally deemed for all purposes to have irrevocably waived such right of withdrawal and said Plan and Agreement will be binding on all depositors who do not so withdraw, all of whom will be conclusively and finally deemed to have assented to said Plan and Agreement and the terms thereof whether they receive actual notice or not, and be irrevocably bound and concluded by the same.

PROPOSALS.

DREDGING—NORFOLK ARMY BASE, NORFOLK, VIRGINIA.

The United States Shipping Board, acting by and through the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, invites offers for dredging at the Norfolk Army Base, Norfolk, Virginia, in order to provide a depth of thirty-three feet MLW in the existing channel leading to and in the slips adjacent to said Terminal.

Hydraulic dredging will be necessary in order to deposit the material in the areas already provided for by the new timber bulkhead and on the adjoining land. It is estimated that it will be necessary to remove approximately 700,000 cubic yards of material.

Full information is contained in the proposal, a copy of which may be had upon application to Mr. G. F. Blair, District Director, United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, Norfolk, Virginia, or the Stevedoring and Terminals Division, United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, Washington, D. C.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Bids will be received until 12 o'clock noon, September 4th, 1925, and should be addressed to Mr. G. F. Blair, District Director, United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, Norfolk, Virginia, and marked "Bid for Dredging at Norfolk Army Base."

COMMISSIONERS, D. C., WASHINGTON, August 19, 1925.—Sealed proposals for constructing about 1,995 linear feet of sewer varying in size between 10" and 2' 6" in diameter will be received at Room 509, District Building, until 2 o'clock P. M., August 27, 1925. For detailed information apply at Room 427 District Building.

The 6½% Interest Bearing Option Warrants, $35 paid, will bear interest, payable quarterly, at the rate of 6½% per annum, and, when fully paid, each Option Warrant will be exchanged (after September 1, 1926) for either $100—6% Convertible Debenture Bonds or one share of $6.50 Dividend Series Preferred Stock (at the holder's option) and in either case one-half share of Common Stock. They will carry detachable Stock Purchase Rights entitling the holders to buy one share of Common Stock for $20 after March 1, 1926, and on or before September 1, 1927, or thereafter and on or before September 1, 1930, for $30. No call may be made for payment before January 5, 1926, of any instalment of the balance of $60 of the subscription price, nor for more than $10 per call, nor at intervals of less than 90 days.

Holders of registered securities of the above issues will receive their subscription right certificates by mail.

Holders of coupon securities of the above issues may obtain their subscription right certificates by written application to the Company stating the name, principal amount and serial numbers of the securities held and the name of the security dealer from whom they were purchased, with their ownership of the bonds certified by a bank, trust company or reputable security dealer.

Prompt application should be made by holders of coupon securities if they wish to avail themselves of the opportunity to subscribe or dispose of their subscription rights, which may be of value. These rights will expire September 10, 1925. Applications may be mailed direct to the Company at 61 Broadway, New York City, or forwarded through the security dealer from whom you purchased your certificates.

Circulars descriptive of the earnings and properties of the Company, and particulars of the Option Warrants and the securities covered thereby, and application blanks, may be obtained from your security dealer or from the Company.

M. C. O'KEEFFE,
Secretary.

To the Holders of

Marland Oil Company

Two-Year 5% Gold Notes due November 1, 1926

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to the provisions of its Two-Year 5% Gold Notes dated November 1, 1924, due November 1, 1926, issued under an indenture dated November 1, 1924, between Marland Oil Company and Guaranty Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, and of said indenture, Marland Oil Company has elected to pay off and redeem on November 1, 1925, an interest-payment date, all of its said Two-Year 5% Gold Notes issued under said indenture, on which date interest on said notes will cease to accrue and coupons maturing thereafter shall be null and void.

Payment of the principal amount of all said notes, together with a premium of one per cent. (1%) of the principal sum, will be made upon surrender of said notes, with interest coupons maturing May 1, 1926 and thereafter thereunto attached, at the office of Guaranty Trust Company of New York, 140 Broadway, New York City, New York. Interest coupons maturing November 1, 1925 should be detached and collected in the usual manner.

Dated August 14, 1925. MARLAND OIL COMPANY,
By E. W. Marland, President.

PROPOSALS. PROPOSALS.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

$20,000,000 ISSUE OF $50,000,000 LOAN

SERIES F, 4%, 1925

Exempt from Taxation for State and Local Purposes.
Exempt from the Federal Income Tax Under Existing Laws.

Office of the Governor,
Harrisburg, Pa.,
August 17, 1925.

Sealed proposals at not less than par will be received by the undersigned at the office of the Governor at Harrisburg, Pa., until 12 o'clock noon (standard time), Thursday, September 10, 1925, for the purchase of all or any part of the issue of Series F 4% bonds of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the total amount of $20,000,000 and said proposals will be opened immediately thereafter. All envelopes must be marked on the outside distinctly as follows: Sealed proposals for the purchase of Series F, 4%, 1925 Highway Loan to be opened at 12 o'clock noon (standard time), Thursday, September 10, 1925.

This issue is a part of a loan authorized by an amendment to Article IX, Section 4 of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania approved by vote of the people at the November election, 1923, and by an Act approved the 6th day of March, 1925.

The bonds now offered, amounting in the aggregate to $20,000,000, will be dated September 1, 1925, and will be payable at the Philadelphia National Bank, of Philadelphia, Loan and Transfer Agent of the Commonwealth, in lawful money on their respective maturity dates as follows:

$2,000,000	September 1, 1931	$2,000,000	September 1, 1943
$2,000,000	September 1, 1933	$2,000,000	September 1, 1946
$2,000,000	September 1, 1936	$2,000,000	September 1, 1948
$2,000,000	September 1, 1938	$2,000,000	September 1, 1951
$2,000,000	September 1, 1941	$2,000,000	September 1, 1953

Interest at the rate of 4 per centum per annum will be paid semi-annually on March 1st and September 1st, at the office of the Loan and Transfer Agent of the Commonwealth in Philadelphia.

Certificates in registered form will be issued in such amounts as the purchasers may require, in the sum of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000, $50,000 and $100,000; and in coupon form in the sum of $1,000. Said certificates will be interchangeable as to form.

Negotiable interim certificates will be issued if desired, pending the engraving of definitive certificates and may be obtained from the Loan and Transfer Agent on the day that payment is made for the Loan, or thereafter.

Proposals must be made upon the prescribed form of blanks, copies of which may be obtained upon application at the office of the Governor or from the Loan and Transfer Agent.

No bid will be considered unless accompanied by a certified check or certificate of deposit drawn to the order of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for an amount at least equal to 2 per centum of the principal of the loan for which the bid is made. Checks or certificates of deposit accompanying bids not accepted will be returned by mail to the bidders within forty-eight hours from the time of opening the bids. Deposits of successful bidders will be applied in partial payment of the amount of the Loan awarded to them. No allowance will be made for interest on such payment from the time a bid is submitted to the time of settlement.

Settlement for the bonds awarded must be made in full, with the Philadelphia National Bank, Loan and Transfer Agent for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, on Tuesday, September 15, 1925. Such settlement must include interest at 4% accrued from September 1, 1925, to September 15, 1925.

With the exception of $46,388,000 of bonds issued under an Act approved the 18th day of April, 1919, and $20,000,000 of bonds issued under an Act approved the 6th day of March, 1925, the State is free of all bonded indebtedness not now provided for by moneys in the Sinking Fund, and in addition has in the State Bond Road Sinking Fund investments of a par value of $327,000, and cash amounting to $1,657,339.23.

The bonds now offered are a legal investment for trust funds in Pennsylvania.

GIFFORD PINCHOT, Governor
EDWARD MARTIN, Auditor General
SAMUEL S. LEWIS, State Treasurer.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—4 per cent. for the best names. Wednesday—4 per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

***

Novelty Shirts Still Lead.

Novelties continue to lead in the sales of shirts for Fall, most of these new patterns and colors being preferred in the collar-to-match style rather than the collar attached variety, while the neckband shirt remains at a standstill. It is said that the popularity of these novelties is hurting the sale of the cheaper broadcloth shirts, although in the better varieties the latter material is still popular. Lighter backgrounds are the rule, with small figured effects favored upon these rather than the stripes which hitherto have been popular. In the higher priced range of goods, fancy madras shirts and various pleated varieties are also selling well.

Lace Buying Disappointing.

Widespread use of laces, which was presaged for the Fall by Paris fashions in many lines of women's apparel, has thus far failed to bring greatly increased activity to local importers. The demand has been large in variety, but disappointing from the standpoint of sales volume. This is attributed to the general backwardness of buyer and their refusal to anticipate their requirements. Metal laces especially are said to be thought highly of, but there have been no reorders as yet. Colorful varieties in Chinese reds and blues, particularly in 18-inch widths for sleeves, are also indicated for popularity. If the emphasized waistline is brought back, it is expected that 36-inch widths of lace will lead the 54-inch variety in demand.

Gray Goods Trading More Active.

A great deal more activity than for several days previously featured trading in gray goods yesterday. Most of the transactions involved spot goods. Prices were a shade easier, which was said to account for the larger amount of business done. Sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made by first hands at 10¼ cents. For 38½-inch 64-60s buyers paid 9⅝ cents for September delivery and 9¼ cents for October shipment. Eight cents was paid for 38½-inch 60-48s, while the 7.15 construction was traded in at 7½ cents. In sheetings sales of 36-inch 5.50s were made at 7⅝ cents for quick goods. Pajama checks, drills and sateens were quiet.

New Leathers for Shoes.

Five new fancy leathers for shoes are being shown by a leading leather goods concern here. The leathers are caracul, which has an appearance of the fur of the same name; moire, snake, suede alligator and white washable calf. While for the present these leathers are featured for the style division of the shoe trade, they will shortly be available for popular-priced shoe manufacture. The white washable calf leather is being widely used at present in sample shoes for the Southern resort season during the coming Winter. Its washable feature is one that will make its use possible for men's sport shoes, as well as women's style and sport footwear.

Worsteds Not Cheap Enough.

Although worsteds are favored for the better range of men's overcoats for the Fall, it is said that the prices of them are still somewhat too high for the medium-priced garments. Hence smooth-faced goods are favored for the latter class of merchandise, although the serviceability of worsteds is generally recognized. The smooth-faced goods for overcoats are frequently of the through-and-through variety, as distinguished from the plaid-back materials of former seasons, which required two thicknesses of cloth. The new goods are made heavier but cost less than the total of both materials that formerly went into construction of the coat.

New Keyless Luggage Lock.

A new keyless luggage lock is being offered the trade by a well-known manufacturer here. The feature of this lock is a simple combination arrangement which works without the use of tumblers or springs. The device has three dials on its front which control slots in the interior mechanism. These dials bear numbers from 0 to 9 and may be set to any combination of these figures. This is done by adjusting a small shaft in the back of the lock. Thereafter, when the numbers to which the combination is set appear on the dials the pushing of a small button will cause the lock to open. To close it one of the dials is turned to another number. The combination may be changed as often as desired, a thousand different variations being possible on the three dials. The lock is made of solid brass and is of English design. It is adaptable to suit cases, kit bags, auto trunks, payroll bags, golf bags, &c. Delivery to luggage manufacturers can be made after Sept. 1. The lock is described as fool-proof and as having nothing that will get out of order, owing to its simple construction.

Price Rise in Leather Luggage.

Manufacturers of leather luggage are likely to make another price advance on this merchandise before long, it was said yesterday. An increase of approximately 8 per cent. was made in June. This advance, however, has not proved sufficient to take care of the higher market in hides and leather. One factor making for the increased prices of the latter was said to be the large recent operations for export of German tanners in the hide markets here, which caught the domestic tanners unprepared and curtailed supplies. The larger sizes of suit cases and kit bags have been selling well, according to manufacturers. Cowhide merchandise has dominated, but a nice business is being done in English pigskin luggage. The russet color is preferred. The divided case, which provides special sections for soiled garments and shirts, has taken well.

Coat Colors Are Varied.

New colors added to the range of cashmere woolen and worsted fabrics for the Fall season of the Forstmann & Huffman Company are cotinga, bluebird and kingfisher. The absence of any single outstanding color in the Fall materials for women's coats is looked upon as beneficial to the industry as a whole. One advantage pointed out is the possibility of women buying more than one coat, which is remote when a single shade dominates the field. Another benefit derived from the rather equal popularity of several colors is the unlikelihood of a shortage of material because of concentrated demand upon a single hue.

Trends in Glove Styles.

Reversible cuffs in women's gloves for Fall are said be in considerable demand. These cuffs may be worn straight back, in which case a contrasting color shows. For conservative wear the cuff may be worn in the normal way. Chamois and doeskin gloves are also showing strength, and this demand is expected to carry through the coming season into the Spring. Slip-on fabric gloves are likewise a leading variety and their popularity in the Spring is forecast, although the gloves with cuffs are expected to retain the lead.

Huth Fur Sale Offerings.

The value of the skins to be offered at the Autumn fur auction of Frederick Huth & Co. on Sept. 8 at the Hotel McAlpin will approximate $4,000,000, it was announced yesterday. The sale will continue through Sept. 17, with the skins being available for inspection from Sept. 2. Among the more important offerings are 829,000 squirrel, 313,000 muskrat, 32,500 red fox, 25,750 mink, 45,000 wolf, 45,300 American opossum and 11,000 beaver skins. Comparatively small offerings of American furs will be made, although these varieties have been in the greatest demand during the present season. The beaver offering is expected to attract much interest owing to the restricted supplies of these pelts and the favor accorded them for trimming purposes.

RAISE RATE ON RADIO SETS.

Freight Tariffs Increased From 20 to 50% by Commerce Board.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—Radio receiving sets acquired a definite place in railroad freight schedules and became subject to higher freight rates in a decision today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The decision increased the rates on radio sets and radio sets and talking machines combined in less than carload lots from first-class rate to one and one-half times the first-class rate. In many cases the increase would be 50 per cent. When shipped in carload lots the increase would be about 20 per cent. The commission held that the practice of shipping radio sets and talking machines combined as second-class with a minimum weight of 16,000 pounds per carload should remain unchanged.

The case was brought before the commission when carriers published new freight schedules raising the radio classification. Operation of the schedules was suspended on protest of the Radio Corporation of America, the Radio Manufacturers' Association of Chicago, the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce and others. Today's decision ordered these new schedules canceled.

Radio receiving sets heretofore have been shipped as electric appliances and musical instruments.

MISS FLETCHER DUE ON THE BERENGARIA

Engagement of Indianapolis Girl to German Count Is Said to Be Opposed by His Father.

LINER BETTERS ITS RECORD

The President Roosevelt Makes Trop From Queenstown in Six Days and Twenty Minutes.

The President Roosevelt of the United States Line arrived yesterday after breaking her own record. She made the distance from Queenstown in six days and twenty minutes, and at an average speed of about twenty knots an hour. She had previously covered the distance between Cherbourg and New York at an average of little over nineteen knots an hour. The United American liner Resolute also docked yesterday from Hamburg, Southampton and Cherbourg with 730 passengers.

The Cunarder Berengaria with many notables on board will reach her pier today. Among those in her cabin is Miss Louise Fletcher, daughter of Stoughton A. Fletcher of Indianapolis, whose engagement to Count Ernst Gottfried von Schmettow of Germany, was recently announced. According to a cable dispatch the Count's father has interposed objections to the match. Another report said that the Count will shortly follow Miss Fletcher to Indianapolis.

Miss Leonora Cahill, the St. Louis girl with whom the Prince of Wales danced on his trip to this country last year is coming in with her mother, Mrs. James G. Cahill. Miss Zelia Russell, actress, who is reported to have set the velvet gown fashion at Deauville also will arrive on the Berengaria.

Other passengers include:

Mrs. G. Cohan-Souther,
Mrs. J. E. Spingarn,
Dr. J. E. Sheehan,
Mrs. Sheehan,
Miss Peggy Sheehan,
Col. and Mrs. Wilson Potter,
Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Lord,

Of last month's silver exports, amounting in all to $8,349,304, China took $4,847,559 and British India $2,907,009. The $5,228,437 imports of silver came mainly from Mexico, which sent $3,435,848, but $778,591 came from Canada and $605,869 from Peru, receipts from other quarters being small.

ELECTRIC INVESTORS, INC.

Holders to Consider Stock Increase and Conversion Sept. 18.

A special meeting of the stockholders of Electric Investors, Inc., has been called for Sept. 18 to approve certain recommendations already approved by the Board of Directors.

These include a proposal to increase the capital stock of the company from 1,050,000 to 1,200,000 shares, consisting of preferred, $6 preferred stock and common stock, and one to authorize the directors or the Executive Committee to convert at any time any of the outstanding $6 preferred stock, and to elect a board of eleven directors to hold office until the next annual meeting.

PRICES OF LIVE STOCK LIKELY TO DECLINE

Federal Survey Sees Sheep Ending a High Run—Beef Alone May Hold Its Market.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—The sheep industry apparently is just approaching the end of a period of high prices, the Department of Agriculture declared today in an outlook report on lambs and wool.

Fairly well sustained prices for lambs for the remainder of the year, but possibly lower prices for Spring lambs in 1926 are to be expected, while the outlook for wool, it was added, is uncertain, with lower prices probable next year unless an increased demand develops.

"Should the number of breeding ewes and lamb production be further increased, as now seems likely, that would result in an increased production of wool in this country," the department continued. "The recovery of wool prices from the post-war depression is stimulating foreign countries also to increase production. The Australian wool crop is expected to be larger than last year's, and increases in the number of sheep in Europe also indicate larger wool clips there next Spring.

"The prospective increase in supply, however, is not so great as to cause further marked decline in prices unless there should be a decline in the demand for woolen goods, a decline in the general price level or a slump in business activity.

"In addition hog prices will probably swing downward and it seems unlikely that beef prices will be maintained at the high level of this Fall. Further, it seems unlikely that industrial activity will be continued indefinitely at the present high level. With the general level of prices remaining the same, the still larger marketing of lambs, coupled with lower prices of other meat animals, would result in a downward trend of lamb prices beginning with the Spring of 1926 and through 1927."

Summarizing the report, the department says:

"The sheep industry apparently is just approaching the end of a period of high prices.

"Further large increases in sheep production will require buying breeding ewes at fancy prices or holding valuable stock off the market. The probabilities are against this stock being relatively as valuable in 1926 or 1927.

"As between sheep and beef cattle, consideration should be given to the possibility that beef prices may tend upward during the next few years, while sheep and wool prices seem likely to tend downward. Present beef prices reflect merely an unusual temporary situation; prices during the next year may be lower than at present but with an upward trend."

AUTO SALES SPURRED BY PRICE REDUCTIONS

Bus, Truck and Accessories Dealers Prospering, Journal Finds —No More Cuts Likely.

The recent reductions in the prices of all classes of automobiles have stimulated sales, according to the current issue of Automotive Industries. "Both production and sales are running at the highest level of the industry for this time of year," says the paper.

"There has been little, if any, overproduction so far, and dealers' stocks are in excellent condition, with some of them complaining of inability to obtain sufficient numbers of the new cars. The used car situation is not quite so favorable, since lower prices on the new models have had the effect of making the used cars harder to dispose of without reductions.

"Bus and truck manufacturers are in even better condition than the car makers, since the demand for their products has been so great there was no need for price cuts. Parts and accessories manufacturers are sharing in the general prosperity, a compilation by Automotive Industries showing that profits in this end of the business increased in the first six months of 1925 an average of 89 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year.

"Profits for car manufacturers are not likely to be as great during the last half of the year as they were in the first, as they are now feeling perhaps the fiercest competition they have ever known. The price cuts, however, are not as damaging financially as they might appear, as notable economies in production have been introduced in most instances. The feeling is that no further reductions will be made, except in two or three possible cases."

PIPE CONCERNS MAY MERGE

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Universal Pipe Combination Rumored.

According to rumors circulated in the financial district yesterday negotiations are under way which may result in the consolidation of the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company and the Universal Pipe and Radiator Company. This report was not confirmed. According to the rumors, a new company will be organized to acquire the capital stock of both corporations. Under the plan, it is stated, stockholders of the United States Cast Iron Pipe Company will receive four shares of the capital stock of the new corporation in exchange for one share of stock now held. Stockholders of the Universal Pipe will receive one share for each share now held. Holders of preferred, it is stated, may receive bonds in the new company.

Despite the absence of official information, the securities of both companies were strong and active on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. United States Cast Iron Pipe advanced 12 points to 177 and closed at 176½. Universal Pipe advanced to 38¼ and closed at 37⅞, an advance of 2⅜ points for the day. Universal Pipe preferred advanced to 80¾ and closed at 80¼, up 1⅜ for the day. Cast Iron Pipe preferred advanced from 103½ to 110 and closed at 108, up 4 points for the day.

MERGER EXPECTED SOON.

Most of the Arnold, Constable Directors Have Favored Plan.

A majority of the stockholders of Arnold, Constable & Co., have approved the proposal to consolidate the store with M. I. Stewart & Co., according to a statement issued yesterday by R. B. Peck, President of Arnold, Constable & Co.

According to Mr. Peck, 111,730 shares of the stock of Arnold, Constable & Co. has been deposited with the Chase National Bank to date. At the rate the stock is being deposited, he adds, the plan will become effective in the near future.

"The action of the stockholders is particularly gratifying to the committee in charge of the plan for the combination," says Mr. Peck, "as it is very desirable to put the project into effect as soon as possible so as to enable the management of both stores to proceed with their new and enlarged plans for a greatly increased Fall business. Plans include the immediate addition of capital sufficient to enable Arnold, Constable & Co. to amplify their stock and operate the store on a much more profitable scale which insures a very bright outlook for the stockholders of the company."

SHERIDAN REALIZES $2,823,000 AT AUCTION

900 Long Beach Properties Sold Between 3 P. M. and Midnight—5,000 Attend.

A total of $2,823,000 was realized on the sale of 900 Long Beach properties last Saturday afternoon and evening, according to Arthur C. Sheridan under whose direction the auction was held. The sale was attended by more than 5,000 persons.

The sale originally comprised 600 boardwalk and boulevard houses and lots, but during the sale Mr. Sheridan added 300 more parcels. The record price paid during the sale was for five lots on the boardwalk facing Hotel Nassau, which brought $305,000, and was sold to clients of Louis E. Felix, attorney, who will improve with a hotel. Park Street lots went for as high as $16,500 each.

The highest price paid for a house was $48,500, by Max Beringer, who bought an eighteen-room house on Broadway. Among the buyers was Edward J. Farrel, James J. McCabe, I. O. Wolfe, Frank L. Barbieri, Ely Rosenberg, Murray Holt, Frederick Cody, Hope Fitzgerald, Edward C. Weinreb, Francis J. Hogan and Joseph M. Herzberg.

"Texas" Guinan, part owner of a Broadway Night Club in New York City, bought several boardwalk lots further down the boardwalk near Lido.

The sale was one of the largest ever held in Long Beach and buyers came from all parts of the metropolitan district to attend.

SYNDICATE TAKES OVER FORDHAM ROAD SITES

Logan Billingsley and Associates Plan Improvements Costing $5,000,000 for Bronx Plots.

In anticipation of an eastward movement of business in the Fordham section of the Bronx, a syndicate headed by Logan Billingsley completed the purchase of nearly one-half the property on East Fordham Road between Third Avenue and Southern Boulevard. More than $2,000,000 is involved in the purchase price of the plots acquired by the syndicate.

Immediately upon completing the assembly of their purchases, negotiations for which were conducted quietly for the past month, Billingsley and his associates announced that they would start at once to improve the section with modern automobile salesrooms and service stations and store properties of the type that have proven so popular on Fordham Road west of Third Avenue. These improvements will involve an outlay of upward of $5,000,000.

On that section of their holdings adjoining the campus and buildings of Fordham University, the syndicate plans to erect a group of modern six-story apartment houses with "efficiency apartments," to consist mainly of one-room apartments equipped with "day beds" and all the modern space and labor-saving housekeeping equipment.

The syndicate will also erect a modern two-story bank and business building on one of its plots at the southeast corner of East Fordham Road and Belmont Avenue. This building, on a plot 51x107 feet, will contain a modern banking room on the corner with three stores on Belmont Avenue and two stores fronting on Fordham Road. The upper floor will contain modern offices.

East Fordham Road, being the connecting link between the Pelham Parkway and the Boston Post Road, forms the main easterly entrance to the City of New York. The entire motor traffic to and from the New England States passes over this highway from the Grand Concourse. Operators and observers who have watched closely the trend of development in the Bronx predict that the section is destined to become one of the busiest business developments in the northerly borough.

Buyer Resells Multi-Family House on Boardwalk at Reported Profit of $25,000.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY SALES

Client of Olvany, Eisner & Donnelly Buys Holdings Valued at $1,000,000.

The Chester Development Company sold the Weiss apartment house, a four-story building on a lot 20 by 125 feet, on the Boardwalk between Long Beach and Riverside Boulevard, Long Beach.

The property was sold to Milton Oppenheimer for $100,000. Mr. Oppenheimer later resold his contract to an investor at a reported price of $125,000. Edward J. Farrell was the broker in the original sale.

Rose Hirsch has bought from Long Beach-on-Ocean, Inc., a plot of five lots at the southeast corner of Park Street and Pacific Boulevard, Long Beach. The property has a frontage of 100 feet on each thoroughfare and will be improved by the new owner.

Five lots on Penn Street, near National Boulevard, have been sold by I. O. Wolff for a client to Herman Goldstein for $14,000. The same broker sold to Edgar Ryan a plot of fifteen lots on Beach Street for $30,500.

The Hatch-Gazan Company bought for a client ten Belle Harbor lots held for a total of $45,000. The sellers were Patrick J. O'Beirne, three lots; Walkin Realty Company, four lots, and Daniel R. McDonald, three lots.

The same brokers sold for Frank Rawlings the corner of Cronston Avenue and Beach 126th Street to Margaret Culkin.

Sheepshead Bay Sales.

Olvany, Eisner & Donnelly bought for a client of their office the following parcels in Sheepshead Bay: The block front on the north side of Emmons Avenue, between Ocean Avenue and Nineteenth Street; 260 feet on the south side of Emmons Avenue, with riparian rights; the Dominick Hotel, 168 by 282 feet, on Emmons Avenue, opposite Sheepshead Bay Road, with riparian rights; sixty dwellings, known as the Waldorf bungalows, consisting of a plot 200 feet on Emmons Avenue by 400 feet, with riparian rights, adjoining the new Marine Park; a plot 28 by 100 feet on Emmons Avenue, corner of Brown Street.

These purchases involved $1,000,000. The buyer plans extensive improvements in the near future.

J. Peribonia has purchased, through the Halleran Agency, the vacant plot 60 by 100 feet on the northwest corner of Mitchell Avenue and Twenty-third Street, Flushing. Mr. Peribonia intends to erect a seven-room dwelling with a two-car garage for occupancy. The seller was Jeanette Milne of New York City.

Rose, Kaplan & Wallace, Inc., have sold for Norris J. Roth a plot of 193 lots in the Auburndale section of Queens. The same brokers also sold a plot 100 by 100 feet, at the corner of State and Twenty-seventh Streets, Flushing. Also sold a one-family house on Thirtieth Street, north of Broadway, Flushing, For May Smidt to Minnie Bein for occupancy. The property was sold for $15,000.

William G. McClane sold for the Wasserman Plumbing and Heating Company a one-family house at 3,461 Sixty-first Street, Astoria, to Edward Routh; also sold for the Tisdale Lumber Company to John McCarthy the one-family house at 6,123 Broadway, Woodside; and for Bridget and Patrick McInery to Mary Eyiyak the two-family dwelling at 947 Seventh Avenue, Astoria.

The propert of the Law estate, consisting of more than one and one-half acres, at Woodside, L. I., was sold by Charles I. Friedman to Joseph A. Levy, operator.

Westchester Deals.

Yates & Gary have sold for Robert T. Wood his property near Cold Spring-on-Hudson, containing five acres of land, together with a remodeled Colonial residence and outbuildings. The purchaser is S. J. Mathews, who plans to occupy.

E. V. Siedle has sold for Charles A. Meller about an acre and a half on Grand View Avenue, Rye, to Harold W. Jennys, who plans to improve same with a residence.

The following sales were made by H. A. Lockwood & Co. at Hutchinson Manor: Plots on Parkview Drive to Ada Harnelt, A. M. Blomberg, A. Collins, William F. Borsdorff and H. H. Ball, and a plot on Archer Drive to Eric R. Johnson.

Jersey City Transactions.

The four-story brick apartment on a plot 50 by 103 feet at 148 and 150 Kensington Avenue was sold by the Park View Development Company, Hyman Pollack, President, to Barry L. Balch. The consideration was $114,000.

Paul Reibel sold to Mrs. Elizabeth Hendrickson the four-story brick flat 93 Garrison Avenue, on a plot 30 by 75 feet, and the two-family dwelling 142 Glenwood Avenue, held at $70,000.

Benjamin Cantor transferred to the R. D. Realty Company a plot 125 by 140 feet, located on the north side of Glenwood Avenue, between West Side Avenue and the Boulevard, valued at $24,000.

John Conversano bought from Dominic Bellezza for $15,500 the two-story frame dwelling 812 Pavonia Avenue.

Samuel Ponger and Nathan Silverstein sold the four-story brick eight-family flat, on a plot 37.2 by 125 feet, on the north side of Woodlawn Avenue, adjoining the corner of Ocean Avenue, for $36,500 to Anna Carey.

Joseph Yulinsky bought from Israel Max the two semi-detached frame dwellings, on a plot 75 by 126 feet, at 166 and 168 Danforth Avenue. The buildings will be razed and a brick apartment erected on the site.

Melbro Realty Corporation sold to William J. Charlock for $13,000 the two-family dwelling 379 Woodlawn Avenue, on a plot 30 by 97 feet.

Uffe Barfod bought the two-story flat 157 Congress Street, at the corner of Passaic Avenue, for $14,500 from Albert L. Kumpa.

Eugene V. Welsh has sold for David and Thomas F. Morrissey the property at 48½ Madison Street, Morristown, to Mrs. Mary Lonergan.

BUY an Apartment Home High Above the Hudson

Live in a Home of your Own, in a location easily and quickly accessible from business, shopping, theatres and all other attractions of the Great City—where you also will have the trees, green grass and fresh air of a country place... No need of commuting to a suburb; the problem of living in the city economically has been solved by 100% Cooperative Ownership.

Owning Your Apartment Cuts Rent in Half

BUY, instead of RENT your apartment; and put a landlord's profit in your pocket. Each purchaser of a Hudson View Gardens home owns part of the whole property, pays only his portion of maintenance cost and profits by the increase in land values.

3, 4 or 5 ROOMS

Purchase Price $4300 to $9100 for Equity in Elevator and non-Elevator Apartments

A moderate payment down puts you in immediate possession; the balance to be paid monthly. Every effort will be made to meet your financial requirements. Half the amount you would pay for equal accommodations elsewhere covers all operating expenses at Hudson View Gardens; the other half buys your home.... Housekeeping is easy in these beautiful apartments fitted with dish-washing machines, automatic refrigeration (no ice needed), garbage incinerator chutes, kitchen cabinets. There is a private playground and nursery; and hotel service whenever you want it: a restaurant, beauty parlor, steam laundry and commissary—where you can buy first class meats and groceries at a saving. Maids are available by the hour.

SCARSDALE—Exclusively.

SCARSDALE is due for a boom. Gas—the one modern convenience it lacked—has just been put in. SCARSDALE is the only suburban town zoned and absolutely protected from the apartment builder. Assessments and taxes are extremely low. The train service—there are two railroads—is unsurpassed; only 38 minutes to Grand Central Station. Schools are excellent, and there are numerous fine churches, clubs and shops. Excellent motor roads to SCARSDALE.

BUY NOW IN SCARSDALE.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The northeastern disturbance has increased considerably in intensity during the past twenty-four hours and a trough of low pressure now extends from the Canadian Maritime Provinces southwestward to Northeastern Texas. Another disturbance of considerable intensity is advancing rapidly southeastward from Alaska over the Canadian Northwest. The northwestern high pressure area has moved slowly eastward and southeastward and it is now extending from the Hudson Bay region southwestward to Northern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

Pressure is also relatively high off the Pacific Coast and east of Florida. This pressure distribution has been attended by local thundershowers within the last twenty-four hours in Northern New England, the Middle Atlantic States, the lake region and the Ohio, the lower Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys, Nebraska and Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Northern Arizona and Western Arkansas.

Elsewhere the weather has continued fair. Cooler weather has overspread the lake region, the Ohio and upper Mississippi Valleys, the Southern Plains States, the Southern Rocky Mountain region and the interior of the Middle Atlantic States. The temperature was higher Thursday in Montana, Idaho and Eastern Washington and the Canadian Northwest and abnormally warm weather again prevailed in the Southern States, many stations reporting a maximum of 100 degrees or slightly above.

At Macon, Ga., and Charlotte, N. C., the temperature reached 104 degrees, which is the highest ever recorded at these places, and 106 at Augusta, Ga., which is the highest of record at that place for August.

There will be showers almost generally in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States and Tennessee and in portions of the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic on Friday, and local thunder showers are probable in the extreme South on Saturday.

Otherwise generally fair weather will prevail Friday and Saturday east of the Mississippi River. The temperature will be lower Friday in Tennessee and the Atlantic and East Gulf States, except the extreme South. The temperature will remain moderate in the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region Friday and in the Atlantic States on Saturday, while there will be a reaction to higher temperature during Saturday in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday, the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M., and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

United States District Court, Southern District of New York.—THE PIERCE HARDWARE COMPANY, Complainant, against BLANCKE TWIST DRILL AND TOOL CO., INC., Defendant.—No. E 21-274.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that Percival Wilds, Esq., the receiver herein, has filed his final account and report with the Clerk of this Court, showing a balance in his hands, as receiver, in the sum of $23,153.46 subject to the payment of administration expenses, wage claims and a first and final dividend to general creditors, and that pursuant to an order of the Hon. Henry W. Goddard, U. S. District Judge, a meeting of creditors will be held thereon before the Judge presiding in this Court on the 15th day of September, 1925, at 10:30 A. M. of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, in Room 235 of the Old Post Office Building, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, at which time all creditors of the above-named defendant and all other persons interested in this estate are directed to show cause why the receiver's account should not be passed as filed and he be discharged of his trust, as receiver; why allowance and disbursements should not be made to the receiver, to Myers & Goldsmith, solicitors for the complainant; to Zalkin & Cohen and Myers & Goldsmith, solicitors for the receiver; to Wollman & Wollman and to Storey, Thorndike, Palmer & Dodge of New York and Boston, Mass., respectively, solicitors for the defendant; to Woodwin, Parker, Raymond & Comstock, solicitors for the receiver in Boston, Mass.; to Bernard Reis & Co., accountants, for services and disbursements in this proceeding, and the payment in full to wage claimants, and why the balance remaining in the hands of the receiver after the payment of the foregoing items should not be apportioned pro rata as a first and final dividend to the general creditors who have filed claims in this proceeding, and why the receiver should not have such other and further relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the report and account of the receiver and the various petitions for allowances are on file in the office of the Clerk of this Court where same may be inspected.

Dated, New York, August 11th, 1925.

PERCIVAL WILDS, Receiver,
2 Rector Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.
ZALKIN & COHEN, 49 Chambers Street, and MYERS & GOLDSMITH, 100 Broadway, New York City, Solicitors for the Receiver.

BANK HELD LIABLE IN INVESTOR'S LOSS

Court Holds Gotham National Officers Misled a Man on a $15,000 Loan.

RECOMMENDED AS SOUND

Money Lent on Representations That a Weak Company Had Ample Assets.

Holding that officers of the Gotham National Bank had made fraudulent representations regarding the soundness of an investment, Justice Leander B. Faber in the Equity Term of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn decided yesterday that the bank was jointly responsible for the return of $9,318 to Miles R. Martin Jr. In April, 1923, Martin made a loan of $15,000 to the Montville Construction Company, of which Patrick J. O'Shea was owner. The loan was made on the representation to Martin by Charles H. Banning and Henry E. Lockwood, at that time Assistant Vice President and "special representative," respectively, of the Gotham Bank, that the assets of the Montville Construction Company had been investigated by the bank and were ample to secure the loan, the testimony showed.

Prior to April, 1923, Martin alleged, the bank had loaned $2,450 to O'Shea and his company. The note was protested for non-payment. This note, Martin asserted, was paid by the Montville Construction Company following his advance to the concern of the $15,000.

Martin came to New York from the Southwest with between $15,000 and $25,000, which he desired to invest in an enterprise in which he also wished to take an active part. A friend named Lewis, the only man Martin knew in New York, gave him a letter of introduction to Banning, which he presented. A few days later, he set forth, Banning asked him to call at the bank, where Banning and Lockwood told him about the Montville Construction Company, recommending that he invest $15,000 therein.

They told Martin, he alleged, that O'Shea had $80,000 in real estate, that the company owned $38,000 worth of machinery, and that, moreover, Martin had the benefit of the Gotham Bank's investigation of O'Shea's and his company assets. All these representations, Martin alleged, were false, as he subsequently learned. As the result of the representations, he said, he advanced the $15,000 with the understanding that he was to be employed at a weekly salary of $100 as well as to have an interest in the construction company. The concern's failure to live up to this part of the agreement first excited his suspicions. On his attempt to get back his money, according to the testimony, he got only $5,681.31, on May 19, 1923. He thereupon began suit against the bank, Banning, Lockwood, O'Shea and the Montville Construction Company.

Justice Faber in his decision pointed out that the records of the notes of the Montville company filed in the bank showed the financial weakness of O'Shea, yet the bank had recommended the loan.

"The note of $2,450," he said, "owing to the bank and past due was uncollectible, and the bank stood in a position to lose that amount. It would have lost it had not the plaintiff advanced $15,000 on the fraudulent representations of Banning and Lockwood."

The responsibility of the bank for actions of the individual defendants, as well as the denial by the bank and the two officials that an investigation of O'Shea's assets had been made, were other points discussed in the Justice's decision.

"It is incredible," he said, "that the plaintiff would loan $15,000 without some assurance from Banning and Lockwood that such a loan would be amply secured.

"Having reached the conclusion that the defendants, Banning and Lockwood, did knowingly make the false statements complained of, there is presented the question as to the bank's liability for the acts of Banning and Lockwood.

"We have here the defendant bank profiting by the fraud of its agents. It failed to repudiate them and refused to make restitution when the fraud was brought to its attention.

"The proof justifies the conclusion that all the defendants participated in the fraud and are equally liable. Judgment is directed in favor of the plaintiff against all the defendants, with costs."

ADOLPH SEGAL ARRESTED.

Former Promoter Is Charged With Passing Worthless Check.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Adolph Segal, who astounded financial circles of this city eleven years ago by his promotion schemes, was arrested today on charges growing out of the alleged passing of a worthless check for $400. Segal lives in the Clayton Apartments, Ninety-second Street and Broadway, New York City, but maintains an office here. He was released on bail for a hearing this morning.

The warrant was obtained by Howard Montieth of the Morris China Company of Trenton, N. J. Monteith alleges that Segal gave the worthless check to him in payment of interest on a promissory note for $2,500.

To Nolle Prosse Pipe Indictment.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP).—United States Attorney Buckner, at New York, has been authorized by Attorney Sargent to nolle prosse the indictment returned in 1921 against the Central Foundry Company and members of the Eastern Soil Pipe Manufacturers' Association for alleged conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce in cast-iron pipes and fittings.

Cambridge Court

Demonstrating the Economy of the Jackson Heights Plan of 100% Cooperative Ownership

THE FACT that you Save Half Your Rent by purchasing a Garden Apartment at Jackson Heights is the best evidence of the soundness and economy of ownership as compared with the payment of rent which gives you nothing but rent receipts.

Cambridge Court Garden Apartments are a new group of buildings of the same high standard that makes all Jackson Heights Garden Apartments, with their surroundings of landscaped gardens and wide parked streets, so attractive to the families who live in the most carefully restricted residential section of New York City.

The apartments are of five and six rooms and two baths, with a sunroom equipped with full size disappearing bed and dressing closet, which makes a desirable guest room.

These Cambridge Court Garden Apartments range in equity price from $10,000 to $16,000 under the Jackson Heights Plan of 100% Cooperative Ownership. A modest initial payment gives you possession and thereafter you make regular monthly payments of from $145 to $193 the same as rent. Approximately one-half of each monthly payment is applied to the purchase and the balance to maintaining your apartment.

Jackson Heights offers fine private and public schools; the second largest tennis club on Long Island; safeguarded playgrounds for the children.
